DECEMBER AND MAY MARRIAGE

Did Not Result in Making Life One Grand Sweet Song

A special dispatch from this city to the Portland Journal says:

Mrs. J. S. Clark, aged 35, has deserted her husband, a well-known confectioner, with whom she has lived happily for the past ten years, and presumably eloped with her stepson, Henry Clark, aged 23. Her husband is grief-stricken, but says:

"She has broken my heart, but if she will return to me all will be forgiven."

Mrs. Clark left her home at 702 North Front street on Wednesday last without intimating to her husband that she had any intention of deserting him. The story is a pathetic one, for Mrs. Clark has deserted a loving husband and a pleasant home to run away with a mere youth.

Married Ten Years.

Clark was a widower with three children, when he met the woman who so cruelly deserted him, something over 10 years ago in California. He married the woman and brought her to his home, and the little family lived happily up to five years ago. At that time the oldest boy, Henry, had a falling out with his stepmother, and left home. He remained away until last fall, when he returned. The father was glad to welcome him back and was pleased to note that the boy and the stepmother were friendly towards each other.

But scarcely a month had elapsed until the father and husband had reason to suspect that the kisses and caresses indulged in by the son and wife were rather warmer than the relationship between them would warrant. A month ago the father and son had a stormy interview, in which the former accused the latter of trying to wreck his home, and young Clark was ordered to leave the shelter of the paternal roof.

After Henry Clark's departure Mrs. Clark was moody and sullen. The husband did everything in his power to cheer her up, and at no time did he upbraid her or charge her with infidelity. Last Wednesday morning Mrs. Clark packed up her belongings, after her husband had gone to his place of business for the day. A 16-year-old boy was at home sick in bed at the time, but he did not know what was going on until he heard a noise in the lower part of the house, and on looking out of the window saw an expressman driving away with a trunk belonging to Mrs. Clark, an organ and several other articles of furniture.

When the boy got down stairs Mrs. Clark had disappeared. Although very weak, the youth managed to dress himself and laboriously made his way to his father's place of business with the news, but by that time the woman had disappeared as though the earth had swallowed her. The organ and furniture were afterwards found in a local storage establishment, and reclaimed by Mr. Clark.

In addition to the boy a 13-year-old girl was also left by the heartless woman, who had all along professed the greatest love for her stepchildren.

Injured Man Would Forgive.

Clark feels the disgrace keenly. He bears an excellent reputation and neighbors assert that he had always treated his wife with every consideration. That he loves the woman is made plain by the fact that he declares he is willing to forgive everything if she will but return to his home.

Mrs. Clark is a woman 35 years old, although she claims to be several years younger. Young Clark, for whom she is supposed to have deserted her home, is 23 years of age. He is inclined to be lazy, and has never learned any trade by which he might earn a living. Fear of notoriety has kept Clark from placing the matter in the hands of the officers of the law, and he still hopes that the recalcitrant wife will return to the home she has disgraced.

OPENED CHINESE NEW YEAR

Lee Yick Served Bat Pie to Number of White Friends

Chinese new year was opened in this city Monday night with great eclat. The most elaborate and formal as well as the most highly enjoyable of the functions that attended the auspicious event was a big banquet that was given last evening by Lee Yick, the pioneer Salem restaurateur to a number of his white friends. The entertainment was costly and the viands were elegantly served.

Lee Yick has been in Salem for fifteen years and during that time has made many friends among the business men and this supper was in honor of some of these.

The dining room was decorated in oriental splendor and the menu contained among other delicacies, chow yien, chy souey weong wa, boneless chicken, salted pumpkin seeds, rice gin, rice whiskey, water melon rind broiled, wines, cordials and liquors.

Among those present were Frank Haas, Joseph Fishbone, W. W. Zinn, E. Cooke Patton, Watt Shipp, Ray Gilbert, H. D. Patton, Ben Taylor, Fred Kurtz, H. W. Myers, C. M. Lockwood and others.

Mr. Yick was assisted in receiving by Charlie Ken, Wong Fung and Clayton Toy. The celebration was continued all day today.

ELECTION LAWS ARE UNCHANGED

Senator Baileys Efforts to Kill Direct Primary Laws Meets With Defeat

The senate will not entertain any plans to alter or change in any way the will of the people in regard to the primary election laws and the plan adopted by the people of this state of electing United States senators by the direct vote of the people. Senate bills 111 and 112, introduced by Senator Bailey having these things in view were the special order in the senate yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and after a spirited debate of nearly an hour both measures were indefinitely postponed. In voting no on the proposition to indefinitely postpone the following senators put themselves on record as being opposed to the election of United States senators by a direct vote: Beach, Bailey, Booth, Hodson, Johnson, Laughery, Laycock, Whealdon. The others voted to postpone.

Loving, Grand Junction, Colo., writes: "I used Ballard's Snow Liniment, last winter, for rheumatism and can recommend it as the best Liniment on the market. I thought, at the time I was taken down with this trouble that it would be a week before I could get about, but on applying your Liniment several times during the night, I was about in 48 hours and well in three days." DO ONE THING FOR US

Only Step That Offers Western Oregon Relief

Lift a Dead Weight off the Backs of the Shippers and Producers

This legislature has done so many things to increase the burdens of the taxpayers and producers, it ought to do one thing that has a little element of decency. Of course, the greatly increased appropriations and inroads of expensive officialism are to some extent accounted for by the placing of all assessments in the larger counties on a cash valuation. That plan makes it appear that the state has doubled and trebled in wealth, and that everything can be expanded in proportion. The one thing the legislature could do would be to pass the free locks bill that will take off 50 cents a ton on all farm products and freight that comes in or out of Western Oregon. On a carload of paper The Capital Journal pays about $16. The farmer pays more freight to the General Electric Company, of Portland, than he does taxes to the state, county and school district.

The fruit raisers, the stock growers, the sawmill men pay more in cash in excess freight on account of the tolls at Oregon City than all other taxes in every way. The grain growers pay more to that private corporation than they pay for threshing their grain. The Jones free locks bill does not appropriate money unless congress will appropriate a great deal more and agree to maintain the locks and canal forever free and it is the one duty of this legislature to pass the free locks bill. The Lord helps those who help themselves and congress cannot be expected to come to the aid of the state unless the legislature shows a disposition to do something. But it looks as though some other influence had a great deal more to do with some things than the Lord.

Convalescents

NEED VINOL for it hastens recovery by creating strength

A member of the G. W. Putman Co. says: "There is just one thing the matter with a person who has been sick—that is weakness."

"To all such people in Salem we recommend our delicious cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, as the very best strength creator for convalescents we have ever sold in our store."

"Vinol strengthens the digestive organs, creates an appetite, promotes sound sleep, makes rich, red blood, and builds up a depleted system to health and vigor."

"This is because Vinol contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal and strength creating elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, with the useless nauseating oil eliminated and tonic iron added."

"We return money to those who buy Vinol and receive no benefit." G. W. Putman Co., druggists.

"Note.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Salem, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town."

When the senate met this morning it immediately jumped into the railroad commission matter. Miller of Linn and Marion, and Hodson of Multnomah were both on their feet clamoring for recognition. Mr. Miller was recognized and he asked unanimous consent to introduce a resolution. Hodson objected.
