

When you buy Lard you get more than you bargain for. It's heavier in your stomach than on the scales.

Lard is a foe to digestion. If you had the stomach of an ostrich you could hardly withstand the ravages of lard-soaked pastry. You have probably found this out and already given up the eating of pastry. 'Tis wholly unnecessary! Anyone can eat and digest food cooked with Cottolene, the perfect shortening. It is a pure vegetable product, made from the best beef suet and choicest vegetable oil. It is neutral in taste and odor.

Cottolene is never sold in bulk. It is put up in carefully sealed tin pails. When you buy lard you have no protection as to quality—you simply know you are getting LARD—never mind the grade, it's just L-A-R-D. On the other hand, every pail of Cottolene is uniform—the product is guaranteed. You take no chances whatever.

In the face of these facts just ask yourself if you can afford to use hog lard when you can get pure, healthful, nutritious Cottolene.

COTTOLENE was granted a GRAND PRIZE (highest possible award) over all other cooking fats at the recent Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and food cooked with COTTOLENE another GRAND PRIZE.

"Home Helps" a book of 300 choice recipes, edited by Mrs. Rorer, is yours for a 2c stamp, if you address The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago.

A NEW FEATURE—The patent air-tight top on this pail is for the purpose of keeping COTTOLENE clean, fresh and wholesome; it also prevents it from absorbing all disagreeable odors of the grocery, such as fish, oil, etc.

WAR ON SALMON KING

Speaker Davey Roasts Hon. R. D. Hume

H. Hume, "salmon king," "king of the river," and several other well-known aliases, of Rogue river fame, dealt a solar plexus last night in the house when, with the assistance of Speaker Davey, Jones, of Polk and some others, Jewell, of Clatsop, succeeded in securing the passage of his bill in the house by a overwhelming vote, which compelled a provision compelling Mr. Hume to remove all obstructions at the mouth of the Illinois river, in order that salmon may find their way down stream during the open and rainy season, which progress, as Jewell explained, has been here hitherto impeded by reason of a wire stretched across the stream. However, it was not accomplished until Speaker Davey and Vawter of Douglas and Jackson, in a battle of assertions and retorts which bordered dangerously upon the personal before the colloquy terminated.

Whether or not Mr. Hume will be able to head the bill off before it receives the favorable consideration of the senate and the signature of the governor remains to be seen, but, according to his own boast and assertions, he is a fighter and a stayer, and the result of this scrap will be awaited with interest. The battle was pitched over the question of whether or not house bill No. 114, by Vawter and Jewell, should take precedence on the calendar over house bill No. 290, by Vawter, the former of which was made a special order for 8 o'clock last evening, but Mr. Vawter's motion to substitute his own bill for 114 was voted down decidedly. This showed that there was an organized alignment of forces, and this fact was made more apparent when Speaker Davey resigned the chair to Rodgers of Marion, and took the floor.

In explaining the motives of his bill, which he claims was drafted by Mr. Vawter, and the authorship was assumed jointly by them, Mr. Jewell said that everything was lovely and prospective success. When a few days later, however, the "king" himself put in an appearance on the scene, having made an especial trip from San Francisco for that purpose, Mr. Jewell said that Mr. Vawter suffered a sudden change of heart, and decided that the jointly prepared bill would not do at all, and introduced his bill as a substitute for it. He explained that, on account of the monopoly enjoyed by Mr. Hume on the Rogue river, the fishermen above him were not able to earn a decent or comfortable living out of their craft, and if the obstructions at the mouth of the river were removed and the closed season extended so as to make it 45 days in the spring and 45 days in the fall the fish would have an opportunity to get up the stream and the catch equitably divided among the fishing interests.

Messrs Perkins and Vawter lined up together in favor of the Vawter bill and stated that the substitute bill was drawn upon an equitable basis, and was fair to all parties concerned, but the real trouble began when Davey took the floor and exploded the whole thing by stating that the only real contention, so far as he was able to discern from the argument adduced by both sides, was over the section which compelled the removal of obstructions from the mouth of the Illinois river, and then he got down to business and asserted that Mr. Hume was the agency which brought about the sudden change of heart on the part of Mr. Vawter, and concluded with a bitter denunciation of the "salmon king" of the Rogue by stating, in substance:

"This man is forever making his boasts and spouting to the newspapers that he has a perfect right to come here whenever he sees fit, and that 'they cannot keep him away;' telling what the legislature can do, and what it cannot do, so far as his interests are concerned. We are getting tired of these things, and it is about time it should be stopped." He said a lot more upon the same subject, which could not be caught, and his words had a sort of subdued ring of sarcasm to them that brought a suffused flush to the cheeks of Mr. Vawter, who sat silently by and paid apparently indifferent attention to the remarks, but when Mr. Davey had finished he took his turn at the wheel.

He started out by saying that Mr. Davey knew little or nothing of the conditions existing in the territory involved in the dispute, and that he was not qualified to enter into the discussion upon any pretext, and wound up by saying:

"Mr. Davey is as wrong in this as he is in all other things that come up for discussion before this assembly, and his argument is as unreasonable as it is unreasoning."

Things then took on a quieter turn for a time until the bill came up for final passage, when Mr. Davey arose upon the point of personal privilege, and, in a semi-sarcastic and ironic tone, ridiculed the heated expressions of Mr. Vawter, and said the whole trouble seemed to hinge upon the fact that he had hit the "nail upon the head, and that the truth hurt." Mr. Hume sat complacently by, near Mr. Rackleff, of Coos and Curry, during the whole ordeal, and his face was as expressionless as that of the Egyptian sphinx.

THE PERFECT WAY.

Scores of Salem Citizens Have Learned It.

If you suffer from headache. There is only one way to cure it. The perfect way is to cure the kidneys.

A bad back means sick kidneys. Neglect it, urinary troubles follow. Doan's Kidney Pills are made for kidneys only.

Are endorsed by Salem people. W. J. Carlton, of 1466 Third St., Salem, Ore., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Dr. Stone's drug store, not only strengthened my kidneys but they speedily removed the backache and lameness. A remedy that acts with such prompt and beneficial results as Doan's Kidney Pills is worthy of all confidence. I can conscientiously recommend them to others for I know I never had any medicine of the kind equal to them for curing backache and kidney trouble."

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT.

Dion Kerr, the gentleman rider, has a promising four year old by Chorister, which he has named Chorist. He is a perfect jumper and Mr. Kerr has planned to take him to Canada after the Benning meeting. If he makes good on the Canadian circuit he will race him at Benning again in the fall.

When Light Nate started in a race at New Orleans recently he was backed all over the country and his victory would have been a costly one to layers. He ran well for seven furlongs and then was beaten. In a race next day he was neglected in the betting and at 40 to 1 defeated a good field.

Charles F. Sanders, an eastern horseman, who went to California about 12 years ago, died recently. He at one time in the east trained for the late Adolph Nelson, the first caterer at Morris Park. Among the horses handled by Sanders for Nelson the Potentate.

Kercheval C. Kearner is under an engagement to ride for Harry Payne Whitney this year.

Charles Marvin, aged sixty-eight years, one of the most famous drivers and trainers of race horses in America, died recently in a Kentucky hospital. During his career he owned many horses of national reputation and probably won more victories with harness horses than any other American trainer.

William Cherry, the jockey, is now training for Henry McDaniel at Hot Springs. He will try to get into condition to ride during the coming season.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

The kidneys are essential organs for keeping the body free from impurities. If they should fail to work death would ensue in very short time.

Inflammation or irritation caused by some feminine derangement may spread to some extent to the Kidneys and affect them. The cause can be so far removed by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that the trouble will disappear.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, swelling of the limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with

MISS KATE A. HEARN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

It may be the means of saving her life. Read what this medicine did for Kate A. Hearn, 520 West 47th Street, New York, who writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I owe a debt of gratitude to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it has saved my life. I suffered with Kidney trouble, irregularities and painful periods, and my blood was fast turning to water. I used your medicine for some time and it has made me strong and well."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs cures Female Complaints, such as Falling and Displacements, and Organic Diseases. Dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. It strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility and invigorates the whole system. For derangement of the Kidneys in either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent.

should take courage. By keeping their eye on the main chance some day they may be serving their country for $7500 a year instead of the paltry sum of $30,000 which they get now.

Pugilism.

Johnny Carroll, one of the cleverest welterweight fighters in New York, is out with a challenger to fight any of the best men in his class. He is anxious to meet Martin, Sailor Burke, Honey Melody or Willie Lewis. He knocked Burke out in one round last year. Joe Falvey his backer and manager, is willing to post a forfeit of $1000 to bind a match with any of the topnotchers.

Johnny Allen, the Philadelphia fighter, and Darkey Allen, the clever little Englishman, have been matched to fight ten rounds for $500 aside. They will enter the ring at 142 pounds.

By declaring that he will not interfere to prevent prize fights, the Rev. Governor H. T. Buchtel, Colorado's new preacher-governor, will probably make his state the home of glove contests in the future.

According to the committee in charge of the fund for Terry McGovern, after paying all expenses there remains a balance of nearly $15,000, which will go to the stricken pugilist's family.

It begins to look as though the mammoth tourney idea has been abandoned and that the Britt-Gans championship will be the only one decided, in the Tonopah area in March, if even that goes. Some people are pessimistic enough to think that the Britt-Gans affair is in none too good shape, and, all things considered, the rumor-mongers can hardly be blamed for waxing suspicious.

Peter Felix, the giant colored heavyweight of Australia, is to be Jack Johnson's first opponent in a battle in Australia. The men are to battle twenty rounds in Melbourne early in March and Johnson is guaranteed $1500 for his end. If successful in beating Felix, Johnson will be matched to fight Bill Squires.

MARGARITA FISCHER.

Opening Performance Last Night Clever—Crowded House—Good Specialties.

Margarita Fischer, the enchanting little actress, is here, and whether she is the historic Silverton belle or not, she is clever and pretty, and belongs to Marion county, too. She and her company presented "The Great Blue Grass Derby" last night in the Klinger Grand to a crowded house. The play is very similar to "In Old Virginia," which has been played here, and is full of thrilling situations and good comedy, through which is woven a pretty little love story. A real live horse is used in one of the scenes, and, considering that last night was the animal's first appearance before an audience in the role of "Queen Mab," the racer did the part well.

William Winterhoff, as "Frank Patton," of course falls in love with the heroine, "Nell Shelby," (couldn't blame him) and his ability for either making love or doing stunts in tragedy cannot be questioned. He has a close rival in Truman De Rome, as "Jim Burke," for he can act and sing to beat the band.

Louise Robinson, as "Kate Hilton," played the part with dignity, and sang a very pretty little number as a specialty. Harry Blanchard, as the "Colonel," and Eleanor Everett, in the role "Althea Peyton," were clever and, together with Jay Avery, the man who is at home either behind the curtain or on the stage, handled the comedy.

The villain always has a difficult role to meet the approval of the audience, but Wallace Roberts, as "James Hilton," deserves special mention for his work. The struggle to his death appeared very real.

The play was well attended, and after the announcement that the company would stay in the city "as long as they liked us" and the last act everybody went home satisfied.

Don't Put Off

Until tomorrow what you can do today. If you are suffering from a torpid liver, or constipation, don't wait until tomorrow to get help.

Buy a bottle of Herbine and get that liver working right. Promptness about health saves many sick spells. "Mrs. Ida Gresham, Point, Tex., writes: I used Herbine in my family for six years, and find it does all it claims to do." Sold by D. J. Fry.

Had Its Effect—

Several days ago at the request of the Kansas legislature Governor Chamberlain telegraphed his opinion of the workings of the Oregon direct primary law. Governor Chamberlain got a message last evening from Governor Stubbs, of Kansas, to the effect that the Kansas legislature had enacted a law similar to the Oregon measure and thanking the Oregon governor for his influence in behalf of a good cause.
