DRINK PLENTY OF GOOD PURE WATER

Try This at Home For Kidneys and Bladder

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well known authority. "The numerous cases of stomach trouble, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected."

Stop loading your system with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

When requested for such a prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney trouble the answer was: "You must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach troubles and poor digestion. For these conditions I would suggest the following prescription, which is composed of only vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy. Any one can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. To be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often." This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how light.

LA BELLE MARIE.

Margarita Fischer Company Scores a Hit Last Night at the Kilger Grand.

There was a fairly large audience at the Kilger Grand last night to see the first presentation here of "La Belle Marie." The play is equal in merit to the "Great Blue Grass Derby," which was given last week, although an entirely different style of play. Miss Fischer, in the dual roles of "Marie DuBois" and "Jean Ingleside," is given an excellent opportunity to show her talent as an actress, and in both roles she proves that she is mistress of herself and her audience. From a charming, revengeful, coquette she turns to a woman with a will, burning with hatred for the one who had wronged her, and with righteous indignation finally brings the villain to the fate which he merits.

While the theme of the play is pathetic yet, there is enough comedy and good specialty numbers in the production to give it life.

The play last night brought forth tears and laughter, and had the requisites which satisfy an audience.

FARMER PURDY, NOT IN IT

Creased Pants Representatives Stand By the City Pot Hunters

Mr. Purdy, of Washington, made a desperate effort to abolish entirely the office of state game and forestry warden but his intentions were not received very kindly by the house which positively refused to give the matter even serious consideration, much to his disgust and chagrin and he gave full vent to both when the house, in committee of the whole, refused to entertain his motion to amend house bill 28, by inserting a section which had for its purpose the repeal of the section under which the office was created, and even did him the discourtesy to decline to listen to his explanation of the proposed amendment, and when the committee arose and proceeded to place the bill upon final passage he entered strenuous objections to the harsh treatment accorded him. He received no encouragement or satisfaction in this however, and the bill itself was defeated.

Purdy Friend of Birds.

House bill 28, by Jackson, proposed to abolish the $1 resident hunters' license, as provided under the present law, and to increase the non-resident license from $10 to $25 per annum, but the house was in no mood to consider for a very long time the abolition of any source of revenue, and especially in the face of the exceedingly heavy appropriations of the session, and promptly turned the bill down. More fun was created over the bill, No. 287, by Purdy, of Washington, who proposed to prohibit the hunting of game birds with dogs altogether and the measure dropped into complete oblivion with a dull-sounding thud. Not, however, before it had precipitated a lively debate during which the ire of Mr. Edwards, of Lane was aroused to the highest pitch, as was that of Mr. Purdy who declared that there were more game birds destroyed by hunting dogs than by man and gun and he charged the dogs with being confirmed egg-suckers and nest robbers.

Edwards Makes a Hit.

"There is no closed season for dogs," shouted Mr. Edwards, "and it makes no difference how much of a closed season you have for hunters when the dogs are turned loose. Why there is a barber in Eugene who boasted of how he had trailed a China pheasant for nine miles with a dog, crossed the Willamette river twice and finally ran him down and killed him. That is the way the birds are being protected."

"Did the hunter have the bird marked?" facetiously inquired Speaker Davey.

"Yes, he had him marked to kill and he killed him, too," replied Mr. Edwards. This practically ended the colloquy and the bill was dealt a knock-out blow.

Another hunters' license bill that was given an overdose of knock-out drops during yesterday's rush was that of Beveridge, of Multnomah, which permitted the county clerks and their deputies to retain 10 per cent of the amount of fees collected in their respective counties. This one lived just long enough to permit of its being read and a vote to be taken upon it.

EASTERN OREGON WATER LAW

Lower House Refused to Indefinitely Postpone Irrigation Bill

The water code bill came up in the house this morning, being sent in by the senate. A strong effort was made by the opponents of the measure to have further consideration of the bill indefinitely postponed. This was voted down, and the bill will come up in its regular course, and will go on its final passage probably this evening or tomorrow morning. If the refusal to indefinitely postpone is rightly interpreted the indications are that the amended bill will become a law. As the emergency clause has been stricken out, the bill, if signed by the governor, will not become a law for 90 days, and it may yet be submitted to a referendum vote. There is strong opposition to the measure in the Willamette valley and Western and Southern Oregon, and there is not a unanimity of opinion in favor of it in that section east of the Cascades, where the provisions of the bill will be in force.

The bill has been so amended that its framers would scarcely be able to recognize it.

O. A. C. BILL PASSES SENATE

When the senate met this morning, by unanimous consent Senator Johnson amended H. B. 342, providing for the betterment of the Agricultural college, making the appropriation $60,000 for 1907 and $65,000 for 1908. The bill came in from the house making these appropriations $70,000 for each year. With this amendment the bill was placed on its final passage and enacted. This is the total sum the school will get from the state, with the exception of the annual maintenance fund of $25,000, which is fixed by law. However, there is a bill pending in the house to raise the amount for maintenance to $50,000.

A large number of house bills were read the first and second times and referred to appropriate committees. The senate has cleaned the desk of house bills, and at 11:09 o'clock adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Savings Banks for Oregon.

F. N. Myers, secretary of the German American Savings Bank of Portland, filed supplemental articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state this morning increasing the capital stock of that institution from $5000 to $1,000,000.

This is one of a chain of 30 banks which the Meyers family, of San Francisco, have chartered in Oregon towns. The original capitalization was placed at $5000 in each instance, and this is the first of the banks where the capital stock has been increased.

No one in financial circles seems to know anything about the personality of these capitalists or what they propose to do in the banking world.

DAVEY PASSED FAIR BILL

Replies to Purdy's Plea For the Poor Tax Burdened Farmer

Speaker Davey made a ten-stroke on the floor of the house yesterday afternoon, during the discussion incident to final action upon the ways and means committee bill making an appropriation of $25,000 for the construction of stock buildings at state fair grounds when he made an exceedingly caustic reply to the remarks of Mr. Purdy, of Washington, who spoke against the measure, and to Mr. Davey's convincing manner of reasoning and ready response is to a great extent due the success of the measure, coupled with the strong recommendation of Chairman Driscoll, of the ways and means committee.

The committee's recommendation for the appropriation of that amount was due to the solicitations of some of the most prominent and influential stockmen of the state, that is, breeders of high grade cattle, sheep and hogs, who represented that they were taking altogether too much risk in exhibiting their high-priced stock in old tumble-down and unsanitary sheds and after this was explained, Mr. Purdy, of Washington, got up and ridiculed the state fair in a general way and closed with an eloquent appeal for the poor, tax-burdened farmer who, on account of the heavy taxes to which he was subjected in support of the state fair, viewed the fine exhibits in a Joseph's suit of many colors and a multiplicity of patches, but he had no sooner concluded in this line of argument until Mr. Davey was upon his feet, and, in substance, said:

"The farmers who wear patches are not of the kind which benefit from the teachings which the state fair with its exhibits of the finest livestock that can be produced in the world, offers. It is the farmer that studies how best to improve the quality of his stock and make the greatest amount of profit from it is the one that benefits from the competitive exhibits that are offered at expositions of this kind. These farmers, and there is none that has benefited more from these shows than those from Washington and Yamhill counties, derive the greatest amount of benefit from these exhibitions and they are the last that could be expected to come before this legislature and kick about a little measly appropriation of $25,000 to provide for the protection of their stock which is valued well up into the hundreds of thousands."

"The farmers that are wise enough to benefit from these exhibits do not come to the state fair in rags and patches; not by any means, they usually come in rubber-tired biggies and automobiles and appreciate the benefits to be derived to the extent of being more than willing to pay an additional bonus to raise the standard of quality that they are expected to reach in order to be able to compete in the stock exhibits of the Oregon state fair which ranks well up among the best of them all over the world. As to the truth of this I only need cite the record of Oregon breeders at the St. Louis world's fair which took first premium over all stock on display in the dairy class."

After Mr. Davey sat down there was no debate upon the question and when the final vote was taken it was found that the great majority of the members of the house was unqualifiedly in favor of providing more comfortable and decent quarters for this high grade stock at the annual state exhibits.
