WHAT IS MAKING GOOD?

Under the heading "Republicans Always Pure," an editor undertakes to read a lecture to persons who fall under the condemnation of being Republicans not from principle but "FOR THEIR OWN PERSONAL NEEDS."

He speaks of men on barber boards and holding places in state institutions not being loyal to the Republican ticket, etc. That is not the question at issue raised by Governor Hughes, of New York.

Hughes says if the Republican party is to have a future it must put men in office who will always "make good" in administration. The weak point in Oregon has been PROCLAIMING LOUDLY ABOUT REPUBLICANS BUT NOT "MAKING GOOD."

Pure Republicanism would seem to be according to Governor Hughes, Republicanism that "makes good."

Republicanism that merely keeps out of the penitentiary, but allows itself all kinds of liberties with the appropriations and THE ENACTMENT OF BAD LAWS IS NOT MAKING GOOD.

A Republican governor who would do just what Governor Chamberlain has been doing, in vetoing grafts and enforcing adherence to the constitution would be making good.

Such states as Iowa, New York, Wisconsin and other leading Republican states have Republican governors who are fighting the organized graft and the machine elements within the party. THEY ARE MAKING GOOD.

Would the machine editor uphold a Republican governor who would use his veto power and refuse to sell out the state interests to organized plunderers, or would he oppose such a chief executive? WOULD HE HELP MAKE GOOD?

In all states where one party is all-powerful the machine grows arrogant and corrupt, and some power has to be invoked to secure its overthrow, or at least check the influence of organized graft.

An organization of the legislature that seems to be simply keeping Republicanism theoretically pure, and LAVING IT TO A DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE TO PROTECT THE PEOPLE IS NOT REPUBLICANISM.

The Republican party has no future along those lines in Oregon. It must put men in the highest and lowest offices who "make good," in every detail of administration.

That kind of a Republican governor would be doing very much as Governor Chamberlain has done, and the people would uphold him in his work AS LONG AS HE DID IT HONESTLY AND FEARLESSLY.

Republicanism as an abstraction is a mere theory of government. Its purity and business value to the people depend upon the character and integrity of the men in public office. It depends as Governor Hughes says, on administration that "makes good."

The Capital Journal has contended stoutly for two things:

1. THE RIGHT AND DUTY OF THE PRESS TO CRITICISE THE LEGISLATURE.

2. The right and duty of the governor to veto any and all bills that were questionable in policy or extravagant in amount of legislation.

We are ready to give the legislature credit for:

- 1. For holding down the clerkship graft.
2. For cutting out the perfunctory investigating committees.
3. For refraining from junkets to all parts of the state and collecting mileage.
4. For respecting the will of the people in electing United States senators.
5. For enacting the free locks bill.

Increasing the permanent appropriations for institutions and departments and in increasing salaries, WITH A VERY FEW EXCEPTIONS, WAS AN ERROR.

The veto by the governor of over a million dollars of this class of legislation was the only way to protect the people.

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN GOOD REPUBLICANISM FOR A REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR TO HAVE DONE THE SAME THING.

WILL NOT COME TO TRIAL.

As was expected the San Francisco hoodlers will not come to trial.

The leader, whose trial on charge of extortion, was scheduled to begin today, has filed an application for writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that he was illegally imprisoned and FOR THE REASON THAT NO INFORMATION WAS FILED AGAINST HIM IN ANY COURT, and that one member of the jury which returned the indictment was incompetent to serve.

This is a sham, because the whole career of a hoodler is an information against him.

Thus do the criminals who rob the people in the name of politics DEPRIVE JUSTICE BY TECHNICALITIES.

The slippery criminal element in politics not only defies the law but slips through the meshes of the courts.

MORE FOREST RESERVES.

The President has rushed through enlargements of thirty-two government forest reserves.

HE BELIEVES THAT HE IS PROTECTING THE INTERESTS OF THE FUTURE GENERATIONS.

At the same time it must not be overlooked that the greatest frauds HAVE BEEN MADE POSSIBLE BY CREATION OF FOREST RESERVES.

The monopolization of public lands has been the crime of the century, and will have to be undone some day not far in the future.

The next President will be elected upon the issue of breaking up the holdings of millions of acres by corporations and firms, and throwing those holdings open to the settlers.

The New York Theaters.

That there is still plenty of material to be gathered for a play when Louis E. Shipman's "On Parole" was presented at the Majestic for the first time. The story is treated from the Confederate standpoint and from the favorable reception with which it was received in cities both in the north and south no one can be heard to say justly that one side has been presented in an unfair light at the expense of the other. The scene of the play is laid in Virginia with Grant before Richmond, outnumbering the Confederate forces. It is remarkable how Lee's army is able to communicate with the outside world. Major Dale, of the Federal army, is sent to find and intercept the person who is carrying messages through the swamps and through the southern lines. Constance Pluckey, a retired general's daughter, disguised as a girl of the mountains is caught by Major Dale. She outwits him, however, and returns to the mansion of her father. Thither the fortunes of war carry Dale and he meets Constance in her new surroundings. Then comes a battle of wits between the girl and the officer, he trying to identify her as the dispatch bearer and she using all a woman's arts to preserve her secret. While he lingers at her plantation she falls in love with him. The major is taken prisoner. In the last act after Lee has surrendered so does the girl—but to the major. To make room for Richard Mansfield at the New Amsterdam, "Brewster's Millions" was compelled to move into another theater. Fortunately the departure of the "Two Hypocrites" from the Hudson theater came about in time to enable the play to move right in for an indefinite engagement. Its success has been so marked that the English rights have been sold and the play will be produced in London next season. It will be rewritten, however, and Anglicized by changing the nationality of the characters and the locality of the scenes. The incidents which follow the efforts of a young man to spend one million dollars within a year in order to inherit seven millions more would interest and amuse the players of any nationality.

THE BEST REMEDY. For cuts, burns, bruises, sores, galls, barbed wire cuts and all sorts of man or beastie. Dean's King Cactus Oil. Sold by G. W. Putnam Co. 135 N. Com. St. Salem, Or.

David Belasco has another gold mine to his credit in 'The Rose of the Rancho' his newest play. It has now settled down for a long run that will continue well into the next season. There will be no occasion there for interrupting its run to make way for the presentation of a new Belasco production. The beautiful Stuyvesant theater which has been erected by Mr. Belasco will be completed next fall and will be opened by David Warfield in a new play. It is to Mr. Warfield's credit that although he could continue appearing in 'The Music Master' for many seasons to come and keep up the record everywhere of having drawn the biggest receipts ever gathered by one production, he prefers to give the public the benefit of his talents and delight them with new characterizations and excellent bits of acting.

And remember the next time you suffer from pain—caused by damp weather—when your head nearly bursts from neuralgia—try Ballard's Snow Liniment. It will cure you. A prominent business man of Hempstead, Texas, writes: 'I have used your liniment. Previous to using it I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism and Neuralgia. I am pleased to say that now I am free from these complaints. I am sure I owe this to your liniment.' Sold by D. J. Fry.

Cotton Crop of Oklahoma. Washington, March 5.—It is estimated by the bureau of agriculture that Oklahoma and Indian Territory will raise 1,000,000 bales of cotton this year. This means $50,000,000 paid in cash in about one-half the geographical area of the state, or almost $50 per capita to every man, woman and child. The cotton is running from 35 to 37 per cent lint. The staple is good and late weather conditions have been favorable to color. There are great complaints of the scarcity of cars and laborers and to relieve the pressure railroad companies are moving both baled and seed cotton in open flat cars.
