"Cherry-Blossom."

THE JAPANESE GIVE GOOD EXAMPLE

It is a proverb of Cherry Blossom Land that a healthy stomach is the basis of all strength. Good nature is also recognized as of great importance. The Japanese as a people are remarkable for their health, endurance, patience and skill. The cherry tree is the most highly prized of all in Japan. It not only gives forth a beautiful blossom but the wild cherry tree furnishes a bark which is most highly prized in medicine.

Wild Cherry (Prunus Virginiana).

The UNITED STATES DISPENSARY, which is an authority on medicines, says of the properties of this Black Cherrybark: "Uniting with a tonic power the property of calming irritation and diminishing nervous excitability. Adapted to the treatment of diseases in which there is debility of the stomach or of the system." Another authority, KING'S AMERICAN DISPENSARY says: "It gives tone and strength to the system, useful in fever, cough, and found excellent in consumption." This ingredient is only one of several very important native medicinal roots in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is a remedy which has enjoyed the public approval for nearly forty years, nothing new or untried about it, has cured thousands of people of those chronic, weakening diseases which are accompanied by a cough, such as bronchitis and incipient consumption. More than that, by reason of the other ingredients, Bloodroot, Mandrake, Golden Seal, and Queen's root, all of the medicinal virtues of which are scientifically extracted and combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, remarkable cures of dyspepsia and stomach disorders have been accomplished.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine of proper strength is a better solvent and preservative of the active medicinal principles residing in most of our indigenous or native medicinal plants than is alcohol. As its use is entirely unobjectionable, while alcohol is well known when used even in small portions, for a protracted period, to do lasting injury to the human system, especially in the case of delicate women and children, he decided to use chemically pure glycerine instead of the usually employed alcohol in the preparation of his medicines. He found that the glycerine, besides being entirely harmless, possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of great value. Its nutritive properties, Dr. Pierce believes, far surpass those of cod liver oil, entitling it to favorable consideration in all cases of incipient consumption and other wasting diseases. It is an invigorating, tonic alternative and owes its virtues to Nature's vegetable garden. Dr. Pierce is only the scientific gardener who knows how to combine the plants given us by Nature to cure our diseases. This preparation is of pleasant taste, agrees perfectly with rebellious and sensitive stomachs, and is extremely effective in restoring tone and vigor to the entire system. It cures inflammatory troubles of the stomach as well as indigestion and dyspepsia arising from weak stomachs. One reason why it restores the health of run-down, pale and emaciated people is because it first throws out the poisons from the blood through the liver and kidneys. It then begins its reconstructive work in building up flesh by first making good, rich, red blood.

Nature's Garden.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is made in a large laboratory, thoroughly equipped with every scientific appliance, at Buffalo, N. Y. Qualified chemists are in charge of the laboratory, with nearly a score of skilled physicians and surgeons employed to scrutinize, determine and prescribe these remedies, and other means of cure as seen best suited to many thousands of cases of chronic diseases which come before them for treatment each year. It costs you nothing to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce—the head of this institution, at Buffalo, N. Y., and get an accurate medical opinion in your special case and wholly without charge.

X-RAYS

The "Mikado" has just been produced at Baker City by home talent. Salem has escaped the Mikado and Queen Esther for some years.

The people are intelligent and know what they want, but it strikes us they would not be bunked quite so badly if they did not fall down before every fellow who can holler loudest: "I am a Ree-publican."

A man you wouldn't hire to manage your private business may be a good fellow to look after public business, but he generally isn't.

Policies of delay in public improvements put teamsters and laboring men out of business. About $2000 more should be spent on surveys, but any attempt to build streets or bridges should be indefinitely postponed.

The Capital Journal breaks the record for giving the public reliable information about public business and public situations.

Some of the aldermen are alarmed about putting an insurance agent out of business, but think nothing of the city buying teams and wagons and putting teamsters out of business.

Why should not Salem become a model city.

On top of buying teams, wagons, harness and graders the city should also open a livery stable.

He immediately went to Dr. Byrd who found that an artery had been penetrated. The wound was dressed and Mr. Daue returned to his position as tenor, and says that he will be there tonight also. accident he says is that he will be prohibited from playing base ball for several weeks.

AN EXPENSIVE LESSON.

Columbus Got It Through Public Ownership of Electric Lighting.

The latest municipal plant in a large city to give the grand billing sign of distress is the electric light plant of Columbus, O. The director of public service asked last June for an additional bond issue of $140,000. For obvious reasons the city fathers were bashful about popping this question to the voters. Now, however, Director Lied says that if the money is not forthcoming the plant will be thrown out of business and the $550,000 already expended lost. He adds that the plant is wholly inadequate and that the city is paying a private company at the rate of $75,000 a year to light the streets that would otherwise be left to the tender mercies of the moon.

To show how easy it is to drive the wedge of expenditure and how thick the built end is in comparison with the thin edge that appears in the original "estimate" the following figures are quoted from the last annual report of the trustees of the sinking fund, all of the bonds mentioned being for the erection and equipment of the electric light plant:

Table with 2 columns: Date and Amount. Dec. 1, 1897: $20,000; April 1, 1903: $110,000; Jan. 1, 1904: $122,000; Oct. 26, 1904: $145,000; Sept. 1, 1904: $0; April 15, 1906 (completing): $50,000; Total: $550,000.

In view of the present request for $140,000 more the use of the word "completing" in the last item seems unfortunate, though it probably gave momentary solace to the taxpayers.

During an investigation held in June, 1906, the most amazing ignorance, incompetence and extravagance were brought to light, but the original contract was not, as that important document had been "lost" from the city records. Blunders in planning and construction are alleged that would have caused an honest electrician's or architect's apprentice to bang his head for shame if he had perpetrated them, and the inspecting engineer of a large Philadelphia firm stated that his company was at that time installing a plant of approximately the same capacity for $125,000, less than the sum now asked to "complete" the plant on which $550,000 has been lavished.

The comment of the Brooklyn Eagle is: "You simply can't marry business to politics," and the Boston Advertiser adds: "Of course it is easy enough to say that the people of that city should have learned enough from the failure of public ownership everywhere else to keep out of so dangerous a venture, but the writings of badly informed theorists probably deluded Columbus as they have deluded other communities. Boston once tried municipal ownership, and lost over $8,000,000 by the venture."

COLUMBIA. The King of the Sea... Castoria.

Children who refuse to take castor oil will take it if fixed in this way. Take one cupful of milk, one of molasses, a half cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of ginger, one teaspoonful of soda, a half cupful of castor oil and flour to roll out. Cut in shapes and bake in a quick oven. One or two are as good as a dose of oil.

Kitchen Towels.

The most soiled of kitchen towels will become sweet and white with this treatment: Cover with cold water, put them at the back of the stove, add one tablespoonful of shaved castile soap and the juice of half a lemon. Let it come to a boil gradually, and repeat the process. Rinse first in tepid and then in cold water.

Brooms.

It is well to know that brooms of green straw do not wear as well as those of the natural color. More brooms are used in the kitchen than almost any other part of the house, so do not buy green ones under the impression that they will outlast the others.

To remove those distressing white spots on your polished mahogany, rub gently with a white flannel cloth moistened with spirits of camphor or even eau de Cologne if the former is not in the house at the moment.

Old fashioned armchairs may be brought right up to date by covering them, arms and all, with pretty flowered chintz, cretonne or denim in brown, green or dark red.
