Simply Swallow

Many Eat as Though They Were Blind and Their Tongues Cut Out.

Dyspepsia is built on confidence—too much confidence in the ability of your stomach to digest anything and everything you put into it.

In this age we have developed speed in every line of action, and we have also developed speed in mastication.

We don't take time to eat right, and sometimes we do not eat the right kind of food. Sometimes we carry our business to our meals and as a result eat mechanically. We eat as though we were blind and our tongues cut out. We simply swallow.

The result is that the food we eat is half chewed, and lies like a lump of lead on the stomach.

You may deny to yourself that you abuse your stomach, but when you get a bloaty feeling, you can't deny you've got it.

When you get brash, eruptions, burning sensations, bloating, aversion to food, loss of appetite, belching and other kindred ailments, there is not much use asking yourself, for the time being, why you suffer. The fact is you've got those ailments and the question of the hour is how to get rid of them at once, so that at your next meal you may be able to sit down and look at your meal straight in the face—with a keen appetite and a smile, and enjoy thoroughly everything you eat.

Just one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest an ordinary meal, without the help of the stomach. One ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food. The strongest stomach couldn't do the work any better than one of these wonderful little Tablets can do it.

Each tablet contains the strongest digestive agents it is possible to obtain.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a patent medicine. We come out and say just what is in them—hydrastis, golden seal, lactose and aseptic pepsin. They are recommended by 40,000 licensed physicians in the United States and Canada.

And they are recommended by everyone who uses them—they can't help it, for they immediately invigorate the stomach by letting it take a rest; they strengthen the gastric juice and cause the appetite to become keen and regular.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will surely destroy dyspepsia, brash, belching, that "lump of lead" feeling, burning sensations, indigestion, loss of appetite, and aversion to food.

Have Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets handy where you can take one or two after each meal. Then you will know what a blessing it is to have a good appetite and to get all the good possible out of everything you eat. You'll feel rosy and sweet. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store on earth, 50c.

CARPENTER COMMITS SUICIDE

Joe Landguth Demented by Jealousy Shoots Himself Through Head

Crazed by jealousy Joe W. Landguth last night, about 9 o'clock, walked down the railroad track at Turner and deliberately sent a bullet from a 38-calibre Iver-Johnson revolver through his head. Landguth was a carpenter who moved here from the East some time ago, and has recently been engaged in doing some work at Portland. Mrs. Landguth, while her husband was away, lived at the home of Mrs. Martin, the well-known blacksmith in Turner. Languth, it is said, came home recently and wanted his wife to return to Portland with him, but for some reason she did not comply with his request. After pretending to go to the metropolis he only came as far as Salem, and then returned to Turner, and his body was found this morning lying near the railroad track cold in death.

He left a letter to his wife plainly reciting jealousy as the cause of his rash act, but not implicating any person living in Turner. He bid her and his two little boys an affectionate farewell. Sheriff Culver and Coroner Clough went to Turner this morning and investigated all the facts in the case. It was such a plain and premeditated suicide that they did not decide to hold an inquest. The remains of Landguth were brought to Salem, and will probably be sent to his people in Kansas, who have been communicated with. Landguth was between 35 and 40 years of age. Languth had $51 in his pockets, and left his wife a policy in the Woodmen of the World.

NEWBERG CHARGES PLAGIARISM

Unfounded Effort Is Being Made to Convict Williamette's Orator

A report, vague in its character, comes to Salem that an effort is being made to debar Wallace G. Trill from the intercollegiate contest at McMinnville tonight, on the charge of plagiarism. The kick comes from Newberg College and the charges are that Trill borrowed some ideas from Beveridge's famous speech in the senate on the Philippines.

The belief is current that the Newberg people are afraid of Trill, and the fear of impending disaster and that the Silver-Tongued Wallace would win with hands down, trumped up these charges.

It is probable that should Trill have desired to steal thunder from anybody he would have selected a more prolific source than Beveridge, and a speech that had more reason and logic in it than the Indiana senator's flamboyant effort.

The Editor of The Capital Journal was one of the judges on the literary merits of Mr. Trill's oration, and can say, while the subject of Democracy does not admit of many novelties, Mr. Trill's oration is one of the best construed, most refreshing and most eloquent treatments of the subject ever presented to the public. It is absolutely out of the question to bring a charge of plagiarism against that time-worn subject, any more than it would be to bring one against a subject like "Morality," because it included the gist of the ten commandments.

A report this afternoon states that Wallace Trill has been barred from taking part in the oratorical contest owing to his copying 300 words from Beveridge's speech.

Radical changes in the administration of the fire insurance business in the northwest within a not far distant date is predicted by Charles Sumner Best, of New York City, publisher of Best's Insurance Reports, who is spending a few days in this city. The reports, published monthly by Mr. Best as to the financial standing of life and fire insurance companies, are accepted as authority by the insurance men of the states. They are considered entirely free from every tinge of white-wash and varnish, and are received by the fraternity for their true worth.

Mr. Best is outspoken in his criticism of the method of the Pacific Board of Fire Underwriters. He says the present muddle as to the disposition of the emergency premium of 25 per cent that was exacted of northwest policy holders is the result of pure ignorance, or it amounts to a deliberate extortion on the part of the insurance companies. He says the method of the companies associated with this board are especially lax and lacking of a proper system.

In the eastern states, he relates, the matter of fixing rates and generally regulating the insurance business is delegated to an executive board, representative of all of the companies, while on the Pacific coast this work is largely attended to by one man. Not only is this the fact, but the manner of transacting the business, he says, under the present system, is open to censure both on the ground of discrimination and favoritism.

Regarding the excess premium that was added by the Pacific Board of Fire Underwriters immediately following the San Francisco disaster Mr. Best says the additional charge was unwarranted and excessive. To tide over the possibility of a temporary embarrassment, that was in prospect from the enormous losses the companies were required to meet, he says ample provision could have been made for the contingency by making a uniform fractional increase on all insurance. Instead, the board ordered an increase of 25 per cent in the premiums on all mercantile and manufacturing risks. This plan, he declares, was especially objectionable for the reason that these classes of property were already paying a good rate and were heavily insured. He considers as outrageous the attempt of these companies to undertake to evade refunding these excess premiums.

Mr. Best is on his way to his home in New York, but before leaving the coast he is investigating the affairs of fire and life insurance companies, both in this state and in Washington. He had intended departing last night for Seattle, but, becoming acquainted with the disturbed state of insurance business in this section, resulting from the issuance of circulars on the question of refunding premiums, has decided to remain in Portland for a few days. In the meantime, he will interview some of the leading business men and banking institutions and acquaint them with the questionable tactics employed by the majority of the insurance companies of the coast, to the end that they may be equipped to better protect their interests in the future by demanding a wholesale revision of existing practices.

The mission of Mr. Best to the coast was to inquire into the fire insurance business in California and the manner in which the companies adjusted losses in San Francisco following the earthquake. He came to the coast last July, and for more than two months labored in the Bay City without his identity becoming known. As a result he was able to get on the inside and learn much concerning the methods resorted to by "welching" companies in defrauding policyholders in adjusting losses.

This data has been compiled by Mr. Best, and will soon be published in his final report as to his investigations in the Golden States. This report is being anxiously awaited by insurance men.

As nearly as Mr. Best can estimate the total of insurance losses in San Francisco from the earthquake and fire will aggregate between $225,000,000 and $230,000,000. Of this enormous total he says about $160,000,000 has been distributed among the policyholders. Of the 200 insurance companies or agencies among which this insurance was distributed, Mr. Best considers that he will be able to make clear reports in favor of not to exceed 40.

LOP OFF 25-CENT FARE.

Oregon City-Portland Ride Will Be 50 Cents.

Salem Special: If current reports are true, the Southern Pacific is about to discontinue its 25-cent passenger rate between Oregon City and Portland, and charge the regular 3-cent fare. The purpose of this is said to put an end to the troublesome practice up-valley people have of buying tickets to Oregon City, and then paying their fare from that place to Portland, by which means they save 25 cents. While the Southern Pacific holds some passengers by meeting the electric line's 25-cent rate, it loses the 25 cents that might be collected from passengers who would stay on the train regardless of the difference in fares. In the matter of revenue the Southern Pacific loses as much as it gains by meeting the electric line's rate. In addition the conductors are loaded down with work on both sides of Oregon City.

Under the present system, a passenger from Salem to Portland can save 25 cents by buying a ticket to Oregon City, and then staying on the train and paying the conductor 25 cents after leaving Oregon City. Probably half the passengers from Salem take advantage of this means of saving 25 cents. Most of these, however, would pay the extra 25 cents for a ticket through to Portland rather than get off at Oregon City and take the electric car.
