Ayer's Hair Vigor was good, the best that was made. But Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, is better. It is the one great specific for falling hair. A new preparation in every way. Ask your druggist to show it to you, the new kind. Does not stain or change the color of the hair.

Weyerhaeuser, Richer Than Rockefeller.

According to a writer in the Cosmopolitan, there is a man in America richer than Rockefeller. This is Weyerhaeuser, of St. Paul, Minn. He controls timber lands worth $100,000,000. He is worth $100,000,000. He is an old man, quaint in his speech, somewhat broken in speech, but in manner. He is related, Mr. Weyerhaeuser has been steadily accumulating timber properties, coming from Germany, a boy without capital, he won his first place by his thrift, industry, and foresight, until he ultimately created "the indefinite, all-powerful organization which has been known as the Weyerhaeuser empire." To continue the story: Weyerhaeuser and his associates have done their part, just as Mitchell and many other men in the north did their part, in securing lands for the government. The game of home-coming and getting government land was just as familiar to Weyerhaeuser interests as to other. Possibly Weyerhaeuser never actually conducted any of these operations, but hundreds of thousands of acres taken in by his associates for timber purposes were under the old and well known name.

Although he is known in the west as king among the lumber men, it is probable that even his associates would be surprised to learn that it is estimated that 30,000 acres of timber land in the state of Washington, Oregon, Wisconsin and Minnesota are under his control. Changing the unit we get 30 square miles, an area six times as large as New Jersey. And land, says Charles P. Norcross, "writes up" Weyerhaeuser, is increasing in value at a greater rate than any other public utility."

Weyerhaeuser is the most valuable timber land owned by the Weyerhaeuser syndicate, was obtained under the forest-land clause, fathered by Senator Pettigrew, which was put in a rider to the sundry civil bill in 1894. After the bill had come to the house, it was passed with a proviso: Pettigrew subsequently led a fight to repeal the law, and said that its intent and purpose had been diverted to make a vehicle for looting the government of its best timber lands.

It may be recorded in passing that the congress realized what abuses were enacted under this apparently innocent act it was repealed in 1904; the damage had been done.

CAPITAL JOURNAL FASHION LETTER

New York, March 15.—The sleeve is always a question of great importance at the end of the season, and this year with the short sleeve done to death by an insane popularity is no exception. It is rumored that one of the great dressmakers of Paris, who is a maker of new modes and oddities, has concocted a new sleeve for the world of fashion. It is full length and sheath fitting, except at the elbow, where there is some roominess, if not an actual puff. It is true that a good many of the new models brought from Europe this spring do show a tendency in this direction.

With the long continued rage for lingerie effects the silk petticoats furnished with removable lace and embroidered flounces have come to be a prominent feature of well furnished wardrobes. The flounces are adjusted in a host of ways—with headings on both skirt and flounce through which they are laced together with ribbons, by loops on both, which are also threaded with ribbon, and by buttons and buttonholes which fasten under a blind band at the top of the flounce.

Some charming revivals of the second empire effects in skirts are promised us, brought about by the popularity of "La Savelle" a play now in vogue in Paris. Of course this would mean the crinoline of its time carried to its furthest limit, but the crinoline on its old lines at least, is not a modern possibility, yet some of the ornamental scroll designs that were used on the voluminous skirts of the Empress Eugenie are being used on many of the latest models. The first design copied from one worn by Rejane, who takes the principle part in "La Savelle," is of striped silk in black and white, with cross bars in velvet ribbons, the bars being diagonal to each other and placed only on the wide white stripes. On another gown—an evening gown this tie—the velvet ribbon with frilled edge of lace was arranged in a formal daisy pattern at regular intervals around the bottom of the dress. The idea could be carried out in almost any kind of material, lace insertion velvet or gauze, and makes a novel and charming suggestion for trimming the spring or summer frocks. One more lovely gown of point d'esprit had the skirt trimmed with flounces of net edged with lace. The flounces were set in deep joints and were finished with butterfly bows of ribbon, while the sash of black ribbon had butterflies embroidered in the natural colors at irregular intervals.

The return of the cord and tassel for every possible use has brought forth plaited skirts where each plait was fastened to the next by a frog with tasselled ends of the same color as the material or of a shade to harmonize with it. Tassels are used for sash ends and fringe is being used discreetly but with ever increasing popularity both on skirt flounces and waist.

Shirt-waists are being shown both fancy and plain to suit the taste and needs of every one. The lingerie blouse still holds its own in popularity and is designed with tucks and plaits in various arrangements. One style is tucked solid across the front in yoke depth while the back shows only a few at the center but extending from neck to waist, and to harmonize with the remainder the sleeves are also tucked. Another style is embroidered below the bust and still another, for general wear, has a front yoke with rather wide tucks below, while the back has a yoke facing matching the front, in outline. Epaulettes distinguish a fancy mode that is very much tucked and has a chemise and strap-like ornaments, which add to the appearance of the garment.

The jumper continues to excite popular worship and new designs are anxiously looked for. A late mode has no opening but is slipped on over the head and simply held together at the front by tiny ribbon straps. The neck is in V shape at the back but oval in front and clusters of narrow tucks across the shoulders produce a pretty fulness. Cap-sleeves caught together to correspond with the front, or three-quarter sleeves in puff style, are included in the design.

A Square Deal

It is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for analgesic and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure vegetable glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour flatulency, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. Besides curing all the above distressing ailments of the Golden Medical Discovery is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal Passages, it is well while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hanging coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.
