WILL SOON BE RAISED.
 For Y. M. C. A. Subscribed to Meet Year's Work.

The committee that is taking subscriptions for the fund of the Y. M.
 C. A. began their work again this morning to collect the remaining $571, which will cover the expenses for the year 1907. The committee will probably have the money raised in a short time, as this is a worthy cause, and sure to meet with a hearty response from the citizens of Salem.
 The Y. M. C. A. is filling a place that probably no other institution could do. It is a home for the boys and young men, a place where they can meet and enjoy the innocent sports and amusements which their nature and health demand; a place where the young man who is not fortunate enough to be able to attend day school can pursue those studies which will qualify him for a better position, and give him an inspiration for the higher and more noble ideas of life.

The local Y. M. C. A. has been improved during the past year in many ways, and has added comfort and practical advantages that cannot help but repay for the investment with health, more enjoyment and in education, both in spiritual and material things, all of which are essential to the high ideals of citizenship.
 When we are asked to do something for the fund let us do it cheerfully and in accordance as we have prospered. If the committee does not find you, send in your pledge.

SCIENTIFIC TARIFF REVISION.

Plea for a Permanent Tariff Commission and an American Merchant Marine.

(Geo. J. Seabury in American Economlst.)

If congress will establish an independent, permanent tariff commission of expert economists, the most radical protectionist will not object to tariff revision whenever necessary or advisable, nor will he object to the adjustment of special inequalities in our tariff schedules, but any change that might take place in the future must be based on adequate protection to each industry and its labor fields. No patriotic protectionist will permit a foreign invasion into our market of competitive wares or products. Our past experiences under the Walker and Wilson tariffs taught us many humiliating and expensive lessons. Special selfish interests and ingrained free-traders will always clamor for tariff revision, and, singularly, they have always been more persistent and active in eras of our greatest prosperity; a most paradoxical situation.

The administration has nothing to dread at any time from a careful analysis of our industrial interests, no matter what the object may be.
 American protectionists should invite a probing whenever there is sufficient evidence to prove that the tariff is used for illegitimate purposes; by which I mean, when it becomes a restraint on trade or competition.
 But the fact remains, as previously stated, that the named discontented influences invariably agitate changes in our tariff policy just preceding a presidential campaign demoralizing in our home and foreign commerce, which, reflectively, has a disastrous effect on the subject of finance.

Congress should appreciate a thorough examination of the tariff by an expert tariff commission whenever advisable, in order to unravel the economic side of our commercial problems, inasmuch as it consumes days and weeks in unconvincing debates which could be utilized in legislating on other measures that are better understood. A master of these subjects comprehends another truism and that is that but a small proportion of our representatives understand the subject as an entirety, or how hundreds of collateral interests are affected through making an investigation of some initial interest, like steel, wool, cotton, or any other important industry. It is also true that a representative in congress may have a thorough understanding of a subject that would affect an industry in his own constituency, while on the other hand he might not comprehend the status of a different industry in an adjoining congressional section; consequently an expert tariff commission, probing an analyzing industrial interests from the greatest to the most limited, would treat them more justly. When the commission had completely exhausted a special subject or subjects, they would be recommended to congress for approval or rejection by the secretary of commerce. The members of such a committee should be men of recognized ability and broad experience, and in my judgment they would save the nation millions of dollars annually through the conscientious study of the interests treated.

Older nations have such commercial clearing agencies, and why should we not begin to adopt scientific methods and take tariff problems entirely out of politics, for the reason that it uses or abuses affect all of our people. When the time is appointed for tariff revision the work should be undertaken by veterans in commercialism. Home and export commerce is a commercial chess game. Our constant aim should be to protect our home market and its labor fields. Our market is the greatest and most prosperous in the world. We must defend our liberally rewarded labor field against the competition of low foreign wage standards. We must not forget that foreign manufacturers today are employing fast producing machinery.
 In fact the enterprise of American machine builders has made this possible. Hundreds of foreign factories have been supplied with the same productive machinery as that employed in our industrial establishments. Therefore we must vigilantly defend our home commerce. Foreign manufacturers and interests are, figuratively speaking, sleepless and constantly alive to the fact that they must keep free-trade principles active through their press agencies, and agitate tariff revision and reciprocity treaties. They are jealous of our great prosperity and feel that they ought to become co-partners in it without "paying our taxes in times of peace" or "fighting our battles in times of war." From my own examinations I have been for many years convinced that these statements are true and that foreign interests are largely responsible for the present mild clamor for tariff revision, reciprocity and "down with American built over-sea ships."

The American flag will soon be seen floating on stately steamships and vessels on the high seas. An American built merchant marine cannot be postponed forever. Give our shipping lines equal subsidies, and our shipbuilders will do the rest.
 Our enterprising industrialists will add hundreds of millions per annum to our exports when we possess shipping lines to the world's important seaports.
