She is a talented musician and a young lady who is charming to every one she meets.

Entertain Schoolmates.
Among the pleasant informal gatherings at the Indian training school was one given Thursday evening by the pupils of the engineering, plumbing and cooking departments. About 90 pupils were their guests, and the affair was most enjoyable. It was one of the customs at the school for the students of different departments to entertain other classes in this manner, and these social evenings are eagerly looked forward to.

In Honor of the Dunlins.
The members of the First Christian church gave a reception Monday evening to Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dunlin, who left Wednesday for Lewis and Clark. The affair was informal in every way and a most pleasant evening was spent. Mrs. J. W. Harwood, Mrs. T. M. Jones, Mrs. D. D. Harwood, Mrs. Mary Baker, Mrs. D. A. White and Mrs. E. E. Downing served the refreshments, while Mrs. Ernest, Mrs. Eva Beals, Mrs. W. W. Hobson and Mrs. A. E. Beardsley received the guests.

High School.
Prof. E. T. Marlette, of the high school has gone to attend the athletic convention at Eugene for the purpose of organizing an athletic league for the high schools in Western Oregon. The teachers of all the Salem schools met at the high school for their regular monthly teachers' meeting Friday afternoon.

East School.
Each room in the East school gave an Easter program yesterday. The outline for each teacher was: 1st. Significance of Easter. 2d. How the egg is associated with it. 3d. How the rabbit is associated. 4th. How the date is fixed. 5th. About the colors.

In the advanced rooms the topics were delegated to the pupils, but in the primary grades the teachers talked on the subject and explained it. The attendance in the schools is suffering some decline, but no more than could be expected during the spring term. Miss Marlette, a teacher in the East school, who had the misfortune to break her arm Wednesday, has lost no time, but is improving rapidly. She has taught every day.

Lincoln School.
Mrs. Charlton, who has been substitute for Mrs. Weniger the past week, conducted a very interesting debate Friday afternoon. Subject: "Resolved, That cattle are more useful than sheep." Speakers were allowed three minutes each, and not many spoke over a minute. The judge gave it to the sheep.

Park School.
Principal Smith had all the higher grades assemble in his room Friday after recess and listen to a talk on civics and the government of large cities. The subject was handled in a very interesting manner, and will be taken up again.

Arbor Day, April 12.
All the schools are preparing to observe this school event. In the North school Principal Peebles has marked out an elaborate program, from an educational standpoint. There are to be recitations, music and speeches suitable to the occasion.

Sportsmen's Show in Boston.
Boston, Mass., March 30.—The second annual exhibition of the New England Forest, Fish and Game association, popularly known as the Sportsmen's Show, is being held today in the Mechanics building, and will continue until the 13th of April. The show is much larger than that of last year in every department. There is a lake in the middle of the grand hall, much larger than last year's occupying of the floor space practically all the space except under the balconies. Water fowl, trout, and other fish will be shown in this lake. The exhibits have been classified into seven departments, as follows: Forestry, food and game fishes, animals, game, song and insectivorous birds, trade exhibits, art associated with forestry, fish and game and loan exhibits. The interest manifested is very lively, and the attendance throughout is expected to continue.

Value of Some Timber Claims.
Albany, March 30.—Rockey Willis left for his timber claim on the upper Siletz, at the extreme east side of the Siletz agency. He values it at $10,000, and with some reason Thomas Thomas, the engineer, who received his patent a few days ago, yesterday sold his claim adjoining Rockey's for $6000. It will cruise about 14,000,000 feet. Mr. Willis thinks he should have gotten $10,000 for it. Edgar, the cruiser, of Portland, who has a claim touching these claims, Mr. Willis reported having sold his for $10,000. There are said to be claims on the upper Siletz that will cruise as much as 20,000,000 feet. One speculator is said to have sold several claims for an average of $8000. The timber there is immense and very tall, probably as fine a body as there is in the Northwest.

Several Albany men have claims on the Siletz, and they are doing well to make an issue of securing a patent to them. Four patents have been received within a couple of weeks.
