

Your Hair At Home?

Or has your comb run away with it? Better look out for what's left of it, and keep it at home on your head, not in the comb. Ayer's Hair Vigor will act as "keeper." If you have a particle of doubt about using this splendid preparation, let your doctor decide for you. We publish the formulae of all our preparations. F. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Take Them and Go to Hell.

Such was the choice given the Jackson county grand jury by the keeper of the county's poor. History does not relate whether the suggestion was followed or not. It would have been, however, from the jury's report, from which we quote, that the poor farm was about as filthy as the domain of his Satanic majesty as the average citizen cares to get. The report of the grand jury will be published in part:

"We found the hallways of the building in which the patients sleep so dirty and filthy that the grand jury, passing through the hallways, seemed such a cloud of dust and dirt as to be decidedly noticeable on their clothing. It would be impossible to make a statement as to how long a time had elapsed since the hall was cleaned but it has certainly been a long time. We found all of the bedrooms very dirty and filthy. In the bedrooms were cobwebs and on the beds were lousy and dirty, and the bed clothing was practically black with dirt. It is safe to say that none of the beds had been changed for a month. It is safe to say that all the beds of the 14 inmates were as filthy as dirt and alive with vermin as it is possible to imagine.

"We found one woman patient, whose room was probably the dirtiest of any. She is a woman between 86 and 90 years of age. On entering her room, the smell from the fifth floor was so repulsive as to make it stay in her room for any length of time almost impossible. There was dirt and blood of all kinds upon the floor. The woman had no proper clothing and said that what she had on was all that she had. We found one man afflicted with a loathsome, infectious disease, and he should be removed for the protection of the others. We found all the patients had inadequate clothing. We found they were afraid to tell what their treatment was and expressed themselves in that way, but said that it was very bad, and that the keeper never cleaned anything. The woman, one of the keepers, claimed that the place had been swept three days previous and proved it by every inmate, who were apparently afraid to contradict her, but the evidence was plain that there had been no cleaning within at least three months. This same woman keeper made an indecent posture to the grand jury, and said: 'That if they did not like the way the patients were treated, to take them and go to hell.'

Shoots His Sweetheart.
Salem, April 10.—Two weeks ago, John French, a young miner of Salem, went to a jeweler and bought a gold wedding ring to place on the finger of pretty Norah Cole. Yesterday he pawned the ring and used the money he got on to buy a revolver, with which he attempted to murder the girl. After seriously wounding her an two other people he blew out his brains.

The affair is one of the most melodramatic that ever occurred in Sheffield, and a curious fact in connection with it was that it was foretold in a dream which the mother of one of the victims had on the night before the tragedy occurred.

This was an elderly woman named Fitzsimmons. Her son, Thomas Fitzsimmons, was French's landlord—or rather his host, for it was purely as an act of charity that the miner was taken into the Fitzsimmons household some five weeks ago, at a time when he was out of work. Soon afterwards French fell in love with Norah Cole, who was a servant in Fitzsimmons' employment, and before long he succeeded in making her promise to marry him—the arrangement being that their marriage should take place at a registry office in a fortnight's time.

Apparently, however, the miner, who was of a rather brutal type, had gained the girl's consent largely through bullying her, for a few days ago she told him she had changed her mind. And next day she was warned by her employer's mother not even to go out with French, who, the elder Mrs. Fitzsimmons declared, was dangerous. The old lady asserted that on the previous night she had dreamed that shots had been fired in their kitchen and that the assailant was French.

Next day, when the Fitzsimmons family and two of their neighbors were sitting in the kitchen, French suddenly came in. Going up to Norah Cole he asked her if she intended to marry him and the girl pluckily replied that she was not going to have anything to do with him. French then drew a revolver, fired at the man Fitzsimmons, then at Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzsimmons, who had a baby on her knee and then turned to the girl.

Te told her to prepare to die. She fell on her knees and implored him not to kill her, but he was unmoved by her appealing cries. He fired three shots at her, and then shot himself in the head with the last bullet left in the revolver and fell dead.

Fitzsimmons escaped with but slight injury, but Mrs. Fitzsimmons' nose was blown away, while the girl was seriously hurt. On French's being searched, a pawn ticket for a wedding ring was found in one of his pockets. With the proceeds the man had taken out a gun license. Then he bought the revolver and cartridges.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicine greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherry-bark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure acute gastritis, chronic gastritis, chronic bronchitis, and nervous troubles and chronic coughs with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvellous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a sized quantity of the proximate of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of prostatic (vesicular) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the natural medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

Brown, a brother residing at Silverton; Elizabeth Brown, a sister, residing at Silverton; M. E. DeGuire, a nephew, and Nina S. L. Morley, a niece, of Silverton; and Alvin Brown, a brother, residing at Walla Walla.

Katie Horwath, executrix of the Geo. Horwath, deceased, estate has been authorized to lease the hop yard belonging to the said estate until the first of October.
