Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it rains your urine it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

IMPORTANT DECISIONS OF COURTS

Insurance—Evidence of Declarations Made Prior to Application.—In Nopsker v. Royal Arcanum, 64 Atlantic Reporter, 788, the supreme court of Pennsylvania holds that where an action on a policy is defended on the ground of false representation by the insured as to his health, it is competent to show declarations made by him prior to the date of the policy, where he denied in his application ever having suffered from the disease in question.

Religious Societies—Communist Ownership of Property.—The right of the Amama society of Iowa, a religious communist association incorporated as a religious association, to engage in agricultural pursuits and in business and manufacturing enterprises, is upheld in State v. Amama Society, 109 Northwestern, 394. The Iowa court notes that in many instances members of religious associations have held property in common, as, for example, the Moravians, the Shakers, the Oneida Community, and more recently the Zionists, and quotes portions of the Holy Scriptures to show that the first Christians held their property in common.

Discrimination Against Trade Unions.—The act of congress of 1898 making it a criminal offense for common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to require any employe to agree, as a condition of his employment, not to become or remain a member of any labor organization, or to threaten his removal, or otherwise discriminate against him because of such membership, or to conspire to prevent any such employe who has been discharged or left the service from obtaining future employment, is held to be unconstitutional by the United States district court for the western district of Kentucky, in United States v. Scott, 145 Federal Reporter, 431. The court holds that the enactment relates not to the safety of employes while actually discharging duties pertaining to interest commerce, but to the matter of making and enforcing contracts for hiring them. It is said that the essential purpose of the enactment is not to regulate commercial intercourse among the states. The court states that aside from what the several states through their own legislatures may do in such cases the constitution of the United States does not confer upon congress by any fair implication the power to enact such legislation.

Statute Prohibiting Forfeiture of Insurance.—The supreme court of the United States in Northwestern National Life Ins. Co. v. Riggs, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 126, holds that a state statute cutting off any defense by a life insurance company based on false and fraudulent statements in the application unless the matter misrepresented actually contributed to the death of the insured is constitutional, being applicable alike to all insurance companies doing business in the state, and does not deprive a foreign corporation of its property or liberty without due process of law. The court further states that the liberty referred to in the fourteenth amendment is the liberty of a natural and not an artificial person.

Regulation of Commerce.—The legality of a state railroad commission's regulation requiring a railroad company to stop its interstate mail trains at specified county seats where proper and adequate railway passenger facilities are otherwise afforded is questioned in Mississippi Railroad Commission v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 99. The court holds that this is virtually a regulation of interstate commerce, and that the ruling of the commission is unconstitutional.

Rights of Minority Stockholders.—The supreme court of Illinois in Dunbar v. American Tel. & Tel. Co., 79 Northern Reporter, 423, passes upon several questions relating to monopolies and the rights of minority stockholders. It is held that a company cannot purchase in its own name the majority of the capital stock of another company for the purpose of controlling the latter and preventing competition, and further that the purchase in the name of others as agents or trustees will not relieve the transaction of its illegal aspect. The court further upholds the right of minority stockholders to test the validity of such transactions, stating that the minority stockholders of the purchased corporation might come into equity to restrain the purchasing company from voting the stock which it illegally held. The court adds that aside from the fact that the purchase was beyond the power of the purchasing corporation, the complainants would be entitled to equitable relief, for the reason that the purchasing company would maintain a board of directors for the purchased corporation, which would act in the real interests of the purchaser, thereby injuring and finally destroying the interests of the purchased corporation. This is held to be fraud against the stockholders of the latter.

Computation of Per Diem Compensation.—The question of what constitutes a day's work for such compensation should be allowed under statutes providing that state and county officers shall receive no stated salary but be allowed a per diem compensation for their services, is passed upon by the North Dakota supreme court in State v. Richardson, 109 Northwestern Reporter, 1026. The county commissioners were allowed a stated sum for the time they were necessarily employed in the duties of their office, and mileage for the distance actually traveled. The commissioners had been accustomed to charge the county for overtime when they were out on their official duties at night, and also to charge mileage for one day coming to meetings and one day going from meetings. As the result of this practice one commissioner had collected for not less than 36 days' service in one month. This practice the court says cannot be upheld under the law, as there is no provision that less than 24 hours shall constitute a day's work.

Rheumatic Pains. I have been a very great sufferer from the dreadful disease, rheumatism, for a number of years. I have tried many medicines but never got much relief from any of them until two years ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I found relief before I had used all of one bottle, but kept on applying it and soon felt like a different woman. Through my advice many of my friends have tried it and can tell you how wonderfully it has worked.—Mrs. Sarah A. Cole, 140 S. New St. Dover, Del. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes rest and sleep possible. For sale at Dr. Stone's drug store.

Lard has been in existence a long time—so has indigestion

Human nature is hard to solve. People who are most particular about adapting the weight of their wearing apparel to the season and its conditions, who never think of going out in a storm without an umbrella and rubbers, who would not sit in a draft for a farm, will calmly sit at the table and stuff themselves with lard-soaked food and not realize for an instant that it is likely to give them a full-fledged case of indigestion and clog their whole inner machinery.

Lard is produced from hog-fats, sometimes impure, always indigestible, and there's a good day coming when no one will think of using it for cooking. Cottolene is the only rational frying and shortening medium in the world. It is made from refined vegetable oil and choice beef suet—everything about it is digestible and conducive to health.

It is a product of Nature. It will make pure, palatable, healthful food, and food which anyone can eat and enjoy without the after-pangs of a disordered stomach. Every good grocer sells Cottolene. It comes only in sealed white pails with a red label and band. In the center of the label is our trade mark—a steer's head in cotton plant wreath. Try Cottolene once and you'll never more be a friend to lard.

COTTOLENE was granted a GRAND PRIZE (highest possible award) over all other cooking fats at the recent Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and food cooked with COTTOLENE another GRAND PRIZE.

"Home Helps" a book of 300 choice recipes, edited by Mrs. Rorer, is yours for a 2 cent stamp, if you address The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago.

A NEW FEATURE—The patent air-tight top on this pail is for the purpose of keeping COTTOLENE clean, fresh and wholesome; it also prevents it from absorbing all disagreeable odors of the grocery, such as fish, oil, etc.
