Lebanon. The commission will meet in Salem June 3 to select books for the next six years.

The book prices of the last six years, compared with the prices Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and charged prior to that time, show that the books under the new prices have cost $109,305 less than they would have cost under the old prices, in the primary and grammar grades. For the 100,000-odd school children in Oregon, this represents a saving of about 17 cents for each pupil 1 100011000 each year.

The total sales of primary and grammar textbooks in the last six rears, according to the records of the J. K. Gill company, which has distributed the books, have amounted to $472,487.77, at retail prices, but had the old books been used at old prices, this would have been increased by $109,305. As a matter of fact the saving has been somewhat greater, since many books in 1901-2 were bought for between one-third and one-half of the list prices on exchange of new books.

As many of the books purchased on the exchange plan lasted two or three years, it will be seen that the publishers did not receive the full benefit of the new book prices for the whole period of six years. This condition entered into the fixing of the prices by the publishers, however, so that they may be assumed to have received fair compensation.

The following table shows the number of each book sold, the retail price charged, the price charged for the old books, which the new books supplanted, the total sum for each pook and the saving:

The most important price reductions made in the present book list were the following: Second reader, 40 to 30 cents; third reader, 55 to 40 cents; fourth reader, 75 to 50 cents; fifth reader, $1 to 60 cents; primary English, 45 to 30 cents; elementary grammar, 45 to 40 cents; higher grammar, 65 to 60 cents; elementary arithmetic, 35 to 25 cents; advanced arithmetic; 65 to 45 cents; elementary geography, 65 to 60 cents; advanced geography, $1.25 to $1.20; health book, $1.10 to 80 cents: elementary history, 65 to 50 cents; advanced history, $1.10 to $1.

Out of the retail prices booksellers are allowed 12% per cent commission by the publishers. The dealers have been clamoring for a higher commission, and should it be granted the publishers will probably advance the retail price to make up the added expense.

By the Work of the Text-Book Commission of Six Years Ago

Last Six-Year Period Cost Parents $100,-000 Less for Children's Schooling Than Did the Previous Term

Six years ago a new system of public school textbooks was adopted for the state of Oregon.

FOR FOUR YEARS PREVIOUS TO THAT THE CAPITAL JOURNAL FOUGHT FOR A CHANGE IN THE STATE TEXTBOOK SYSTEM OF THIS STATE.

Public sentiment finally forced a change and the result of throwing the state open to competition resulted in a new adoption.

Figures are presented below to show that the new adoption HAS SAVED TO THE PEOPLE OF THIS STATE ON SCHOOL BOOKS $110,000 IN SIX YEARS.

The saving effected by the reform which The Capital Journal championed was about twenty per cent on the retail price of all books.

The Capital Journal did not advocate the adoption of any particular books, BUT APPROVED THE SELECTIONS MADE BY THE STATE TEXTBOOK COMMISSION.

That commission was composed of business men who were never accused of being influenced.

The Capital Journal's campaign for a new adoption six years ago is amply justified by the facts as given IN THE STATISTICS PUBLISHED BELOW.

There is no demand for many changes in the present textbooks used. and the commission will go slow in substituting merely for the sake of a change, UNLESS IT CAN HE SHOWN THAT A GREAT IMPROVEMENT CAN BE MADE IN THE TEXT AND A GREAT SAVING EFFECTED.

Here is the presentation of facts presented by the Oregonian, April 11. 1907:

Savings forSix Years.

A saving of 20 per cent in the cost of school books in the last six years is the result of the selections made in 1901 by the textbook commission, composed of H. W. Scott, C. A. Johns, William M. Colvig, P. L. Campbell and W. M. Ladd. The same commisson has been reappointed. with the exception of Mr. Ladd, who is succeeded by M. A. Miller, of

All the foregoing figures as to number of books sold are the totals up to January 1 of this year, beginning July 1, 1901.

The textbook commission will face a contest between educators who want numerous changes in book selections and other who wish to avoid the added expense that the changes would entail on parents for purchase of the new books. Educators argue that the best books are none too good for Oregon pupils and that changes would not be very expensive. They say that there are steady improvements in school books, not so much in print and binding as in method of instruction, and that many books become outdated in six years. They cite that the cost of new books would be lessened for those holding old books by exchange of the old texts for the new at an allowance of between one-third and one-half the price of the new books. There is little doubt, however, that there is a strong sentiment against many changes of books.

WILL RESCUE BODY.

Been Buried in Snow Several Months,

A Los Angeles special says: Harry Kelly left this city heading a party of men bound for Inyo county, there to make the hazardous attempt at recovering the body of his son, Raymond Kelly, which has lain for five months past in the summit of White mountain, buried in 20 feet of snow and ice.

Young Kelly lost his life on the mountain while returning from a prospecting trip in the early months of last winter. At the summit of the Inyo county range he was overcome by the high altitude and died from heart failure. His sole companion, a young man named Thompson, made herole efforts to save his friend, carrying him for miles on his back, but was finally compelled to desort the body and make his way out as rescue was impossible.

Several weeks ago, when the snow began to melt, Mrs. E. F. Schooley went almost daily from her cabin. three miles from where the body lax, and kept it covered with fresh snow. Finally Mrs. Schooley and her husband were able to carry the body to the shady side of the mountain, Sick Passengers Reach Scattle Where where they interrod it under ten feet of snow. Additional snow having fallen since, the body now lies under 20 feet of frozen snow and ice.

The efforts to reach the place where the body lies from the base necessary to carry the body on the shoulders of men for 20 miles to vanced case of smallpox, and another Whitney station, at the base of the passenger, name unknown, was af-

From Whitney it is planned to take the body overland to Reno, Nev., thence to this city by way of San Francisco.

New State Banking Law. (Jefferson Review.)

There is at least one act of the late lamented legislature which seems to be approved by the public generally. and that is the banking law which is the first law ever on Oregon's statutes to regulate their very important branch of business. Under this law every bank in the state, private or incoropated, will be compelled to limit its loans on certain classes of securtities, publish statements of its condition at regular intervals, the same as is done by national banks, and conform to other restrictions calculated to more thoroughly secure depositors. Jefferson has been exceptionally well situated in this matter, as our home concern, the Oregon State bank, has to some extent made its condition public by voluntary statements, and the management is well pleased with the new law. When in the bank Tuesday we asked President Aupperle as to his opinion of it.

"I am glad to see the new law," said Mr. Aupperle. "It will be a benefit to first class banking institutions, and have a tendency to discourage those of a wildcat charbefore it goes into full effect Jefferson's popular financial institution will be as thoroughly under supervision as any bank in the state, and this is just what Mr. Aupperle is anxious to have.
