

Girlhood and Scott's Emulsion are linked together.

The girl who takes Scott's Emulsion has plenty of rich, red blood; she is plump, active and energetic.

The reason is that at a period when a girl's digestion is weak, Scott's Emulsion provides her with powerful nourishment in easily digested form.

It is a food that builds and keeps up a girl's strength.

KILLING GERMS.

A Plan That Slaughtered Them—Interesting Experiment at the College.

Germs were slaughtered with deadly effect in a disinfectant experiment by the bacteriological students at the college the other day. The microbes got a dose of fumes that slayed them as effectively as Japs slaughter foes in a sea fight. One bunch of little common germs survived the ordeal, but they were too badly handled to make off with any of the baggage.

The experiment was by Calvin Ingle and Arthur Berman, students in the department, and the young men who engaged in a germ foray several weeks ago, accounts of which appeared in the Times and other state papers. Prof Pernot supervised operations, but the results achieved belong to the young men whose pursuits of microbes has attracted much attention. In the former experiments formaldehyde was used, the gas being made by a generator in which the principle for the manufacture of fume was application of heat. In the new experiment, the heat was omitted and the fumes made by chemical process. The scheme was originally discovered by two Maine men, but it has not so far come into wide use. The college experiment indicates the chemical plan to be the better.

Potassium permanganate of potash, 17 ounces, and a quart of formaldehyde was the mixture, brought together in a five-gallon earthen vessel. An effervescence resulted in which the fumes that issued were extraordinary and long continued. Anthrax and pus germs, pathogenic by the way to man, and that survived one ordeal under the former plan died like sheep under the new plan. Not one of them lived through it, and but one of the harmless germs, several of which escaped with their liver in the former experiment, survived the latest test. The experiment demonstrates beyond a doubt that the chemical process is the more effective as well as considerably cheaper, and more simple in application.—Corvallis Times.

Don't Put Off

For tomorrow what you can do today. If you put off buying a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment, when that pain comes you won't have any, buy a bottle today. A positive cure for Rheumatism, Burns, Cuts, Sprains, Contracted Muscles, etc. T. S. Graham, Prairie Grove, Ark., writes: "I wish to thank you for the good results I received from Snow Liniment. It positively cured me of Rheumatism after others had failed." Sold by D. J. Fry.

AN OLD TIMEPIECE.

Still Ticking Off the Minutes After a Hundred and Ten Years.

With the name of its maker, dead these hundred years, written in his own hand across its face, a tall oil corner clock stands in the library of the home of George B. Yandes, 122 East Michigan street, ticking away the time as it did in the days before Indiana was a state and while Indianapolis was yet a little frontier settlement of a few log cabins.

The clock, which has been in the family of Mr. Yandes for 85 years, and which was hammered and carved out by the hand of August Hoff, a clockmaker of Lancaster, Pa., perhaps a quarter of a century before, is well preserved, and although none of the wheels or other pieces of mechanism has ever been replaced it keeps time almost as accurately as it did the days when George Washington was president of the United States.

Brought across the mountains and plains from Pennsylvania to Indiana in 1821 by Mr. Yandes' father, the old clock has remained in Indianapolis ever since, witnessing the growth of the Hoosier metropolis. It has ticked off the seconds consumed in erecting the monument, the state house, and practically all of the public and private buildings now standing where a wilderness of forests trees stood in the days when it was perhaps already a generation old.

In bringing the clock from Pennsylvania to Indianapolis, Mr. Yandes' father carried the works on horse back, guarding it as carefully as he would a child. Upon reaching here, he had a case built for it by Caleb Scudder, the first cabinet maker that ever settled in Indianapolis. This old case of cherry still contains the original works brought on horse back across the mountains.

The clock is one of those rare old pieces of mechanism, wrought entirely by hand, which show not only the hours of the day, but the day of the month the change of the moon and the ebb and flow of the tides, on its face. The dial is quaintly ornamented with gold tracery and a beautiful bird. The signature of Hoff, together with his native city, Lancaster, is written legibly above the Roman numeral "VI" on the dial.

"The old clock is perhaps the strongest recollection of my childhood," said Mr. Yandes, who was 65 years of age a few evenings ago. "I well remember how I thought in those days that the man who used to tinker with it to keep it in good running order was the most wonderful of men. The sound of the old clock's gong in striking is unlike that of any I have ever heard, and to me it has a peculiar suggestiveness. It has the same sound it had in my boyhood days, although sometimes I fancy it has grown weaker with years."

CIRCUS COMES TOMORROW.

Wonderful Mid-air Acts With the Greater Norris & Rowe Circus.

Norris & Rowe are celebrating the 20th year of their partnership and for the present traveling season have engaged more and varied acts than they have ever before. It is proposed that the tour will mark a new epoch in the history of this popular organization. It is a fact that no other circus has as loyal a following as have these young showmen. For almost a decade now they have steadily grown in size and upon every side one hears murmurs of the remarkable progress of Norris & Rowe. Probably the highest salaried mid-air acts in the business today are those of the celebrated four flying Banvards and the noted Lefel troupe of aerialists. The former consists of two young men and two young women, and the latter of three daring athletic acrobats. Both acts are performed at the very extreme top of the huge tent. The Banvards have what is called a "flying" act and flying it is. The graceful daring aerialists fly through the air from bar to bar, the men cast the young women from one to the other and they turn single and double somersaults in re-passing. It is one of the prettiest as well as the most sensational numbers that has ever been accomplished. The Lefel trio perform upon aerial horizontal triple bars. The act is hard enough to do when the bars are on the ground, but placed high in the air make it more difficult and hazardous, but the clean limbed athletes do an astonishing number of seemingly impossible feats. It is with a deep drawn sigh of relief by the audiences when the fearless and intrepid skilled aerialists accomplish all their feats and come down from their dizzy heights to smilingly bow their thanks to the tumultuous applause that greets their efforts. These are but two of the host of noted acts that will be seen when Norris & Rowe exhibit at Salem, Saturday, April 27.

Hundredth Anniversary Celebrated.

Ithaca, N. Y., April 26.—The hundredth anniversary of the birth of Ezra Cornell, the founder of Cornell university, is being celebrated here today with a very elaborate program. The celebration will also continue tomorrow. Today Andrew Carnegie, one of the trustees, delivered an address, speaking on Ezra Cornell. Ex-President Andrew D. White spoke for the faculty and Senator Foraker, of Ohio, and David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford university, represented the alumni. On the following day the new buildings of the state college of agriculture will be dedicated. Governor C. E. Hughes making the principal address.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription." The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alternative of blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large percentage of essential cases where the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach, as catarrhal dyspepsia, bowels (as constipation, diarrhea, uterus or other pelvic organs). Even the chronic or nervous diseases of the kidneys, it is often successful in affecting the cure.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful yet gently acting purifying tonic and nervine. For weak women, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down—"Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain, and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars, each both giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines, of known composition, any secret nostrum.

NATURE PROVIDES FOR SICK WOMEN

a more potent remedy in the roots and herbs of the field than was ever produced from drugs.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines and Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., in her study of roots and herbs and their power over disease discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value. During its record of more than thirty years, its long list of cures of those serious ills peculiar to women, entitles Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the respect and confidence of every fair minded person and every thinking woman.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, displacements, ulceration or inflammation, backache, flatulency, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

No other remedy in the country has such a record of cures of female ills, and thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable compound and what it has done for them.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. For twenty-five years she has been attending sick women free of charge. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and as her assistant for years before her decease advised under her immediate direction. Address, Lynn, Mass.
