MEXICO PREPARED FOR WAR

Hundred Thousand Troops On Guatemalan Border

DETERMINED TO PUNISH ASSASSIN

DEMANDS EXTRADITION OF LAMA

Revolutionists at Home Make It Lively for Caberara

Mexico, May 2.—Over 100,000 troops are mobilized near the Guatemalan border. A serious addition to the situation was caused by the dispute about the extradition of General Lama, who is wanted in Mexico on the charge of conspiracy to bring about the assassination of former President Barilla, of Guatemala. Inuits are daily reported of Mexican citizens in Guatemala, and the people are greatly inflamed. Before the Lama incident, revolutionists in Guatemala had plotted the overthrow of Caberara.

Mexico, May 2.—The News today states that Mexico's preparation for war promises to involve Cabrera, of Guatemala in serious difficulty at home, and a revolution is said to threaten him.

WILL NOT IMPEACH HIM

Ten Thousand Adopt Open-Letter Criticising the President.

Chicago, May 2.—Labor has decided to abandon the plan to file articles of impeachment against Roosevelt, the legal committee advising them it would be "worse than useless to attempt to proceed against the President at this time, when the senate was filled with his political associates and dependants." Instead of adopting impeachment resolutions, at their meetings ten thousand workmen last night adopted an open letter criticising the President and pledging support to Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone. Eight thousand members were given "undesirable citizens" buttons.

Many Veterans Took Part in Parade —General's Son Present

Washington, May 2.—With hundreds of war scarred veterans, diplomatic and military representatives of foreign nations as guests of honor the government this afternoon unveiled the magnificent equestrian statue of Major-General McClellan, the great army organizer of the Civil War. Roosevelt delivered the principal address and Generals Stekler and Howard contributed to the oratory. The President was escorted from the White House by a squad of cavalry. General H. O. Dwight, president of the Army of the Potomac, through whose efforts the funds were raised, and an appropriation secured from congress for the erection of the statue, conducted the unveiling. Dr. George McClellan, of Philadelphia, nephew of McClellan pulled aside the flags, and the Fourth battery of artillery fired a salute, while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner." The unveiling was preceded by a parade of the troops. Major McClellan, mayor of New York, the general's son, was present.

The office of the attorney for the prosecution will be guarded day and night. Extra guards will be constantly on duty at the jail. The public is not excited, but a determined feeling exists that the prisoner must have a trial, and that justice shall not be thwarted by any show of violence.

TO MARRY MILLIONAIRE SCRUE.

Mabelle Gilman to Wed the Disreputable Corey.

New York, May 2.—Wise maids and sagacious bell boys surrounded Mabelle Gilman as an impenetrable guard at the apartment hotel Gotham today. The actress remained invulnerable to the attacks of the army of reporters and artists. The persistent rumor that she had already married Corey in Paris is not deemed worthy of denial. There is another rumor that Corey has secured the famous Madison Square Garden apartments of the late Stanford White, but this is also allowed to go by default.

New York, May 2.—Late this afternoon Mabelle Gilman consented to answer five questions, one that the wedding day is set for the 13th; two, the wedding ceremony will be performed by a clergyman, and not in Corey's apartments at the Sherry; three, that afterwards my home will be in New York; by my husband's side; four, that no one will be present except members of the immediate family; fifth, that we were never married before.

IDAHO CASES WILL BREAK ALL RECORDS

GIDDY OLD GIRL.

Mrs. Mizner Wants Another Sample of Married Life.

New York, May 2.—Mrs. Mary Adelaide Mizner has filed suit for divorce against Wilson Mizner, the young Californian whom she married in romantic fashion soon after her first husband had been buried. Besides the usual statutory grounds cited in the action, the suit of Mrs. Mizner is unusual in that she claims she was the victim of a conspiracy to get her money; that her husband never loved her, and married her merely to get her money; that he ill-treated her and did not behave in the affectionate manner of a husband, so that she was compelled to leave him.

No real opposition to the suit is expected, as the life led by Mizner in New York, according to the lawyers, afforded ample opportunity to get evidence for divorce. It is expected that in a few weeks the case will be ended and the decree signed.

Thus will end the romance that startled New York a little more than a year ago, when the middle-aged woman married young Lochinvar from California. Mizner and Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes were married in this city, January 30, 1906, about a month after Mr. Yerkes' death.

Coincident with the news of the divorce suit it was reported that the widow of the "traction king" is to be married a third time as soon as the bonds between her and Wilson Mizner are sundered.

CROWNED MAY QUEEN.

Miss Phoebe Olsen Honored by Fellow Students.

The coronation exercises of the queen of May were witnessed by a large throng of students and friends yesterday on the University campus. The royal procession started from Lausanne hall, and Queen Phoebe was preceded by two trumpeters, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the lord high chancellor. The approach of the queen was heralded by the archbishop, who called out: "Hear ye, the queen approaches." The queen was accompanied by six maids of honor.

The coronation exercises were pretty and impressive. After the crown of roses was placed upon the queen she arose from the dais and addressed her subjects, wishing them and the alma mater happiness and continued prosperity.

Mrs. Mernie A. Hugg rendered a beautiful solo, "May Morning," in her usual attractive manner. The program was closed by the May pole drill, given by twenty young ladies.
