LITTLE BOY JIM.

Out of the angel land he came, Little Boy Jim. Without any clothes, not even the name Of Little Boy Jim. Left all the brightness of heavenly skies— Just borrowed enough for his heart and his eyes And, maybe, some nectar for tears when he cries, Little Boy Jim.

Plucked from the golden street a brick, Did Little Boy DJim, Got a big angel that knew the trick, Cute Little Jim, To turn it into a heart of gold— The angel scoured heaven to get the best mold, And put in a piece of his own heart, I'm told, For Little Jim.

And he had it tuned in a perfect key, Little Boy Jim, To keep it in constant harmony, Wise Boy, Jim. And all the time that he is away The heavenly choir will sing and play, But he hears the echoing melody— Lucky Boy Jim.

That is the reason a part of each day Little Boy Jim Ceases his baby prattle and play— The Angel in him Is list'ning, while into his eyes will creep A wistful look so tender and deep— The angel voices are singing—Ah sleep, Little Boy Jim.

—P. A. Conolly in the National Magazine.

WHO CAN JUDGE SPEED?

Who can judge of the speed of a locomotive or an automobile when they see it passing a given point? One person will declare that a train is moving very fast, another seems to think it is glued to the rails. One will say the speed is forty miles an hour, another will say it is seventy-five.

One man will look at an automobile and declare it to be racing along at a dangerous speed; another man will declare it could be stopped in its length. NOT EVEN POLICE OFFICERS CAN JUDGE THE SPEED OF A MOTOR CAR UNTIL THEY HAVE HAD A DEMONSTRATION OF ACTUAL SPEEDS MADE TO THEM.

How much more difficult, then, for the locomotive engineer or the motor driver to judge his speed by simply noting the passing objects. Either can tell whether he is jobbing along, or has attained a sharp clip, but after forty miles an hour is passed can either tell whether or not he is traveling fifty, sixty, or seventy miles an hour?

The Engineering News holds that ABOVE FORTY MILES AN HOUR ALL SPEEDS LOOK ALIKE TO THE ENGINEER OR MOTOR DRIVER, and that speed can be judged by them in that event only by noting the time taken in passing between known points. Thus high speed is really guesswork on the part of the engineer, and he may strike a curve at sixty miles an hour, which cannot possibly bear a train going over fifty.

A speed indicator should be in every cab, not only because of this confusion in high speeds, but because a locomotive engineer has a number of things to do besides watch the mile posts. His steam, the grades, the curves, the whistle posts, and numerous other things make mental calculation at high speed quite difficult.

The driver of the high speed motor car is able, by certain appliances, TO GLANCE AT A DIAL AND KNOW THE SPEED IN MILES PER HOUR THAT HE IS MAKING. If he goes above forty-five miles an hour he may be unconscious of the difference between fifty and sixty miles an hour; but the machine that operates the dial is more sensitive. It tells the difference between forty-nine and five-sixths miles an hour and plump fifty miles an hour.

Moreover, were a locomotive to be equipped with one of these and go off the track the registering machine included with the dial WOULD TELL THE PUBLIC JUST WHAT SPEED THE ENGINE WAS MAKING WHEN THE WHEELS LEFT THE RAILS. Thus the dial would be there to help the engineer and the registering machine would be there to help science in the study of speeds as applied to safe travel.

The Engineering News not only recommends the use of these speed registers on locomotives, but takes occasion to say that certain railroad managers have declined to have such contraptions on their trains. A speed indicator is a convenience as long as an engineer cares to look at it, but when a speed register gets before a coroner's jury it hurts the great American game of dodging responsibility.

WHERE AMERICANS ARE SLOW.

The general impression of the American is that he gets right at the heart of anything, hates restraint, and quickly adapts himself to new conditions. This operates to his favor in many ways. In business, in society and in invention his uneasiness speeds him along.

When, however, it comes to legal matters and affairs of the government, that same uneasiness operates toward deferring the action of the courts, and to multiplicity of legislation.

IN THE MATTER OF BLOCKING THE COURTS, THE AMERICAN IS A WONDER. In every city there is a record of criminal trials whose verdicts have been almost useless. Appeals are taken, governors are sought, supreme courts are worried, and when execution of sentence does come, it is very tardy.

In civil suits the game is to block the adversary until a compromise can be reached. A willingness to abide by the decision of a jury, as if by the decision of an arbitration board, is rare in the American.

A study of this habit of blocking legislation is made in the current number of the Living Age. From the article some notable examples are taken. In Vermont a woman MURDERED HER HUSBAND ON AUGUST 13, 1902, WAS ARRESTED A FEW DAYS LATER, WAS SHORTLY AFTER CONDEMNED TO DEATH, BUT IN CONSEQUENCE OF SEVERAL APPEALS WAS NOT ACTUALLY HANGED UNTIL DECEMBER 8, 1903. A New York lawyer, arrested for murder in September, 1900, was indicted in May, 1901, was convicted in March, 1902, and remained under sentence of death from that time until December, 1906, when his punishment was commuted by the governor of the state to that of life imprisonment. Everyone in Seattle remembers the long delays in the Nordstrom case owing to the activity of James Hamilton Lewis.

Only lately in New York a judge of the court of general sessions, when pronouncing sentence of death on a convicted murderer, and NAMING A DATE FOR THE EXECUTION, DECLARED HIS OWN SENTENCE "A FARCE. There is only one instance," he said, "of a sentence of death being carried out on the date fixed by the lower court. That was in the case of the slayer of President McKinley."

The captain of the General Slocum, which was burned in the East River in June, 1904, with the loss of 1,000 lives, was not tried until January, 1906, and the owners of the steamboat, though pronounced equally culpable by the government inquiry, have not yet been placed in the dock.

In civil suits some citations are made by The Living Age. A BOY IN CLEVELAND, O., WAS INJURED BY A RAILWAY TRAIN TEN YEARS AGO, WHEN HE WAS 11 YEARS OLD. The case has been banded to and fro between the courts until the lad has come of age, and it is now ruled that whatever results have so far been reached are invalidated by the fact that HE IS AN ADULT, AND MUST THEREFORE PLEAD IN HIS OWN NAME.

By a careful study of averages it has been found that a year must elapse for a jury case to be reached for trial in Indianapolis and San Francisco, two years in Boston, and three years in Chicago and New York. It has been estimated that an English judge disposes of twice as many cases in the same time as his American contemporary. He is enabled to do so from the fact that Englishmen more readily speed their legal disputes to the bar of justice, and are far more ready to accept the ruling of the court as justice in the case.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. B. Schriber, of 560 High St., Salem, Ore., says: "The good reports I had heard concerning Doan's Kidney Pills induced me to go to Dr. Stone's drug store and procure a supply. I had been suffering from an incessant backache which not only troubled me through the day but broke my rest at night. I began to feel the effects of Doan's Kidney Pills after I had taken a few doses. Relief speedily came and then an absolute cure. There has been no sign of the backache nor any other symptom since. I am only too pleased to let others know of such a valuable and effective remedy."

Relief From Rheumatic Pains.

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain and lame from it my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by Dr. Stone's drug store.
