

STATE NEWS

The jury in the case of the State against Hutchinson, on trial at Roseburg, in which he is charged with adultery, failed to reach a verdict, and was discharged Friday night. The case was continued until the next term.

Captain A. W. Gowan, receiver of the land office at Burns, says the settlers are flocking into the Harney and Malheur counties by the hundreds, and that 12,000 acres have been homesteaded in this district during the month of April alone, and that May and June will see a still larger acreage filed upon. He says that his office has been doing double maximum business for several months.

In crossing the John Day river at his ranch, about eight miles above Spray, Monday afternoon, James Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Paul, was drowned, and at the last report his body had not been recovered. The place where he was crossing the river was below the junction of the north and south forks of the John Day. His horse reared and fell backward, and both animal and rider disappeared.

The Southern Pacific has begun operations in earnest for the rushing of the completion of the Drain-Coos Bay railroad. A large two-story frame building is filled to capacity with cement for the construction of bridges and an area of over half an acre is covered to a height of ten feet with 90-pound steel rails. Material for the building of eight iron trestle bridges has been rushed to Scottsburg and construction on them will commence immediately. It is thought that next fall will see the completion of the road to the town of Reedsport on the Umpqua river.

Peculiar mystery surrounds the actions of a party, supposedly a woman, who attempted to enter the home of G. W. Bohlen, at Coos Bay a few days ago. Mr. Bohlen lives in the residence at the rear of the Times building. He was awakened by some one knocking on his front door about 11:15. Shortly after the glass in the front door crashed in. Mr. Bohlen opened a door on the second floor, and asked the woman what she wanted. The party stated she wanted to get in, and on being asked why turned around and walked away. The woman was tall and had a white shawl or fascinator thrown over her head. The entire family was wrought up over the incident, and Mr. Bohlen's son hurriedly dressed and went in search of the glass breaker.

X-RAYS

The Sultan of Turkey was a few days ago presented by one of his wives or slave girls or some female employed about the seraglio, with a pledge of affection in the shape of a bouncing baby girl. As it was up in the numbers, the event being a monthly occurrence in Abdul Hamid's household, there was no gathering of representatives of the nations, and the kid was not passed around on a tin platter. It was just numbered and placed in the coop.

With the high wages paid unskilled labor, and the low salaries paid in many callings requiring education, there is little excuse for colleges, at least from a money-earning point of view. Most of the school teachers in the country earn less than the janitor in the buildings in which they teach.

If that young school teacher who was lost in Washington along with a small boy and a dog had given the dog a chance it would have taken them home. When it comes to woodcraft, any old dog can give a school teacher, or almost anyone else, pointers, and it need not be a pointer dog, either.

In Montana the stork is classified with the singing birds, and is protected by the law. Most of the songs probably are lullabies.

In the matter of the Jamestown exposition farce it is now thought by the management that the buildings will be completed and the exhibits, most of them, in place, for the closing exercises.

Mayor Busse, of Chicago, began his business career as a coal dealer, and then became a city contractor, and in spite of this the people of Chicago point him out as being thoroughly honest. Time for the witty paragraphers to close up shop.

President Roosevelt, in his address at Lansing, Michigan, Friday again pointed out the duty of Americans to raise families. It really looks as though Teddy was after the immortal George's title of "Father of the Country."

PROBABLY RE-ELECTED AS MAYOR

LANE PRECINCTS GIVE BIG VOTES

North End and Other Devlin Precincts Show Light Vote

Portland, June 3.—This afternoon Lane supporters are confidently claiming the re-election of the mayor by an increased majority. There was a heavy early morning vote on the East Side and other precincts admittedly in favor of Lane, and a correspondingly light vote in the downtown, North End and other Devlin strongholds, giving color to their claims. Heavy betting continued throughout the morning, but since 11 o'clock the flood of Lane money bet Devlin off the board. Lane money was posted without takers. It is estimated that $70,000 are wagered on the result, breaking all previous records. The probability is Lane will cross the river with an increased plurality over two years ago.

The betting this afternoon is three to two on Lane.

AFTER ANTHRACITE ROADS.

Department of Justice Thinks They Violate the Law.

Washington, June 3.—It was announced in this afternoon's papers that the investigation of the anthracite coal-carrying roads had been placed in the hands of Assistant Attorney-General Purdy, with instructions to "take such action as he deems advisable." It is explained that the bituminous roads are not involved. It is understood the recommendations strongly favor the prosecution under the anti-trust laws. The department of justice believes a conspiracy in restraint of trade exists in the handling of anthracite.

Will Act on Suggestion.

Washington, June 3.—Senator Cullom told the President today that his Indianapolis speech was one of the best ever made. Later Cullom said: "I think congress will not hesitate to enact into law the president's reasonable recommendations for more railroad legislation, and it is certain some legislation concerning over-capitalization will be passed by the next congress."

Just before the noon hour on Friday the drillers at the artesian well being bored beside the New S. P. R. roundhouse, at Roseburg, made an unexpected find. At a depth of about 600 feet the big drill passed through the body of hard rock in which they had recently been working and entered a strata of sand which very much resembles sea sand only being darker in color. In this sand was found a flow of salty and very brackish water, which soon filled the well to a depth of about 120 feet, or almost exactly at sea level, the surface of the railroad yards being about 480 feet above the sea, according to the measurements of the engineers in charge of the U. S. geological survey.
