TEXTBOOK COMMISSION IN SESSION

Meets to Make Adoption for the Next Six Years

The Oregon Textbook Commission, acting under the Day bill, are in session at the state capitol to adopt textbooks for the next six years.

They met at 2 p. m., and the first business was the election of a chairman and secretary. All efforts to take the selection of textbooks out of the hands of business men and put it in the hands of the county superintendents failed in the last legislature. The commission now stands: H. W. Scott, Portland; C. A. Johns, Baker City; Wm. Colvig, Jacksonville; P. A. Campbell, Eugene; M. A. Miller, Lebanon.

So far as the people are concerned they are asking no changes in textbooks. A few useless books could be cut out, and a more rational system of penmanship adopted.

The commission is holding its sessions in the rooms of the president of the senate, and about 20 representatives of the publishing houses are holding down seats in the senate chamber awaiting invitations to come before the commission. H. W. Scott was elected chairman, F. K. Lovell secretary.

BAND CONCERT.

Large Crowd in Marion Square Entertained Yesterday.

The Salem Military Band gave its regular Sunday afternoon concert yesterday in Marion square. Ideal weather, excellent music, attractive costumes and pretty faces were all in evidence to blend into one harmonious whole to make one of the most pleasant afternoons of the season. The band will give its next open-air concert in Wilson avenue tonight. The concert which is usually given on Wednesday evening will be omitted owing to other engagements of several members of the band.

She Will Rot First.

Colorado Springs, June 3.—Because Ekne Fuller refused to be dissuaded from her belief that possession is nine points of law, she is spending her hours in a cell at the county jail.

She was brought into court Saturday morning because she refused to surrender the books of the Mary Murphy Mining Company, which she acknowledged to be in her possession. Miss Fuller claims about $60 salary for work done upon the books. When the mining company demurred to immediate payment of the sum Miss Fuller is alleged to have informed the officers that as long as payment was deferred just so long would they seek in vain for the books. She was sentenced to jail until she would consent to turn over the books.

"I'll stay here till I rot," she said, "but I shan't tell where they are."

Still Unconscious.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon young Frohmader, who was so badly hurt on the boat at Newberg Sunday, had not yet regained consciousness, and the final result of his injuries cannot yet be determined.

Addressed Students.

The students of the Willamette University were given a rare treat this morning in the chapel, by being addressed by the eloquent Baptist divine, J. W. A. Stewart, D. D., dean of the Rochester theological seminary, at Rochester, N. Y. Dr. Stewart ranks among the foremost theological speakers of the day, and held the large audience of students and visitors this morning in marked attention.

He pictured three classes of students, firstly those who worked merely to gain a degree by "hook or crook," and usually, said the speaker, "they employ the latter;" secondly, the student who gains a degree fairly, but considers that is the crowning effort of their lives, and do not attain to the high standard that would have been possible with energy and earnest study had they grasped the great truth that a degree does not necessarily mean success. The third class were represented as those who worked for knowledge and fully developed faculties, regardless of the A. M. or the various degrees. Said he: "Unless the student dips into the great realm of literature and wholesome moral truths that are to be found outside the curriculum of the college course, his education will be incomplete."

Sir Walter Scott states this truth in the following line: "The best part of every man's education is that which he gives himself." He dwelt on some of the great evils which are confronting the American people today, among which was divorce. Statistics were shown where in one county in the United States there were as high as 35 divorces in one month. In a province in Canada, containing two or three million people, the legal separations do not average more than three or four per year. In conclusion the speaker made an earnest appeal for the students to develop their highest faculties and take a stand in all questions that pertain to the betterment of country, home and church.

Father Royal, formerly of this city, now of Portland, was present, and being invited to speak, briefly drew two pictures, one of despair, dishonesty, ignorance and dissipation and the other hope, enlightenment, education and refinement. Father Royal is now 87 years of age, yet has a clear mind, and is an earnest and entertaining speaker. He has watched the growth of Willamette University for many decades, and is always ready to say a word in its behalf.

Kept the Teacher Busy.

Miss Anna Crowe, a school teacher in Bellingham, Wash., risked her life Thursday afternoon to save a boy who had fallen into the Nooksack river. She was plucking on the river with Rev. J. R. Macartney and family when a 3-year-old child fell into the water. Miss Crowe caught the child and dragged it from the water. A young son of the preacher became excited and tumbled from a log on which he was standing into 15 feet of water. Miss Crowe swam into the swift current and caught the boy, who struggled so desperately that she had difficulty in keeping him above water. Finally assistance came and both were rescued.

Children's Day Program.

One of the most unique programs that has been given in this city was presented last night in the First Christian church. The entertainment was given by the young people of the church, and was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience.

The affair was given under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Epley and Mrs. Davis Errett, who drilled the performers, and assisted by Mrs. Albert Downing, artistically decorated the large stage with roses and flags.

The various drills and numbers in the program were made more effective by the skillful use of colored lights. A rose drill by 12 youngsters was among the most interesting in manner and was performed in a manner that would have made the boys envious, and rivaled the efforts of the Graces.

To the sweet strains of Mendelssohn played by Frank Chubb, the young ladies, who each carried a basket of roses, wore laurel and graceful figures, "neath the soft glow of colored lights. Mrs. E. J. and Miss Julia McCulloch had charge of the primary department which furnished many interesting numbers.

The program was too long a matter in detail, but every number was good, and the evening's entertainment will long remain in the memory of all present.

"A Scrap of Paper"

At the Grand Opera House tonight. An evening of fun.

Tonight at the Grand.

A stirring announcement, which out-glittered the sword of Achilles was made in the University chapel this morning in behalf of the three-act comedy, "A Scrap of Paper," which will be presented in the Grand Opera House this evening by the students of the College of Oratory. This will be one of the most pleasant events of the year, and, in the language of the speaker, the college spirit of the large number of students who will attend will make all the aged patriots in the bald-headed row forget their antiquity; and join with the younger generation in college yells that will tear the atmosphere into shreds, and make the Si-washes sink into the dark recesses of the primeval forest.

Baskets, Baskets.
