

Jos. Meyers & Sons
INCORPORATED
GOOD GOODS

The Adjusters Are Working

On our damaged stock. It will take some time to complete the work and we hope to open our

BIG SALE

About June 12th

In the meantime those having open accounts with us will confer a great favor by calling and settling their accounts at our temporary office, room 10, McCornack block.

CITY NEWS

A Collection of Important Paragraphs for Your Consideration

Souvenir Postals—

New subjects today, at Patton's.

B. P. O. E.—

Tonight is the night. Initiation and things doing.

Concert at the Spa—

Friday night. 2t

Meeting Tonight—

The Salem Elks will meet tonight. Important business.

The Undertaker—

Isn't wanted about the home very often, but when he is needed, he is wanted badly, and if he is sympathetic, quiet, understands his business thoroughly, and give his patrons a square deal in prices, he will be greatly appreciated. A. M. Clough is that kind.

Concert at the Spa—

Friday night. 2t

Elks Take Notice—

Initiation tonight.

Ladies' Aid Society to Meet—

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. A. J. Dayton, corner of Cottage and Chemeketa streets, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Attention, Elks—

Meeting tonight. Initiation.

Calls for Bids—

The undersigned will receive bids up to 5 o'clock p. m., on June 17, 1907, for supplying one hundred and twenty-five (125) cords of green second growth fir wood, to be delivered at the city hall before October 1st, for the use of the city of Salem, Oregon. The successful bidder will be required to enter into contract under bond to furnish the wood as per agreement.

W. A. MOORES, Recorder.

Dated June 5, 1907. 6-5-d10t-w2t

Concert at the Spa—

Friday night. 2t

Some Good Work.

Coming from Jefferson north to Salem there is a famous hill, known as Jackson's hill. On the north side it is clay, and on the south side it is rocks. Mr. Abraham Walty, who has bought a farm on the south slope, has raked the rocks off that side of the hill, and made it far easier for horses to climb. He has also done

SOMETHING NEW In Bifocal Lenses

Let us show you a neat, up-to-date lens for near and far-seeing. It is equally as good as the expensive kind, and half the cost.

Don't throw away your broken glasses. Bring them to us. We can duplicate any part, with little expense.

Chas. H. Hinges

Graduate Optician.
123 Commercial Street, next door to Capital National Bank.

some volunteer work to make the hill more passable farther up. A few men with the enterprise of our friend Walty would make a great change in some of our county roads. The roads of Marion county have been improved in places, and, as a whole, are far better to travel than formerly.

PERSONALS.

J. L. Skipton has gone to Seattle on business.

Cooke Patton went to Portland today on business.

Mrs. Ralph Glover went to Portland today for a short visit.

S. A. Manning went to Portland today on business.

David Eyre was among those going to Portland this morning.

Geo. W. Eyre, of the Salem Shoe Store, is in Portland today on business.

Silas Rich, who is bookkeeper for Steusloff Bros., has gone to Tacoma for a visit.

Miss Dora Harrison, after visiting Salem relatives, has returned to her home in Portland.

H. L. Bosler, the accommodating conductor on the depot car, has returned from a visit in Jefferson.

Miss Frankie Barnett has returned to her home in Turner, after visiting Salem friends.

Miss Murah Hatch left this morning for Denver, Colorado, where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. Homer Smith went to Portland this morning, to be the guest of friends for a few days.

H. A. Johnson, the fire insurance man, left this morning for Gladstone, where he will adjust a loss.

Miss Stella Campfield has gone to join her mother at Portland, where she will make her home.

Mrs. George Swenink, of Kelso, Wash., has been at Salem visiting, and returned to her home today.

Rev. W. H. Selleck went to Portland this morning to attend the convention given for aggressive evangelists.

Mrs. L. W. Ross, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. H. M. Bryant, returned to her home in Albany last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Schunke, of Tacoma, who have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rich, in Englewood, have returned to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. McRobie, who have been visiting Salem relatives, left this morning for their home in Stevenson, Washington.

Dr. Kimball, dean of the Kimball theological institute, went to Portland this morning to attend the aggressive evangelists' convention. He will address the meeting tonight.

J. P. Veach, the cement contractor, who has considerable work at that point, is in Corvallis with his crew, finishing up his contracts.

Dr. Seeley and wife, of Eastern Oregon, are in the city. He graduated in a Salem medical school a few years ago, and has built up a fine practice, but is now thinking of locating at Medford.

Mrs. Ethel Cox, Mrs. Elmer Pemberton, Mrs. Wilfred Hammer and Mrs. I. N. Commons, who have been in the city as delegates to the Marion county W. C. T. U. convention, returned this morning to their homes in Scotts Mills.

Miss Elsa Applegate, daughter of L. B. Applegate, of "Brookside Ranch," Klamath county, is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. A. Applegate. Miss Applegate is pursuing her studies on the violin with Prof. Bettman, of Seattle, formerly her instructor in San Francisco.

TO RUSH WORK ON BRIDGE

Planned Like Sawdust Doll and Built Up On Baby Food

It is learned that plans are completed to rush work on the North Commercial street bridge before the fall rains set in. Water in the ditch is to be turned off June 8th, to fix the piers.

Something was done yesterday in the way of removing the falsework to get at the new foundations. It was eight months to a day since the main thoroughfare was closed to traffic. "The business ability displayed in handling public work by some of the men who are holding down public offices in this city is not of the ten thousand candle-power variety," said a merchant today. "Who is to blame? Well, if there has been a live business man connected with that job from the beginning I would like to know it. The plan of the bridge is childish. The execution has been of the Mellen's baby-food style of intoxicant. But there is no resignation. Every man connected with the enterprise of keeping that street closed to the public thinks he has been doing brilliant work and will be promoted to some state office by the unanimous voice of the people. I have heard of the way molasses runs out of a faucet up in Alaska in winter, but we can discount that speed with our bunch of city officials. When the South Commercial street bridge falls down we will be cut off both ways."

OAK GROVE PICNIC.

A Day of Sports With Lots of Band Music.

The Oak Grove Sunday school will give its annual picnic at Oak Grove Saturday. These celebrations have, in the past, been very enjoyable occasions, and those who have charge of the exercises to be held Saturday, have left nothing undone that can add to the pleasure of the day. An excellent program, consisting of band music, readings and vocal selections will be rendered in the morning. A picnic dinner will be one of the substantial features; after which the various events will be held. Appropo to the closing of the day's outing, an entertainment will be given in the evening by the school assisted by the band and other musical and literary talent.

McELROY AWARDED CONTRACT.

Well-Known Musician to Furnish Band for the State Fair.

Prof. W. E. McElroy, now of Portland, has been awarded the contract to furnish the band music for the coming state fair. The contract was awarded on a bid of $672.50, and the closest competitive bid was $675, which was made by the Salem Military Band. Professor McElroy, at present, has no regular musical organization, but is an able director, and will probably furnish an excellent band. He was director of the Salem band in 1903 and 1904, when that organization filled the fair engagement to the satisfaction of the fair board and their music-loving guests. Mr. McElroy owns a home in this city, but has been filling an engagement in Oakland, California, for the past year.

Judge Hailey an Incorporator.

Ex-Supreme Judge T. G. Hailey, who has many friends in Salem, appears as one of the incorporators of a large coöperation concern with a capital stock fixed at $1,500,000, and also of the Eastern Timber Company, capitalized at $2,500,000. The Western Coöperation Company will engage in the manufacture of kegs, staves and barrels, and the last named corporation is organized for the purpose of buying and selling lumber and timber land. Each company will have its head offices in Portland. The incorporators are Warren E. Thomas, Thomas G. Hailey and Virgil L. Clark, all of Portland.

DIED.

CAMPBELL.—At the asylum, Tuesday, June 4, 1907, John B. Campbell, aged 63.

The body will be shipped this evening to The Dalles for burial.

LIVENGOOD.—At the family home on North Howell Prairie, Wednesday, June 5, 1907, Velum Liven-good, aged 2 months.

CHEMICAL ENGINE ARRIVES

Salem Has One of the Latest and Best Fire Fighting Machines

The new chemical engine that has been added to the equipment of the Salem fire department arrived last night, and has been groomed and put in condition for a test at the city hall today. It will be tested this afternoon and thoroughly inspected by the fire committee, of which Walt Low is chairman. It has a 60-gallon tank, and is what is called a combination chemical engine and hose wagon. It carries 200 feet of special hose to throw a stream of chemical and gas fluid that creates a still more destructive gas when it comes in contact with a fire that stops a conflagration almost automatically, subdues the hottest flames, and makes it possible to fight in close quarters without destroying property the way a heavy stream of water does. If this engine had been here when the Meyers fire took place not one-tenth the damage to stock from water would have resulted, and the fire would have been put out more quickly, at least that is what is claimed for it, and only tests will be able to demonstrate the actual value of the machine as a fire-fighter. But so many chemicals are used elsewhere there is little doubt it will do all that is claimed for it. It should be said here that if Messrs. Low, Iwan and Garber had not gone into the hottest part of the Meyers fire, on the second floor, and eaten enough smoke to kill ordinary firemen, that whole block would be in ruins today. Those three men have not had the credit they deserve, and the whole department is to be congratulated on this additional weapon of defence, that will make fire-fighting possible with less risk in future to the lives of our firemen.

CHEMAWA BEATS W. U. BOYS

The U. of O. Will Play Salem High in the Afternoon

Willamette is evidently not up to its standard of track and field work this year. In the meet Wednesday with Chemawa the Indians won by the large score of 70 to 47, having it almost entirely their own way throughout the contest.

Chemawa took everything up to the hammer throw, when Robbins and Belknap took first and second place for Willamette at 90 feet, 10 inches. The events then alternated for a time. Chemawa won the pole vault, and then Shanks put in his surprise for W. U., winning the mile against the Chemawa distance men in 4:56. Chemawa took the high jumps at 5 feet, 2 inches. Rader had a clean sweep of the 120-yard hurdles in 18 2-5. Peazoni took the discus throw for Chemawa at 93 feet, 11 inches. There was a sort of dispute over the quarter mile, but Wilson, of Chemawa, was picked for first place. Forbes made a pretty run in 53 1-5. Watkins took the 220-yard hurdles, the last event of the day, for Chemawa.

KILLING WAS HIS TRADE

(Continued from page one.)

Pettibone signalled him when Gabbert left the residence for him to attach the pocketbook. They tried this a couple of mornings, but some one always appeared with Gabbert, so they had to give up this idea. They made another bomb the next day. They saw the judge coming and planted the bomb. Both bombs were planted close together. When we got down town about an hour later we heard an explosion, and found it was our bomb, which had killed an innocent spectator named Wooley. Hung about Denver for a few days, and then went back to St. Louis valley, and resumed writing insurance.

Three weeks later he saw Pettibone and Haywood and reported failure. Pettibone gave him money which he got from Haywood. Was then given a pair of horses and wagon, owned by Haywood, which were brought from Cripple Creek for him. Wanted them so he could get into the country and kill Sherman Bell. Haywood, he swore, told him that Bell had broken up the Cripple Creek organization. He and Haywood daily drove to Bell's residence, to try to shoot him, but although they tried for three weeks they never saw him in range of their shotguns. They reported each day to Haywood and the federation officers. During this period Haywood furnished him plenty of money. He continued to try to get Bell until the latter part of August, when Moyer told him he did not want any more jobs pulled off in Denver. Previously, in June, he swore he had made another attempt to kill Gabbard, planting a bomb under a gate at the Gabbard home. It was not exploded, and later was found.

In Moyer's office, in August, Orchard swore the former told him he had a big job for him to pull off. He told him he wanted him to go to Gold field, Nevada, and kill John Neville, who was running a saloon there. Moyer called Pettibone and Haywood and told them the time had arrived when outside work must be done. Haywood said Steunenberg must be put out of the way. Orchard declared four or five men were detailed to kill Steunenberg, but failed; that Haywood told him after he got Steunenberg he would have letters written from Patterson, N. J., to Bell, Peabody, Gabbard and others, warning them they would get the same dose. It was finally agreed that Orchard should go to Caldwell, look over the ground, and decide how the job should be done.

Haywood told Orchard he had sent Arthur Beston, Ed. Minster and Steve Adams to Caldwell, and they had all tried to kill Steunenberg, but failed. At that time Orchard swore Steve Adams was working with Simpkins near Wallace, Idaho, trying to get rid of men who had jumped Simpkins' claims. Julius Steunenberg sat behind the witness during the recital of the alleged plot to kill his father. He displayed considerable emotion at times. Orchard continuing, declared Adams had told him he had killed a man named Tyler on Marble creek, who had jumped Simpkins' claims. As other claim-jumpers did not take warning, he shot another man named Worley, and tried to kill the latter's companion, but he escaped. The defense here objected to permitting the evidence being introduced, declaring the claim-jumping cases had no bearing on the alleged conspiracy or murder of Steunenberg. Richardson declared the prosecution was taking advantage of the tendency of the judge to introduce matters which would have had its effect on the jury. The judge declined to rule on the matter until later on. At this point a recess was taken.

Orchard swore that when he left Denver for Caldwell to kill Steunenberg he was accompanied to the station by Pettibone. The latter made for Peabody on Steunenberg's Moore to ask him to bring the bomb to him from Canyon City, but the defense objected to this line of questioning, and the judge sustained the objection. Before leaving Denver, Haywood, the witness swore, paid him $240. He went from Denver to Salt Lake, then to Nampa and back to Caldwell, where he registered at the Thomas Hotel. He identified the signature on the hotel register at Nampa and Caldwell. He reached Caldwell early in November and found Steunenberg absent. He came to Boise and missed him. From there he went to Portland, but his trunk in Nampa at the depot, containing the bomb. His report of a couple of weeks in Portland, Idaho, and Spokane, looking up a man, which he and Pettibone wanted to buy and hold for a hiding place for anyone who might desire to be hidden. He went from there to Wardner, to see Simpkins, and told Simpkins he had been to Caldwell to try to kill Steunenberg. The former told him this could be done later, and suggested to first kidnap the children of August Paulson, the editor man in the Coeur d'Alene. He later Paulson would give $10,000 ransom, and then we could put some one else to kill Governor Steunenberg. Stayed in Wardner and Wallace a month, and then he and Simpkins went to Caldwell.

Simpkins bought the material for a new bomb in Spokane, also a pair of field glasses, and carried the stuff to Caldwell in his grip. He and Simpkins roomed together at the Pacific hotel, he being known as Hogan, and Orchard as Sam. He spent five days looking for Steunenberg, but failed to find him, finally located him at the Steunenberg hotel, and took the bomb and hid it under the gate of the governor's home. Simpkins helped him place the bomb, and went back to the hotel and waited. There was no result. They investigated and found the wire had accidentally broken. They then took the bomb half a mile back town and hid it in a straw stack. Simpkins the told him some one in town knew him, and he would go home to Spokane, and leave Orchard to finish the job. Before leaving he promised Orchard he would go to Denver and get money to buy a coat to which Orchard could go as well as Steunenberg was killed.

Christmas night he went to Steunenberg's home with a shotgun to kill the governor, but he got into the house before he could get the gun ready, so he returned to the hotel. He next saw Steunenberg, Sunday, December 30th. The governor was in the hotel lobby. He got into the lobby and went to the Steunenberg house and fastened the bomb on the gate, so that when it was opened the explosion would occur. He passed the governor as he was going home, two blocks from the hotel, and heard the explosion before he reached the hotel. He went to his room, placed the acid bottle in his pocket, forgetting a glass of water, and there was a slight explosion, tearing his coat to pieces. He stayed there all afternoon. January 1st he was arrested for the murder. The next examination failed to

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Perkins are in Portland for a few days' visit.

BANANAS

SPECIAL
20c Per dozen

Order Early As They Sell Very Quickly

MOIR GROCERY CO.

456 State St.

Phone 182

NEW TODAY

For Sale—Several houses in town and farm lands at a bargain. Capital National Bank. 6-1-100-1

Wanted—Thirty men with good call at Club Stable, corner Third and Liberty streets. 6-4-100-1

General House Cleaning—Cleaning and furniture polishing specialty. All work with satisfaction and dispatch. F. A. Sutton, Phone 6-4-100-1

For Sale—Full-blooded, 2-year-old Jersey cow, weight 925 pounds. Price $40. Gentle driving animal. $50. Brood mare good weight 1250. Price $30. Call 725 South 12th street, across from Yew Park grocery store. 6-4-100-1

For Sale—Nine-room house with bath, corner of Oak and Liberty street, No. 1149. Price $1000 cash. Owner on premises. 6-4-100-1