Sorrows of Werther.

Werther had a love for Charlotte. Such as words could never utter; Would you know how first he met her? She was cutting bread and butter.

Charlotte was a married lady, And a moral man was Werther, And for all the wealth of Indies Would do nothing for to hurt her.

He sighed and pined and ogled, And his passion boiled and bubbled, Till he blew his silly brains out, And no more was by it troubled.

Charlotte having seen his body Borne before her on a shutter, Like a well-conducted person, Went on cutting bread and butter. —Wm. M. Thackeray.

Orchard placed no value on human life except his own. He contemplated suicide, but gave it up because it was against the divine law.

The interior department has opened for settlement three million acres 60 miles south of the Arctic circle, in Alaska, but does not expect a rush of homesteaders.

The new cement walk on lovers' lane, by the Willamette University, is an immense improvement, but the board walk leading from it to the building is not fit for the charming little co-eds to amble their waists over.

Studying the Schmitt trial one is led to wonder if some one is getting a graft off the jury trying the matters.

Faith in humanity is not entirely dead. A Salem citizen advertises today's Journal in the expectation of recovering a lost umbrella. He gets it the Journal breaks the record as an advertising medium.

The indications are that hot breaks instead of cold will be popular about July 4.

No really fair minded man will attribute the phenomenally cold spring over the United States to President Fairbanks candidacy.

PORTLAND PLAYS HERE TOMORROW

Will Battle With Salem High School For the Championship

The long talked-of game between the Portland and Salem high schools is to be played here tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon, at 3 o'clock, on the W. U. Field. It has been a question whether or not to have the baseball game tomorrow, owing to the unsettled condition of the weather, but Professor Smith, of the high school, who is generally pretty well informed upon weather conditions, says he thinks it will clear off, and be a good baseball day for the game, but even then the manager feels like going a little slow in sending P. H. S. final word to come, as he would hate to have the expense of the team here without a game. The indications at present, though, are that it will be played.

The Portland high school team has been making quite a record this season, and claim that if it beats Salem it will hold the state academic championship.

But the high school team here has been playing ball in a way that it never did before, and thinks it has a pretty good bid for the championship itself, and intend to prove it tomorrow by beating Portland, which would undoubtedly give it to them. The showing made by S. H. S. against "Oregon" the other day has awakened much interest, and there will be a large crowd out tomorrow to see Salem and Portland clash.

HORSES STRUCK BY LIGHTNING. Which Struck Wire Fence Quarter of a Mile Away.

An unusual occurrence for Oregon, says the Flora, Wallowa county Journal, took place in the Miller pasture in the lower part of Paradise Friday evening when ten head of horses and colts were killed by lightning.

The storm had driven the animals into the corner of the enclosure and, lightning striking the wire fence about a quarter of a mile away from the part against which the horses were pressing, causing the above result. The wire was torn from the posts and the posts shattered between where the fence was struck and the horses. About 20 head of horses were in the pasture and all were affected, excepting two pack animals, although the injuries were perhaps slight. Perhaps the worst injured among the surviving ones was a mare belonging to H. Mench.

Of the horses killed four mares and one colt belonging to Miller Bros., a colt to H. Mench, two mares to Mr. McWilliams, and one mare colt to Chet Shumaker. It is estimated that the whole loss closely approaches $1000.

Well Boring Is Resumed.

Work was resumed Wednesday morning at the artesian well being bored at the S. P. roundhouse in this city. A new supply of casing has arrived, and this is being put down to cut off the flow of salt and otherwise mineralized water that was recently encountered.

As soon as this is in place the drilling will be resumed and the well sunk to at least a depth of 1000 feet, unless the flow of fresh water is soon found. There is some speculation as to whether oil may not be found here, as salt water is often found overlying an oil strata, in the Eastern oil fields. As no deep wells have ever been put down here, of course, but little is known of the deeper geological formations, and it is a matter of the purest guess work to say what may yet be found in this country—Roseburg Review.

Printer Becomes Rich.

E. B. Reitzel, a printer formerly in the employ of the Pendleton Tribune, has just fallen heir to a one-eighth share in an estate of about $200,000 in Norway. He has recently been working in Wallace, Idaho, and was at that place when he received the notice of the death of a wealthy relative.—Pendleton East Oregonian

Wenatchee Woman's Woes.

On another page is a letter from a Wenatchee, Washington, girl, complaining of Wenatchee bachelors not paying any attention to the girls, and failing to ask them to marry. It might be, though far be it from The Journal scribe to insinuate aught against the beauty and attractiveness of Wenatchee girls, that the fault lies with the latter. Now, here is a case in point. Wednesday evening at our neighboring town of Albany a charming Albany girl was married, and that, too, to a Wenatchee man, and a newspaper man at that. Now, if the beauty of Oregon's daughters can attract one of these Wenatchee bachelors half a thousand miles to wed, it indicates that the fault lies not with the Wenatchee bachelors, but with the Wenatchee girls. Anyway, the young lady's description of one variety of the Wenatchee product carries the idea that the Wenatchee bachelors are "shy for cause." One can't tell by the looks of a frog how far it can jump, and in these days when the returns are so often and so amply padded—well, it behooves a man to be wary of the bait lest he get, so to speak, an artificial fly. Mr. Frank E. Dillam, the young newspaper man from the Washington town, has done the correct thing in selecting an Oregon girl for a bride, for while some are better than others they are all good to behold and be-held. They are all yard wide, that is to say the perfect material, and no shoddy.

GRAIN GROWERS JUBILANT.

Prospects for Cereal Crops Were Never Better.

Because of the rains of the last few days the graingrowers are feeling jubilant, for the moisture has been a blessing to the growing crop. Copious rains are generally wanted in June so as to get the grain in shape for the hot weather that follows. This year the crop conditions have been good and with the rains of the last few days little is left to be desired.

Reports from Athena and other portions of the county are all to the effect that the rain has been of immense value and there is every indication that a bumper crop will be harvested this year.

In some cases volunteer crops have been raised this year and reports received indicate that good yields will be had from such as the favorable conditions have caused the wheat to grow well—East-Oregonian.

A Deadly Insult to William.

An extraordinary case of less majestic is engaging public attention in Berlin. The sentence is so atrocious that general indignation has been aroused. The facts are as follows:

A laborer named Bruenning was employed last November as a mason's assistant on a house in Karlstrasse, when the Kaiser, in his automobile, drove by on his way to the adjacent military barracks. Bruenning who had been drinking schnapps all the morning to keep out the cold, put his tongue out at the Kaiser, in the fashion of a naughty child. Certainly, the Kaiser did not see him, and undoubtedly Bruenning was tipsy, but a policeman noticed the insult leveled at his majesty, and Bruenning was at once arrested.

He was tried some days ago, and the public prosecutor regarding the matter as unimportant, suggested that a fortnight's confinement would be ample punishment. The court, however, postponed passing sentence on the ground that, in their opinion, Bruenning's offense was one of a serious character. Yesterday they called up Bruenning and sentenced him to nine months imprisonment.

The progressive journals are aghast at what they call "unparalleled Byzantinism."

Mrs. Elizabeth Griffin, grandmother of Drew and G. W. Griffin, died at the home of the latter, in Eugene, Tuesday, June 11th, at the age of 94 years, 7 months and 13 days, after an illness of several years' duration. She has been an invalid for the past 30 years or more, and has not been up from her bed for many months.

Astoria Budget: The fishing situation to date is about one month behind last year and much more behind many previous seasons. This sums up the present status of the fishing season, and substantially it is a fact, with some canneries and cold storage plants having a little better advantage of the others.
