

Throat Coughs

Ask your doctor about these throat coughs. He will tell you how deceptive they are. A tickling in the throat often means serious trouble ahead. Better explain your case carefully to your doctor, and ask him about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Then do as he says. Get the best medicine, always.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our preparations.

BLYTHE OF HOOD RIVER

Soldier, Printer, and Now Department Commander G. A. R.

S. F. Blythe is now Department Commander of the G. A. R. for the Department of Oregon. The G. A. R. honored the right man, and it honored itself in selecting him. "Sam" is no longer as young as he used to be, but he is wide-awake, a printer and hails from Hood River, where so many other first-class products come from. If the writer remembers correctly Sam was a soldier in an Ohio regiment, another point in his favor, and performed his duty to the best of his ability. He would charge the enemy or tell the Sutter to charge him with equal alacrity, and the same deadly effect. Blythe came to Oregon after the war, working his way across the continent, and coming on the installment plan. He "jerked antimony" in every town from the Mississippi to Astoria, and filled more columns full of lead in Portland than he ever did of the enemy during the war. He worked on the Oregonian, when W. Lair Hill furnished the editorial. He put some of O'Meara's happily expressed ideas into the galleys, and helped Col. Hamilton disseminate the News. He also helped pry up the Sun, for the short time it shed its fervent rays on Portland, and then to balance things, he went up to Hood River and cooled off on the Glacier. He watched Hood River grow and grew with it, accumulating a nice comfortable little competence, and an ideal home, which every printer should do, and most don't. His son, "Ned" done "Northwest" on the Oregonian, and now publishing the Lewiston (Idaho) Teller, and is just as Blythe as Samuel himself. The horse editor congratulates the G. A. R. on its new commander, and can say truthfully, even after knowing Col. Blythe for some considerable years, and having worked with him, that he is really glad that "Sam" got classed among the survivors of the war, a feeling made possible by the fact that Samuel's proofs like his life, were clean, barring a few misplaced commas that endangered the horse editor's life, and abbreviated his subscription list. The horse editor expresses the sincere hope, Col. Blythe that you may enjoy the balmy air, beautiful scenery, and fine society of Hood River for forty years yet; and that he may be granted the sad privilege of writing your obituary. If that wish is granted Sam, you will surely have a send off, that will make you glad your dead.

IT IS SERIOUS.

Some Salem People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

The constant aching of a bad back. The weariness, the tired feeling. The pains and aches of kidney ills are serious—if neglected.

A Salem citizen shows you how to avoid them.

W. H. Wood, carpenter, of 250 Cottage street, Salem, Ore., says: "A good many years ago, I got badly kicked by a mule right over the kidneys and at another time while digging a well it caved in on me, also injuring my back. Since then I have had more or less annoyance from my kidneys. Change of weather caused my back to ache and when I worked hard it became so lame that I could hardly straighten up after stooping. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Stone's drug store and since taking them, although I have continued to work hard and been exposed to severe weather, not an ache or other symptom of my former trouble remains. This clearly proves that Doan's Kidney Pills act up to the representations made for them. I also know of other people who have derived great benefit from their use. I am glad to let others know the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and kidney troubles."

Japanese Commerce and Industry.

In the course of a remarkable article in Appleton's Magazine for June, Thomas F. Millard tells some strange truths about Japan. Incidentally he says: "The tremendous impulse given to commercial and industrial activities in Japan since the war has attracted much attention, and been the cause of much comment, usually optimistic. Since peace was declared (taking the latest official statement) there have been 314 new enterprises capitalized or old capitalizations increased, with an aggregate capital of $197,151,514 gold. This is nearly one-third the total capitalized industry of the country previous to the war. The enterprises represented in this enormous capitalization cover a wide field, but they nearly all belong in the category of what may be termed modern industries, in the sense applied in Japan. For instance, there are 51 new electrical companies, with an aggregate capital of $55,000,000 gold; 10 new navigation and dock companies, with a total capital of $20,000,000; 5 new insurance companies, with a total capital of $7,500,000. New banking concerns aggregate a capital of $11,000,000. There are 11 new steam railway companies, with $10,000,000 capital; 14 new mining companies, with $6,500,000 capital; while old corporations have increased their capital $34,000,000. To many of them direct government assistance is being given, while nearly all of them have had or hope to secure stimulation through the government by indirect methods.

"This enumeration of the new commercial activities of the nation does not, however, include the greatest enterprise of all. This is the national corporations, with a proposed capital of $100,000,000 gold, for the purpose of pushing Japan commerce and interests in Corea and Manchuria. This great company, in so far as its components have become public, is to include the government, with all the associated interests it can marshal, and is to be thrown open to popular subscription, with a view to inducing the common people and middle classes to invest, thus enlisting their sympathy and direct pecuniary interest in the success of the scheme.

Every Man His Own Doctor.

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for this class of ailments. Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. Chamberlain's Remedies have been in the market for many years and enjoys a good reputation.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm (an antiseptic liniment) for cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, swellings, lame back and rheumatism pains.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for constipation, biliousness and stomach troubles.

Chamberlain's Salve for diseases of the skin.

One bottle of each of these five preparations costs but $1.25. For sale by Dr. Stone's drug store.

Australian Experiments in Criminology.

In transmitting the following principal features of the habitual criminals act of New South Wales, Vice-Consul John K. Foster, of Newcastle, says that the Australian authorities elsewhere are watching the experiment with much interest. The visiting officers and the governor of the prison, with any other person who may at any time be appointed by the controller-general, are constituted a consultative committee for the purpose of considering the case of each prisoner, on the lines laid down in other parts of these regulations, of dealing with any specific matter referred to them by the permanent head of the department, and of advising the controller-general thereon. The prisoners will be dealt with under a progressive-stage system, by which they will practically determine their own treatment as regards the enjoyment of privileges or the reverse. They will be classified into three grades, the lower, the intermediate, and the higher. The lower, will be divided into two sub-grades, the penal and the ordinary. Prisoners in the intermediate and higher grades will be competent to earn various privileges, for which those in the lower grades will not be eligible. On completing the definite portion of his sentence a prisoner will be placed in the intermediate grade. From this he can rise to the higher grade by industry and good conduct, and can fall to either division of the lower grades as the result of idleness or any offense against good order. On promotion to the higher grade a prisoner will be eligible to receive full privileges while he earns the maximum marks. When 2000 marks have been earned in this grade a prisoner will be eligible to be placed on the special list, provided full marks have been gained for a continuous period of nine months immediately preceding. Every prisoner will be required to perform some fixed task daily, suited to his capacity and physical condition. The work should be of a productive, reformative, and educational character, and, whenever practicable and not inconsistent with disciplinary requirements, the prisoner should be employed at the trade at which he is most proficient and which will do the most to fit him for honest, self-support when at liberty.

With the consent of the controller-general, prisoners of good record, should they so desire, will be allowed to remit portions of their earnings to their relatives, where of reputable character, provided, excepting under special circumstances, a balance to credit of at least $25 is maintained. In January of each year the controller-general shall forward a report to the minister in each case, giving particulars of conduct, health, prospect of reform, and any other necessary details.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

The kidneys are essential organs for keeping the body free from impurities. If they should fail to work death would ensue in very short time. Inflammation or irritation caused by some feminine derangement may spread to some extent to the kidneys and affect them. The cause can be so far removed by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that the trouble will disappear.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, swelling of the limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with
