Hoover, who was 22 years of age, in company with Alex Hull, started to swim the river, a distance of about 75 yards, and fully 30 feet deep. When midway in the stream he shouted to Hull for help. Hull immediately swam to his assistance, and used all means to save Hoover, but becoming exhausted he had to use his remaining strength to save himself.

William Jellison, of Jefferson, lies in St. Mary's hospital, in Albany, a victim of the unusually hot weather of last Tuesday. Jellison was picking berries in the woods near Jefferson and the heat, coupled with his age and illness, overcame him. He was unconscious when found on Tuesday evening and kept at his home near Jefferson until Friday, when it was deemed advisable to take him to the hospital in Albany for treatment.

Alvin Arnold, of Ontario, aged 20 years, was drowned in the Owyhee river Friday. The young man was out looking for work horses, and was crossing the river on horseback, when in some unaccountable manner he was thrown from the horse and lost his life. Four lives have been lost in the Snake and Owyhee rivers in this vicinity within the past ten days.
