Parade and Interesting Ex- and Sports--A Magnificent of Fireworks Winds Up a Perfect Day big celebration of the 4th is now a matter of local his- it was well planned, well aged, and thoroughly enjoyed. weather was ideal, in spite of weather bureau, which ordered and one of the largest crowds assembled in the Capital City here to enjoy the day. Hun- came from surrounding towns from the most remote districts before, and the early hours morning saw the roads lead- Salem lined with thousands, to take part in the celebra- popping of firecrackers night of the second, and grew steadily until the morning of the Fourth there was a continuous roar. Indeed, so far as noise was concerned, it would be hard to tell when the celebration commenced, for it broke out like an attack of measles, and then just spread.

The Parade.
The sidewalks along the route of the parade were jammed an hour before the strains of martial music proclaimed the coming of the big show. Too much cannot be said of this feature for it was one that would have been a credit to a city many times larger than Salem. Following the first band came the fire department, preceded by the chief in a buggy drawn by the famous veteran of the department, "Maggie." She was round and plump, showing she is enjoying her pension, and she seemed to be as proud of the fire department as were the firemen themselves. The department with the new chemical engine, added, made a splendid showing. The Liberty car with its pretty "goddess" and attendants received many flattering comments, and the car of states, with its load of Salem's pretty little girls was given an ovation that showed that Oregonians appreciated their best, biggest, most attractive, and never failing crop.

There were many beautiful floats, too many for individual description. That of the Stockton store, however, was beautiful enough to deserve especial mention. Its crowning feature was the Goddess of Justice.

MAKING A PERFECT DEFENSE

IT IS ALL ONE WAY

Scarcely a Thing That Orchard Has Testified to But That Is Now Proved Absolutely False--Can the Prosecution Overcome This?

Boise, July 5.—Court reconvened late to give the defense an opportunity to get some minor witnesses and inspect the depositions taken in San Francisco in connection with the explosion at Bradley's house. The state will oppose the introduction of the matter set up in the depositions, on the ground that it is improper and not evidence. The defense expects the subject matter of the depositions to be a strong card with the jury, to convince it that Orchard lied, when he said he blew up the Bradley house with giant powder. Moyer may be called as a witness by the defense Saturday afternoon, unless it is decided to put him on the stand before the depositions are read, when he will testify late today. A lively legal fight is coming the first of next week, when both side will move that the greater part of the evidence be stricken out as incompetent. Miss Myra Fallon, of Butte, whose first husband was "Kid" Waters, a Cripple Creek gun man, testified that Waters was a detective in the employ of the Mine Owners' Association. She swore Lyte Gregory took Waters to Trinidad at the time of the coal miners' strike there, to act as a guard with him. Waters, she swore, always carried three revolvers. Orchard came to their house twice during the Cripple Creek strike and consulted with Waters. Owey Barnes, accused by Orchard of teaching him to manufacture bombs, denied that story. He never talked with Orchard about bomb-making. J. Wolf, a former clerk for Pettibone, swore that they did not occupy the cellar in the Stout street store; that it was rented to another. Orchard had testified that Pettibone and he made bombs there. He could not remember that Orchard ever came to the Stout street. That was the headquarters for the miners from everywhere. Marion Moore, of the executive board, and a member for Arizona, knew Orchard slightly. Met him the first time in May, 1904, in Denver. Met him again in 1905 in Denver. Orchard asked him to take a letter to Alaska to mail for him. Told him he was sending a letter a long way from home, and he replied that he wanted to get rid of the woman.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

San Francisco Thugs Murder George McGuire.

San Francisco, July 5.—Caught riding on the street cars, George McGuire, Western manager of Bradstreet's mercantile agency, and a member of the Bachelor's club, was attacked and beaten to death by eight thugs in the heart of the best residence section of the city. The murder is supposed by the police to have been done by strike sympathizers. The assault occurred early this morning. McGuire died at the receiving hospital. No arrests have been made yet.

BELGIANS WILL NOT STAND IT

Brussels, Belgium, July 5.—Belgians of all classes are aroused over the prospect of the pebeian son of King Leopold and Baroness Vaughn, the widow of a coal heaver, becoming heir to the Belgium throne. This will become a fact if Leopold carries out his determination to solemnize his marriage with the baroness under the religious ceremony. If Leopold has the ceremony performed the Belgian people will force his abdication.

LEADERS CONFER.

Probably a General Strike of Telegraphers Will Occur.

Chicago, July 5.—The arrival this afternoon of Konekamp, and the presence of M. J. Reidy, of South Boston, and J. M. Sullivan, of Brooklyn, will give the executive committee of the telegraphers' union a majority here. It is expected the meeting of these men will mean strike orders for Chicago. Neill is conferring with both sides in the hope of preventing a strike. Action is expected before the mass meeting Sunday.

Nature Fakirs Again.

Oyster Bay, July 5.—Politics and nature fakirs are the departmental problems today claiming Roosevelt's attention. Among the callers were Frank Hitchcock, assistant postmaster-general Siebe Clark, who wrote the famous interview which started the controversy with Doctor Long over the habits of wild animals. Admiral Bronson, chief of the bureau of navigation; General Aleshire, quartermaster-general of the army, and George Woodruff, acting secretary of the interior.

Hungarian Killed Two.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 5.—Ignatius Kurvillia dead with a bullet through his heart. Peter Stubinski, fatally shot, were this morning found on a street corner. A Hungarian accused of shooting them as the result of a quarrel, was arrested after a long chase, in which Policeman McCleary ran into the fence and was rendered unconscious.

Draw the Color Line.

London, July 5.—The British admiralty and war office have both drawn the color line against a youth born in London of a negro father and English mother. On the death of his parents the appointed guardians took charge of the boy, who has grown up and desires to serve his country, but the authorities refuse to permit him to enlist in the army or the navy. This banning of a British subject because of his color promises to lead to a lively discussion in parliament, where the matter probably will be brought up.

Wants to Try Pierce.

Austin, Texas, July 5.—Governor Campbell, in a speech, declared the Waters-Pierce Oil Company was a jummy of the trust. He declares he will compel H. Clay Pearce to face a Travis county jury, if possible.

LOOKS LIKE A SCHEME

AN IMMUNITY BATH

The Claim is Now Made That if Rockefeller Testifies It Will Prevent His Prosecution On Any Charge Whatever in Any Court

Washington, July 5.—By ordering Rockefeller to Chicago to testify Judge Landis upsets the plans of the department of justice. It is said that as soon as Rockefeller opens his mouth as a witness he secures immunity from all possible prosecution. Bonaparte realizes that Landis must learn the extent of the trust's property before imposing any part of the $25,000,000 fine. The department of Justice's trust-buster is not in sympathy with the present pursuit of Rockefeller, but cannot dictate to Landis. He had hoped the search for Rockefeller would be fruitless.

SQUIRES BURNS FIGHT

The much-talked-of fight between the Canadian, Burns, himself a second-rater, and Squires, the Australian champion did not last long enough for the audience to really know that it had begun. It wasn't a fight, and did not even present the features of a footrace. Squires walked up to the center of the ring, and Burns hit him on the right jaw, knocking him down. Squires took the count for four, before he got up, and the two came to a clinch, but were quickly separated in the center of the ring by big Jim Jeffries, the referee.

Burns lost no time in following up the advantage he had gained so early. Out shot the dangerous right again, and a second time the champion of Australia was on the canvas, with the undefeated champion of the world standing over him slowly calling of the seconds. But the end was not yet. Squires evidently had some staying powers in the face of the punishment administered to him and he rose up weakly and slowly, while Jeffries held back Burns until his adversary was in position to defend himself. But Squires had little defense left. The terrific rights to the jaw had accomplished their result, and the men were barely in position again when the Canadian resumed his telling, effective aggressive campaign. Burns landed where and when he pleased and in a few seconds, under the rain of blows, the arms of the Australian dropped in a helpless fashion by his side.

Then the finish to the fight came. Burns deliberately selected his mark, and with all the power that was lodged in his shoulders he sent his right to the point of the jaw. It seemed almost a needless task for Jeffries to go through the formality of counting the man out. There was not a spectator in the arena that did not realize the fight was over, and a rush was made to the ring to congratulate the victor. The fight lasted exactly two minutes and eight seconds.

The fight proved nothing more than that Squires was a much over-rated man. Burns, while demonstrating his immeasurable superiority over the Australian, did not have an opportunity to demonstrate whether or not he is actually entitled to the high pugilistic title that has been bestowed upon him.

WIFE GOT THE MONEY.

Husband Had Invested it for His Typewriter.

Seattle, Wash., July 5.—Twenty-five thousand dollars was awarded in the superior court here Wednesday in a suit brought by Mrs. Ann Zech against Mildred Timm.

A dozen years ago Hironimus Zech was a prosperous lumberman in Marinette, Wis. His family consisted at that time of his wife and nine children. He advertised for a stenographer and Mildred Timm answered the advertisement, and was employed. She was about 20 years old at that time, and he was twice her age. Zech went through his fortune, turned his property over to a bank and came West. The woman left about the same time. This was four years ago, and Zech had been here a year before. Mrs. Zech learned that the young woman was here with him. The husband explained that Miss Timm was looking after his business. Mrs. Zech had some money of her own, and sent different sums to her husband to invest in Seattle. It was shown in court that the money was invested in real estate in the name of Miss Timm. When Mrs. Zech, a plain German woman, arrived in Seattle last December, she found Zech living in the same house with Miss Timm. The husband offered her $100 per month to cook for the family, but when she saw how matters stood she ordered Mildred Timm from the house. An investigation convinced Mrs. Zech that the money she sent here had been invested in property that is now worth more than $50,000, and she brought suit to recover.

New York, July 5.—Henrich Van Sleck, of Paoli, Ia., and his wife almost left for Europe in the steamship Nieuw Amsterdam without their baby Wednesday. They had forgotten the infant and left it at the hotel where they had stopped over night. The baby was not missed until just as the gangplank was about to be hauled in. Luckily the hotel was close by, and the officers of the ship agreed to delay sailing for the ten minutes it took to fetch the infant, which had been asleep.

FORGOT THE KID.

They Should Also Forget the Way Back.

New York, July 5.—Henrich Van Sleck, of Paoli, Ia., and his wife almost left for Europe in the steamship Nieuw Amsterdam without their baby Wednesday. They had forgotten the infant and left it at the hotel where they had stopped over night. The baby was not missed until just as the gangplank was about to be hauled in. The Horse Bucked.

One of the stunts not down on the program came off at the corner of Liberty and State streets. Jack Cooper had purchased a small bunch of cayuses, among them a chunky little blue roan. It was saddled and brought to the corner and a reward of $3 was offered to any one who would ride it. Finally one young fellow peeled his coat, and, removing his watch and valuables, tackled the job. At the first attempt to mount him the cayuse won the first fall, ditching the would-be rider. At the third attempt, though, the mount was made, and once on the young fellow stuck to him like a leech. After a few jumps the cayuse quit, but it looked like "cast of the mountains" for a few minutes.

Woodmen's Dance.

One of the largest crowds that the spacious Auditorium rink ever contained attended the Woodmen of the World ball in that building last night. Excellent music was furnished by the Evans orchestra, and a most pleasant evening was enjoyed.

Chicago Markets.

Chicago, July 5.—Wheat 96 1/2 @ 94 1/2, corn 54 1/2 @ 54, oats 42 1/2 @ 42.
