SALEM'S SIENNA PAINTS

Oregon Sienna Paint Works One of the City's Most Successful Enterprises

Far up on the Willamette river in Lane county near the little town of Walker there is a tract of land which is rich with strata of various colored Sienna, the king of paint pigments. Seeing the great value of this tract, a body of shrewd Salem business men bought sixty-two acres of the color bearing soil, and formed themselves into a company for the manufacture of Sienna paint.

A factory site was selected on Trade street near High, and the latest machinery for the work was purchased. The systematic work of the concern began this year and the results have been even more successful than was anticipated by the promoters.

The company was incorporated with a capital stock of $200,000 and is composed entirely of Salem men.

The demand for the product of the factory has increased so rapidly that it has been necessary to buy additional machinery which will be installed immediately. The company now owns the best machinery manufactured, it being put up by the J. H. Day Company of Cincinnati, and using the French stone burr in the paint mill. A new mill of 2000 pounds capacity has been ordered and will be run to its fullest capacity along with the other mills now in use, in the near future. The factory is in charge of one of the most experienced paint manufacturers in the west and is putting out a quality of goods which is receiving the highest praise wherever used.

Not only does the Oregon Sienna Paint company manufacture all kinds of paint, but a specialty is made in wood filler, stains and distemper, creosote shingle stains, in any color; elastic carbon paint for old metal roofs and brick walls, which makes the surface so painted absolutely waterproof.

An order of 500 gallons has recently been filled for the Portland General Electric company and an extensive business is being done in Portland.

The paint is mixed with the best oil that can be purchased and the entire manufacture of the product from the clay which is shipped to Salem in carloads, is done in this city.

This is another of Salem's worthy enterprises and should receive the loyal support of every citizen.

A paint which will be successful on a roof would not be suitable for a carriage just so with a paint that would be satisfactory on exterior

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine: "In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in the action upon indurated, diseased stomachs, especially if there is ulceration, or catarrhal gastritis, catarrhal inflammation of stomach. It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no stock in it.

work would not work to the best advantage on interior surfaces. Every use to which paint is put requires special thought in mixing. The Sienna company has a man as its manager who has been in the paint business for more than thirty years and will be pleased to accommodate any customer with any special paint desired, the product will be as cheap as any, and the quality will be the best that can be produced.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long Live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

HOW THE NATIONAL FORESTS SERVE THE PUBLIC

"The Use of the National Forests," a publication just printed by the department of agriculture, is a brief, clear manual for public information as to the forest policy of the national government.

It is too true, as the short preface to the public says, that "many people do not know what national forests are. Others may have heard much about them, but have no idea of their true purpose and use." It is the object of this publication to explain just what the national forests mean, what they are for, and how to use them.

In the first place, it is explained how the forests are created and how their boundaries are drawn. Next, their direct use and value are shown from the point of view of the homeseeker, the prospector and miner, the user of timber, the user of the range, the user of water, and other users of forest resources. Third, it is shown how the forests are intended for use, for the production of usable products, and for the establishment and maintenance of homes; how on all of them the timber is protected from fire, the water flow is kept steady, the forage on the range is increased and guarded from abuse; and how, in addition, they serve as great public playgrounds and as breeding places and refuges for game. Finally, the management of the national forests is described.

Here it is that the great usefulness of the forests is brought out most clearly and strikingly; for the forests are managed by the people in their own interests, and every means is used to meet the desires and wants of all forest users half way by dealing with them in the main directly on the ground and in all cases with the utmost practicable dispatch and freedom from red tape.

In a word, the special interest of this manual lies in its showing that the forest policy of the government, both in principle and in practice, is for the benefit of the ordinary man, for the benefit of every citizen equally. There is still a tendency to think of the national forests as "preserves" closed to use, and to leave the public lands exposed to unregulated individual exploitation. Where these misapprehensions still prevail "The Use of the National Forests" will go far to correct them.

The book is written by Mr. Frederick E. Olmstead, whose intimate knowledge of conditions in the west and the policy under which the national forests are managed especially fits him to deal with the subject.
