Sentence Commuted—

Governor Chamberlain yesterday commuted the sentence of E. D. Sweeney, who was convicted of larceny in Portland last December, and sentenced to serve one year in the Multnomah county jail. A petition asking that the sentence be commuted was recently presented signed by the attorney who had conducted the prosecution and the guards at Kelly's Butte. Taking this into consideration, and the fact that Sweeney has been in poor health for some time, the governor yesterday shortened the sentence five months, and

HOME FOR NUDE CHILDREN.

Chicago Professors Bar Clothing Until Ten Years of Age.

A recent dispatch from Chicago says:

"Children should wear no clothing until they are 10 years of age."

Professor Frederick Starr of Congo exploration fame, made this statement at the University of Chicago today and shortly afterward it became definitely known that several university professors are to experiment on cures for the "family problem," in specially constructed "paradise flats," at Fifty-sixth street, Lexington avenue.

Here Professor Starr's theory may be tried, rumor says.

"Children," says Professor Starr, "should wear no clothing until they are 10 years old."

"No, not a stitch," he added, emphasizing, "This is right from psychological and moral grounds."

There was much speculation how far Professor Starr's theory would be employed in the "utopia" which will be built, at a cost of more than $50,000 in the exclusive south neighborhood.
