SECOND FLOOR

Fall Clothing

For the Particular Man

Young men as a rule require that more attention shall be paid to the clothes they wear than would ordinarily be given. The coat must be just cut so the trousers must hang a certain way—everything must fit thus and so. To say that we sell young men's clothes that satisfy young men is saying all that could be said.

THE NEW FALL STYLES ARE NOW READY.

Judge Waldo Ill—

Hon. J. B. Waldo is reported to be seriously ill with kidney trouble at his home near Macteay. He was taken sick in the mountains a few days ago, and it was necessary to remove him to his home on a litter. Drs. Reynolds and Byrd, of this city, are attending him. Dr. Byrd visited the judge this morning and reports the patient's condition to be improved.

Music Tomorrow Evening—

Owing to the circus the regular mid-week band concert, which was to have been given in Wilson avenue, has been postponed until tomorrow evening. Several musicians have recently located in the city, and as the Salem band boys, who have been filling an engagement at Newport, will be home this evening, the band will doubtless present a creditable appearance. Among the musicians who will arrive this afternoon from Newport will be Ed. Martin, formerly of Eugene. He is an efficient bass player, and will reside in Salem with his father, who recently purchased the Salem Marble Works, on Liberty street.

GRANDMA GODFREY DEAD.

Aged Pioneer Passes Away at the Home of Her Son, J. E. Godfrey
Mrs. Frances Godfrey, one of Oregon's pioneer women succumbed to an attack of heart failure at the home of her son, James E. Godfrey on Fourteenth street, this morning at 1 o'clock, after an illness of only two days' duration.

She was born in Alabama and spent her early life in Kentucky and Missouri. She crossed the plains in 1853 and settled with relatives at Fern Ridge on the Santiam, where she met and married Robert Godfrey, who came to Oregon in the party of which Alonzo Gesner was a member. Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey moved to Polk county in 1854 where they resided for many years.

Mrs. Godfrey was 83 years of age at the time of her death, and was well until last Monday morning. Besides her son, James E. Godfrey, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Maude Bowman, of Portland to mourn her death.

The funeral services will be conducted from the Godfrey home on 14th street, tomorrow, Thursday, at 2:30 p. m., by Rev. Hansen, of the Adventist church. Interment in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

The postponed game between Kay's aggregation and the bunch of swatters from South Salem was played last evening on the Willamette field, and resulted in the latter getting out at the small end of the horn, to the tune of 4 to 2.

Bowen was twirler for the blanket-makers, and kept his opponents guessing. Keeton pitched well for the southerners, but the eagle eyes of the men who live by the mill race landed on the little sphere quite frequently.

There was nothing doing in the game last evening until the last inning, when Melson, Farmer, Kay and Rasmussen appeared at the home plate, after circling the diamond. The South Salem bunch then took a turn, and Miller and Cary came in across the pan. The balloon went up at this point and the crowd became excited on the side lines, but notwithstanding the spontaneous combustion of the rooters no more runs were registered on the tally sheet.

SOME RICH BEGGARS.

Big Firms East Try to Bum Newspaper Advertising.

Here is a sample of stuff received in bunches daily by The Journal, and no doubt by all other newspapers in the country. It is simply an attempt to get advertising for nothing and is worked for all it is worth. The proper thing to do with the pages enclosed with these communications is to ditch them.

Dear Sir:—Enclosed please find some matter concerning the meeting held last week at — by the manufacturing and selling firms of this country that are interested in the production of —

In view of a recent misleading bulletin sent out by the census bureau, and the apparent widespread belief on the part of American editors that the business is in a moribund condition, it is believed that the enclosure will be of interest to you, and that any comment you may make on the subject will be of especial interest to your readers.

Very truly yours,

Bids to Be Returned.

At the meeting of the commission on the school for the feeble minded, held Monday afternoon, it was decided that all bids for the construction of the building should be returned unopened. This was on account of difficulty in obtaining a title to the land. M. P. Dennis who holds a lease on part of the land selected for the site, refuses to give up his rights, and litigation would probably be the result. In the meantime all the land to which the title is undisputed will, for the present, be used by the penitentiary management.

Constructing a Boat.

Laurence Hofer, the popular high school student and Journal reporter, is improving his spare time at Newport in the construction of a fine 16-foot boat which will probably be launched this week. Laurence is enjoying an outing with his parents, Col. and Mrs. E. Hofer at their cottage at Olsonville and has his boat factory established in the street near by where the sun not only has worked to the best advantage in seasoning the lumber but has also put a fine coat of Siletz colored epidermis on the boat proprietor's arms and face.

A Boy Shot.

Yesterday at the farm of S. P. Williamson, near Oakville, Lester Patterson and another boy were playing with a 22 caliber gun, when it was accidentally discharged, the ball going into the left arm of Lester just above the elbow just grazing the bone. He was brought to Albany and Dr. Stark dressed the wound.—Albany Democrat.

GREAT CIRCUS PARADE

Three Miles of Show and Every Feature of It Pleasing

My, what a parade! In the circus way that was the finest thing ever seen in this city. The Ringling Brothers have everything else put off the boards—and then some.

Over 600 horses, a great herd of elephants, camels to spare, strange beasts in open dens, 1286 people, and hundreds of golden floats and tableaux vans passed the thousands on the sidewalks in a column at least two miles long.

A calliope tooted "Everybody Works But Father," cathedral chimes rang out "Auld Lang Syne" and a mounted band added march music to the strange melody. There were five other bands, one clown organization that murdered opus 924 of John Philip Sousa to the delight of the spectators—also a Colonial Yankee Doodle drum and fife corps in powdered wigs and George Washington hats, and a barbarian reed and tom-tom orchestra that suggested the streets of Cairo.

The parade was led by a troupe of buglers and a golden band chariot drawn by 24 white horses. Later on there was a "hitch" of 24 ponies, no larger than Kansas jack rabbits. There were any number of ten-horse teams, and many beautiful thorough-bred driven tandem. It was a display of horsemanship that devotees of the track and stable well might rave over.

The Ringling Brothers are not sparing of goldleaf and paint, and there is a freshness and brilliancy about their pageant that charms. And their people are a superior class of men and women. Even the children have a dignity about them not seen with other circus displays. And such costumes! They were rich and picturesque, and, from their appearance, might never have been worn before today. The performance is now in progress. It is not to be dealt with in detail. It is too great for that. The only thing to do is to bunch the whole business together and say, "Well, it is the greatest on earth." And that's what it is. The performance tonight begins at 8 p. m.

PERSONALS

Dr. A. E. Tamlesie is in Portland for a short business visit.

Miss Lillian Lee and mother, of Marion, are visiting in the city.

Dr. W. B. Morse left this morning for Portland on professional business.

Charles Jaquet, the genial expressman, returned yesterday from Newport.

Mrs. Anna Creitz, of Portland, after visiting Salem friends, has returned to her home.

Mrs. C. H. Grier, who has been visiting friends here, returned to her home in Lebanon last evening.

The Misses Bessie and Fay Wheeler, Bessie Barnett and Gertrude Cook have returned from Newport, where they enjoyed an outing on the beach.

Miss Nellie Smith arrived last evening from Nye Beach, where she has been rusticated for the past several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weller, Mrs. S. Huclat and Miss Harek have returned from Otter Rock, where they enjoyed an outing.

Miss Lila Tarpley left this morning for Portland. She will be the guest of relatives on Bachelor's island for a week.

Ward Fisher, who has been enjoying an outing and filling a musical engagement at Newport, will return to his home in this city today.

Miss Ione Fisher has returned from Marion, where she enjoyed a ten-days' outing, being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cornelius at Maple camp.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cornelius, daughter, Miss Bessie, and Mrs. A. S. Black have returned from Marion, where they enjoyed an outing at Maple camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Ingalls, of Walla Walla, are in the city today, guests of their nephew, Breece Gibson. Mr. Ingalls formerly lived in this region, and used to chop cord wood on Brown's island, but now he is a prosperous rancher in our sister state.

I. F. Burt, of the soldiers' home, came up this morning to attend the circus. He says Roseburg authorities refused them a license, as it would interfere with their district fair. Mr. Burt has a 30-days' layoff, and will take a series of sulphur baths drying hops for John Holmes. Mrs. G. E. Coghill, mother and family left this morning for Monmouth, Ohio, to join Professor Coghill, who proceeded there. The professor has accepted the chair of science in the college at Granville, and the Coghills will make that city their home. Professor Coghill has been associated with many of the leading schools of the coast and the East, and is a noted writer on scientific subjects. He and his family have a wide circle of friends here who wish them every success.

TAKES DOWN THE WIRES

Exasperated by what he regards as the dilatory tactics of the Northwestern Long Distance Telephone Company, in failing to heed his warning to ask the city council for an ordinance permitting it to engage in the long distance telephone business of this city, Mayor Rodgers last evening elected to take matters in his own hands, and, assisted by City Marshal Gibson and a lineman of the Portland General Electric Company, he cut and disconnected the Northwestern Company's wires and put the company out of business, at least temporarily, or until the company complies with the provisions of the city ordinances and charter.

Today the wires are being taken down by the mayor's order.
