

TWO THINGS PRICES AND QUALITY

THESE are already in the minds of our buyers. In the past we have frequently talked of our prices, for the enormous purchasing power of this firm places us in an unique position, as it enables us to make prices which cannot be equaled elsewhere.

Now our talk is to be one of QUALITY---Jos. Meyers & Sons Quality. Almost three decades ago this house was founded on a basis of QUALITY and for those almost thirty years, QUALITY has been our one consideration. The uniform excellence of our merchandise has made it possible to build up this business to the stupendous proportions it has reached today.

MEYERS QUALITY is the strongest guarantee of excellence.

Williams, aged 17, both of this city, Otto Williams witness, and one this morning to Carl C. Wolf, aged 22 and Myrtle M. McAllister, aged 22, both of Salem, F. W. Steusloff witness.

Wires Coming Down.
Mayor Rodgers has ordered all the telephone wires of the Northwestern Telephone Company taken down, and they are simply coming down. The company was given a slight hint Tuesday when the mayor had one wire cut, but this somehow patched up during the night. Yesterday, however, the company was given to understand it must have a franchise in order to do business in Salem, and in consequence the wires are being taken down and the Northwestern will retire from business.

MARRIED.

LACHELE—WILLIAMS—At the residence of the bride's parents in Salem, Oregon, on August 28, 1907, Mr. Karl Lachele and Miss Josephine E. Williams were united in marriage by Elder W. N. McCandlish.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Brave Salem Men Stop a Runaway Wood Team.

A team of strong horses hitched to a wood wagon did a stunt on Commercial street yesterday afternoon that was not excelled even by the wild broncos of the circus, and Ray Gilbert's act in stopping them should gain him a place among the stars of the show. The team became frightened while near the railroad on South Commercial street, and lost no time in getting themselves and the rickety four-wheeled appendage down the street like a fat man bumping the bumps. It was fortunate that the street was clear, for the steeds meant business and would have tackled a trolley car as soon as a baby wagon which might have been in their course. Scores of men took a hand in attempting to stop the bunchgrassers, but all were soon lost in the whirl of dust which followed the wagon. The team finally reached the corner of Commercial and Court streets, and were still going at a Del Norte pace when Ray Gilbert brought his pedal extremities into action, and succeeded, after a warm chase, in grasping the reins of the near horse, and was getting the animals slowed down when D. A. White, who is also a good sprinter, came to the rescue, and got hold of the ribbon of the off horse, and the runaways were soon securely tied to a post. The large crowd which gathered in the street immediately gave the tiger, which echoed for several blocks, coming with ever-increasing volume down to The Journal office, and fading away down South Commercial street, as the glad news of the heroic stopping of the beasts in their mad but somewhat slow flight became known. The gentleman are both in line for a Carnegie medal.

THE CROWD WAS HUNGRY.

Made the Eating Places Get a Lively Move On.

Every place in the city where anything eatable could be procured was going the limit yesterday. Every hotel and restaurant was crowded, and the hungry horde that tired of waiting made a run on the groceries and the way the cracker and cheese trade boomed was a caution. The much maligned conundrum, Bologna sausage also experienced a run. The combination is not exactly attractive, but it is filling. To give an idea of the way the crowd surrounded the eatables, a few figures from the White House restaurant are instructive. There were used there 700 pounds of roast meats, 250 pounds of salmon, four loins of beef, amounting to 300 pounds, besides halibut, eggs and five big hams. Sixty gallons of milk and 100 gallons of coffee were part of the drinkables. There were more than 2500 people fed at this one restaurant during the day.

Miss Adna Raley, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ringo and other relatives of this city left this morning for her home in Pendleton. She recently returned from Jamestown, where she visit the exposition.

ESCAPED FROM ASYLUM.

J. K. White Tires of Asylum Life and Cuts His Way Out With Pocket Knife.

James K. White, who sometimes signs himself J. K. Greellish and has been living at the asylum since April 28, 1906, concluded to change his boarding place night before last and proceeded to cut a hole in the wall of his room with a knife which probably had been given him by a fellow inmate.

From ward 31 by energetic manipulating the sharp edged tool a space was excavated large enough to admit him to ward 9, and from this ward he lost no time escaping through a hole which he cut in the ceiling to the attic. From the attic White gained the roof by a trap door and walked along the wing to the main building. He went to the kitchen roof which is considerable lower and from this elevated position he probably jumped to the ground. He was next seen at the residence of Father Moore on Chemeke street early Wednesday morning. He called and Rev. Moore came to the upstairs window, and when asked what he wanted the demented man asked Father Moore if he had received any letters from his (White's) relatives in California. He was told that no communication had been received and he replied that that was all he wanted. Father Moore told the unfortunate man to wait until he could come down stairs as he had some work for him to do.

The asylum authorities were immediately notified but before they arrived White disappeared. Up to last night he had not been located although a diligent search had been made. White is an ex-convict, having been sent up from Clackamas county in 1903 to serve a three years' sentence for forgery. He was removed to the asylum in 1906 and imagined that he was confined in some eastern prison.

At various times he attempted to make his escape and in November, 1906, succeeded in getting away but was brought back in December of the same year. He is well appearing weighing about 185 pounds and is 49 years of age.

Enjoin Fourteen Railroads.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Federal Judge Kohlsaat today granted an injunction temporarily restraining 14 railroads and five express companies from adopting September 1st certain rates on creamery products to and from Western and Northwestern points. Fourteen creameries made the application. The principal roads made defendant are the Alton, Burlington, Illinois Central, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Santa Fe, Wabash and others, and the Adams, American, United States and Wells-Fargo Express Companies, which are alleged to be in collusion with the railroads. The creameries also appeal to the interstate commerce commission to investigate. The court set October 8th for the hearing.

A Similarity.

"Them mosquitoes," remarked Farmer Cortotassel irritably, "makes me think of them city visitors we had week before last."

"How's that, Hiram?" asked his patient wife.

"They come pretty near bein' the worst sizers an' the biggest eaters I ever saw."—Washington Star.
