KENTUCKY EDITOR DREAMS

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)

The editor of the Courier-Journal had a dream the other night. He dreamed that he died and was whisked off to the regions below. Old Nick met him at the outer door and extended a most hospitable welcome. "We've been looking and waiting impatiently for you," says he. "Some of the boys were beginning to be afraid that you were not coming, but that they would keep you in the shop above; but I told em to cheep up! You see, I know that sometimes they take pity on us and send us a good man. Why, your friends 'll be truly delighted."

"Who's here?" was timidly asked. "They are all here," said Satan. "There's old Grover and John G. Carlyle and Teddy, and—" "Got any Kentuckians?" "Plenty of 'em! There's Governor Beekham and Colonel John Whalen and Aaron Kohn and Richard Knott—why, bless you! when I get tired of whooping of 'em up and want a little recreation I leave Dick in charge and feel perfectly safe the fire won't go out till I get back."

Then we entered. The place was fitted up elegant—just like the Buckingham theater, with a summer garden attachment, which they called the Red City. Lum Simons stood at the gate taking tickets, and when he saw the newcomer he cried "Hooraay!" and said, "You pass in free."

It was a fine sight inside. All sorts of people and politics and religions, democrats and republicans, and Methodists and Presbyterians and Episcopalians. From every bough swung a crook or a thief. Some were marked "Louisville" and a few "Fusionist."

"Here," says Satan, "we reverse the earthly rule. We honor perfidy and pharisaism above all things, because they are so energetic and send us so many recruits. Common politicians we string up to dry."

"But, your satanic majesty, where is Mayor Bingham?" was asked. "Oh," says Satan, "he's a Baptist."

"What has that to do with it?" "Don't you know," says he, with a kind of awe in his tone, "that the Baptists are a very exclusive congregation and don't like to be mixed up either in their drinks or their damnation with other denominations? Come with me and I'll show you."

Then he led his wondering visitor through a long, dark corridor, which he said was called the Vale of Prohibition, to a small well lighted vestibule hung round with portraits of Lorenzo Dow and Tom Watson and Hoke Smith and Carrie Nation. "She's a Kentucky girl," he said triumphantly as he passed her, and then he lifted up a trap door and pointed to a pit glazing with light. "There are the Baptists," says he solemnly, "in close communion."

We looked, and sure enough it was as he said. There they were holding a long run convention, every man of them a red-nosed angel—with Dr. M. P. Hunt presiding, the Rev. James Van Arsdale in the act of offering a set of resolutions, the purpose of which ran, "We'll make Kentucky as dry as hell and Maine."

A Way in China.

To allow drop after drop of water to fall upon his head for an hour is a mode of persuasion sometimes practiced by Jim Chinaman when he wishes to force a confession from a criminal. The suffering which this entails is terrible.

A student once laughed at his professor when the latter answered him that he would not be able to let a pint of water run, drop by drop, upon his hand.

"Try me!" said the student with scorn.

A pint measure was procured and a hole drilled in the bottom of it so as to let the water escape drop by drop. The experiment began. The student chatted gaily at first. The professor stood by and counted the drops as they fell. At the two hundredth the young fellow became less jovial, then he became serious, and an expression of pain crossed his face. At the three hundredth his hand began to swell and grow red. The pain increased and at length became excruciating. Then the skin burst. Finally at the four hundred and twentieth drop the sufferer acknowledged his defeat.—Minneapolis Journal Junior.

An Ounce of Prevention

Is worth a pound of cure. There are many poor sufferers, consumptives who are hopeless of getting well—who, if they had taken care of themselves, would now be well. A cough is the foundation of consumption. Ballard's Horehound Syrup will cure that cough. Mrs. S., Great Falls, Montana, writes: "I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup in my family for years—my children never suffer with coughs." Sold by D. J. Fry.

Information Furnished.

A prominent railroad man hurried down the lobby of a Binghamton hotel and up to the desk. He had just ten minutes in which to pay his hotel bill and reach the station. Suddenly it occurred to him that he had forgotten something.

"Here, boy," he called to a negro bellboy, "run up to forty-eight and see if I left a box on the bureau. And be quick about it, will you?" The boy rushed up the stairs. The ten minutes dwindled to seven, and the railroad man paced the office. At length the boy appeared.

"Yas, suh," he panted breathlessly. "Yas, suh; yo' left it, suh."—Everybody's.

General Robert E. Lee

Was the greatest general the world has ever known. Ballard's Snow Liniment is the greatest Liniment. Quickly cures all pains. It is within the reach of all. T. H. Painter, Hempstead, Texas, writes: "This is to certify that Ballard's Snow Liniment has been used in my household for years and has been found to be an excellent Liniment for rheumatic pains. I am never without it." Sold by D. J. Fry.

Not Lost.

Guest—Any one ever lost any jewelry in your house? Hotel Man—No, sir, never! Guest—Why, I saw an advertisement in the paper only last week where a woman offered a big reward for the return of diamonds she lost in your hotel! Hotel Man—Oh, yes, I remember that. She was an actress.—Yonkers Statesman.

Nervous Indigestion

The action of digestion is controlled by nerves leading to the stomach. When they are weak, the stomach is deprived of its energy. It has no power to do its work. If you want permanent relief, you must restore this energy. Dr. Miles' Nervine restores nervous energy, and gives the organs power to perform their functions.

"For many years I was an acute sufferer from nervous indigestion; at times I was so despondent life seemed almost a burden. I tried all kinds of remedies and various physicians with little or no relief, until one night last summer I saw Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure advertised. I resolved to make one more trial which I did in the purchase of one bottle of Nervine and one of Heart Cure. In a few days I began to feel better, which encouraged me so much that I continued the medicine until I had taken more than a dozen bottles. I am very much improved in every way; in body, mind and spirits since. I make a special point to recommend the medicine and I feel a sincere pleasure in knowing that several persons have been benefited through my recommendation." A. S. MELTON, No. 3, Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

ELEVEN YEARS OF STATE FAIRS

In presenting our eleventh successive exhibition at the Oregon State Fair, we wish to state that each article in our stock has been selected with the utmost consideration for the use to which it is to be put. No implement or machine is taken into our stock until it has been thoroughly tested and compared with others for the same purpose, and found to be the best that it is possible to obtain. Many of our goods are made especially for this trade, which has its peculiarities.
