IN SERIOUS TROUBLE.

Kimberling Arrested at Independence Along With Girl.
Ernest Kimberling and Frances Kimberling were arrested yesterday on a complaint of the father of the girl, F. M. Franklin, residing on the coast. The charge against the girl is lewd cohabitation, but from the nature of the offense a more serious charge may be made, as has been said, several small children. The father of the case all residing somewhere over a year ago on the coast, where Mr. Franklin, the father of the girl, and Mr. Kimberling owned ranches, and were partners. Kimberling owned a ranch in Eastern Oregon, and decided to move there with his family. According to the story of the father of the girl, they asked that the girl be allowed to accompany them to the coast, and that she should have an opportunity to attend school. The father alleges that, on the coast, Kimberling sold the ranch, and all went to Portland. From there, the story goes, that Kimberling sent his wife and child to the Eastern Oregon claim, where they remained in Portland with the girl, where, it is claimed they were loved the greater part of the past year as man and wife. Mrs. Kimberling wrote Mr. Franklin the circumstances the best she knew of them from Eastern Oregon. The wife returned from that section and again joined her husband.

Mr. Franklin says they left Portland and were camped near Aurora, from where the wife again wrote the father that all was not right, and that Kimberling and the girl would pick hops at Krebs' yard at Independence. Mr. Franklin came here to find them, and succeeded in doing so Wednesday evening. Yesterday the couple came to Independence, expecting to take the train for Portland. The father, who was keeping close tab on them, followed immediately, and a short time before the train arrived ran across them in town. Franklin drew his gun and ordered Kimberling to remain where he was until the marshal or constable could be summoned to take charge of him. Kimberling was taken before Justice Wilson and the complaint above filed. The girl was also arrested at the depot and a similar complaint lodged against her.

Both were held until today, when the preliminary will be had. The father says a child was born to the couple while in Portland, but he does not know what became of it, but he claims the truth of the statement can be proven by witnesses from Portland. The above is Mr. Franklin's statement of the case, the other side will probably come out in today's justice court. However, at best the case is a bad one, as the girl is young, probably not more than 18 years of age at the present time.—West Side Enterprise.

BRING FANCY PRICES

Hood River Apples Sell As High As $12 a Box

For fancy Spitzenberg apples $3.27 1/2 a box and for Newtown Yellow Pippins $2.75 a box are the prices received by the Hood River Applegrowers' Union, under its contract for the sale of this year's crop of those varieties to the Davidson Fruit Company, of Hood River. The prices for this season's crop had not heretofore been made public. They are the highest ever realized by the Hood River union. It is estimated that the output of Spitzenbergs will amount to about 12,000 boxes, and of Pippins about 13,000 boxes. Oscar Vanderbilt, vice-president of the union, and the largest apple grower in the Hood River valley, who is now at the Portland hotel, is the authority for this statement.

With the exception of three varieties, the Hyde King, Ortleys and Red Cheek, which were sold to Yogdjoglu Brothers, fruit merchants of Vladivostok, Siberia, and a few local sales made by the farmers, the entire crop of apples for the valley has been sold to the Davidson company, which, as representatives of Eastern firms, will ship the crop East, some of it to England and some to continental Europe. It is estimated by Mr. Vanderbilt that the entire crop of the valley will amount to 105,000 boxes.

For $12 a box, the highest price paid for Oregon apples since 1852. Mr. Vanderbilt's Oregon apples of Winter Bananas, about 40 boxes in all, was sold through Seely, Mason & Co., of Portland to a firm of Eastern dealers. The fruit is still on the tree. His crop of another variety, the Delicious, Mr. Vanderbilt has sold to the Portland hotel for $6 a box. The crop will make about 60 boxes. Yogdjoglu Brothers, the Vladivostok firm that purchased the valley's crop of Ortleys, Hyde Kings and Red Cheeks, has bought of Mr. Vanderbilt five boxes of Winter Bananas which will be presented to the czar of Russia. These apples will be specially packed, shipped by steamer to Siberia and then sent by rail to St. Petersburg.

Robbed Cyanide Plant.
Butte, Mont., Sept. 23.—Bandits at Zootman looted the Cyanide plant of the Ruby Gulch Company, securing $4000 in gold bullion, and escaped. The robbers entered the plant by crawling half a mile through a drain pipe, after the watchman had made his rounds.

X-RAYS

Anyway the hunter who gets popped over by his best friend, far up in the mountains, may have the proud satisfaction of knowing, "as his life blood ebbs away," that he was mistaken for a majestic elk, instead of just a common deer.

Judge Wolverton's decision with regard to the admission of Japanese is, in effect, that if a Jap has a passport to enter Mexico concealed about his person he cannot enter the United States, but if he drops it overboard, on the way here, he is welcome.

The next time "Stub" Smith takes the horse editor through the packing house and forgets to lose him in the facing room, he will be spread over more ground than the prunes would cover.

The Pendleton Tribune says Huntington is on one side of Eastern Oregon and The Dalles on the other, while Pendleton is in the center. With the northern line only 20 miles away and the southern boundary of the state distant 250 miles, it is evident that the Pendleton press is not a good guesser at centers.

That prize of a hog given by T. W. Brank to the school children of Polk county for the best exhibit of corn, is peculiarly appropriate. The more corn the more hog.

Shakespeare put in the mouth of one of his characters the statement: "But in these nice sharp quilllets of the law, Good faith, I am no wiser than a daw."

Which applies to us laymen and accounts for inability to understand the distinction made by Judge Wolverton on the Japanese exclusion cases. Being a lawyer, he can probably understand it, for, like the learned judge mentioned by Hudibras: "He could distinguish and divide A pair 'twixt south and southwest side."

SAWMILL BURNED.

Hadley Brothers' Plant Totally Destroyed.

Wednesday night about 12 o'clock Hadley Bros.' sawmill and shingle mill, between Crow and Hadleyville, about 15 miles southwest of Eugene, burned to the ground, together with about 40,000 feet of lumber and a large quantity of shingles, and a chopper.

It is not known how the fire originated. The mill had been in operation the day before, and it is supposed a smouldering spark in the sawdust or refuse about the mill was fanned into flames by the wind. The fire was discovered too late to save any of the machinery, and the plant is a total loss, with no insurance.

The mill was owned by Charles and Henry Hadley, and had been operated for some time past at good profit. It is a severe blow to them, but they will probably rebuild in the near future.—Eugene Guard.

Salmon Fishing Was Fine Sunday.

Captain Josephson, of the launch Teddy, took a load of people down the bay Sunday morning to troll for salmon. They had an excellent catch. Among the party were Mr. Hayes, Mr. Taylor, the candy man, and wife, and Max Zimmerman and wife. There must have been a hundred people on the lower bay Sunday the total catch of salmon by trolling amounting to over a ton. Most that were caught were silverides, but still there were many chinooks among them. It was one continuous splash all over that part of the bay, and the sight was truly exhilarating. The fish are gradually working up the bay, and in another week should be in the upper part.—Coos Bay Times.
