

Salem's Quality Shop J. L. STOCKTON The Old White Corner

MORE NEW GOODS

Bewildering assortments in every department of our big establishment. With all the enthusiasm that daily greets our splendid showing it would be hard to for any one to determine what lines of goods are the most popular. Every counter has its particular attraction in the way of novelties and special sale items. Sometimes the ready-to-wear department has the crowd and the next minute they flock to the dress goods, underwear or clothing department. You always find a good natured crowd at our store, we won't have it any other way, the clerks are congenial and accommodating, and tired visitors soon find their spirit revived at our home like store.

NEW SUITS CAME SATURDAY

A man from the factory dropped in quality unexpectedly with three trunks of samples. He was kind enough to leave us about 20 sample suits, no two alike. You know samples are well made and as a rule the pick of the stock. These suits are now on sale at prices that surprise every lady who sees them.

BABIES, HAWKS AND HOPS

And All Above Average In Size and of Extra Quality

Aurora, Or., Sept. 30.—Postmaster Snyder is the happiest man in this neck of the woods since Sunday, when he was gladdened by the arrival of a regulation 9-pound boy at his house, and all his friends have been taking something on him, and smoking good cigars at his expense. School opened here today with a fairly good attendance, which will be increased by the first of November, for by that time the children will have gotten through helping of the farm work. Prof. Jay Bleakney, of Silverton, has been engaged for the fall and winter term. There is some talk of adding another grade to the school. Hop baling is nearly finished in this section, and, notwithstanding the mold that was in the yards at the time of picking, most of the hops baled will grade a fair to good quality. Very few sales have been reported so far, and those made mostly by renters, who have to have the money, and were willing to sell at any price in order to come out somewhere even. A more cheerful view of the situation is taken by the growers since the picking is over, and they think that 12 to 14-cent hops is not among the impossibilities. One of the largest chicken hawks ever killed in this section was shot Saturday by Willis Fry near Hubbard. The hawk measured four feet from the tip of his wings, and had talons like an eagle. The hawk had been killing many chickens in the farmers' yards near the Fry place, and the boy laid for the bird, with the result that Saturday he saw him up in a big tree about 100 yards distant, and took a shot at the bird. The second shot brought the hawk to the ground.

J. W. Myer vs. T. A. Livesley.
A suit has been filed in department No. 1 of the Marion county circuit court by J. W. Myer vs. T. W. Livesley and J. J. Roberts, to obtain a judgment against the said defendants for $3185, which amount is alleged to be due the plaintiff for picking, curing and baling the 1904 hop crop in the 37-acre yard known as the I. M. Simpson yard. The plaintiff and defendants became involved in a controversy over the yard about March 14, 1904, and the circuit court held that the hop crop should be sold and the proceeds be used to pay off a chattel mortgage held by the defendants. The case was appealed and the supreme court held that the crop belonged to the defendants, owing to the contract and mortgage. The complaint sets forth that the defendants agreed to pay the plaintiff for harvesting the crop, which cost $3185, but have not complied with their part of the contract. John McNary and C. L. McNary appear as attorneys for the plaintiff.

Sunday School Class Social.
The members of Mrs. Davis Errett's Sunday school class, appropriately called the "Gleaners," gave a delightful "Japanese social" in the parlors of the church last Friday evening. The 32 young ladies who compose the class were attired in Japanese costumes, and from a tea garden, which was constructed in the center of the auditorium, served dainty refreshments to their guests. All who visited "Fair Japan" were required to purchase passports, which, together with the game "A Trip to the Land of Sunrise," created much merriment. A pleasing program, consisting of piano duets, played by the Misses Liston and McCracken, and a vocal solo, "A Japanese Love Song," beautifully rendered by Miss Jennie Wilson, was well received.

ELECTRIC TO RUN IN NOVEMBER

Grading Is Practically Completed and Work Is Being Rushed

The present indications are that the Oregon Electric will have its grading completed and tracks tied in them iddle by November 1st. Two construction locomotives are at work on the Portland end, and this morning another construction locomotive was put on the track at the Salem end. The General Electric Co. has been working all the forenoon putting this engine over from the S. P. Co's tracks onto the Oregon Electric, together with 10 flat cars for a construction train. The two grading gangs are to meet today on the prairie opposite Woodburn. There they remains about 1000 feet of an eight-foot fill to make, and the grading is done. A spur has been built north of this city, and hauling gravel for the ballast will begin at once. Barstow & Co., the engineering firm that has built this line, are to be congratulated on the speed they are making, and the gradual uplift of business property values is being felt all over this city already.

The old remedies are the best. Hickory Bark Cough Remedy has been in use for over one hundred years by the old Dutch Dunkards of Pennsylvania, and is still in use by all the old families of Western Pennsylvania from the east, and manufactured from the bark of the white or shell-bark hickory tree. The bark is shipped to Salem, Ore., for sale by all dealers everywhere.

TEN DOLLARS' WORTH OF CAYUSE.

Twenty Dollars' Worth of Fun and $40 Worth of Clothes.

W. L. Archambeau, the chief representative of the Warren Construction Company, has been here for several days, and, if he could write a story of his experiences it would be somewhat spicy. Some time ago he bought a pony for his boy from a party near Spencer butte, paying $30 for him, but the frisky little beast had to be caught. There promised to be some sport in the proceeding, so Mr. A. accompanied some men with horses to witness the capture. They found the pony, but the little fellow objected to being deprived of his liberty. He led the horsemen a merry chase, up hill and down hill, over embankments from seven to ten feet high as far south as Creswell, back again, jumping every fence he came to, swam across the river and back again, and completely wore out the horses of his pursuers, so that they had to send to Eugene for fresh mounts. At last the animal got back to his starting place, and there, by dint of shrewd tactics, he was driven into the corral of a dairy man, among his cows and was caught. Mr. Archambeau completely ruined a good suit of clothes and the wear and tear on horseflesh has not been estimated at all. When the spy little cayuse was caught, he looked him all over and sized him up and concluded $10 was a pretty good price for him.—Eugene Register.

GAS AND OIL IN MALHEUR

A Payette dispatch of September 24th tells of the good fortune attending the efforts of the Oregon Oil & Gas Company to develop oil in Malheur county. The report says: "Both oil and gas were struck at the place by the Oregon Oil & Gas Company last night at a depth of 400 feet. Gas is pouring out of the well in a steady flow, although at times it is stronger than at others. Several times when a lighted match was placed over the well flames spouted into the air 10 or 15 feet high. "This evening the gas was set on fire and attracted much attention, hundreds of people being out to see the great torch. The demonstration caused considerable excitement here, and the people are manifesting the utmost interest in the developments.

"It was not known until this morning that gas had been tapped. When the men went to work at 7 o'clock they saw that gas was coming from the well, and that the water in the casing was covered with a heavy coating of oil. They notified Manager C. W. Taylor, who, with others, went to the well and a match was touched to the well, which when lighted made a report like a gun.

"Just before shutting down last night the drill dropped into a layer of black sand, and it is from this the gas is coming. While indications of near oil and gas have been found all along as the well has been sunk, the actual striking of gas at a depth of only 400 feet was a surprise to those engaged in sinking the well. No boring is being done today, as casing is being lowered, but the company intend to go down many hundred feet further, and the members are now very confident of striking a strong flow of gas. "A stream of business men and others have lined the distance between the business section of the town and the well, which is within the city limits, all day."
