their propaganda, in conducting river baptisms and making converts. They were arrested and summarily taken under guard to the frontier.

The imperial authorities decided in 1903 that if was not desirable to allow Mormon agents to continue their activity in Germany, but owing to the representations of the American embassy in Berlin, and of Chi f Missionary Cannon, whose field of activity was Central Europe, with headquarters at Berlin, the foreign office allowed the Mormons a month in which to settle their affairs and leave the country. There were at one time 50 missionaries in the various states in Germany, and the grounds for their expulsions were teachings contrary to public morality. It was also agreed with

Mr. Cannon that all the Mormons who were American citizens should discontinue presenting their doctrines in Germany. The German converts, of whom there were thousands, and who continued to follow their faith under native pastors, were subject to various police hindrances. Mr. Cannon moved his central European headquarters to Switzerland, and it is understood has since returned to Salt Lake.

It is now presumed his successor is re-entering the German field for Mormon missionary work, from which formerly many women converts were sent to Utah.

Some Striking Utterances.

Following are some of Rev. Dorris' most striking utterances at his opening service Sunday:

"Churches and preachers are not objects of charity. The idea of supporting religion as a pauperized charity is why the cause of Christ has not the thrilling, vital hold on humanity it should have."

"Our attendance and contributions to the church of God is never a matter of charity. The Lord let this world out, he just leased it to the people, to live on, to work, with the understanding that the first fruits were to be his."

'Ethics and morality are not religion. Those things are not sufficient to save any man. All preceding Christ were but types and shadows and he was the only savior and mediator.

"I would like a photograph of that man in the Willamette valley who lives up to the best he knows how, to hang up in my studio for a kind of inspiration."

"The sins of the people were never absolutely remitted until Christ came and was sacrificed and his blood was offered in heaven for the sins of the people. All the blood of animals never remitted a human sin."

'People can follow a work of fletion, or history, and know where they are at in such works and see some system or science in them, but ings.
