

ANOTHER DAY.

This is another day! And flushed Hope walks Adown the sunward slopes with golden shawl. This is another day; and its young strength Is laid upon the quivering hills until, Like Egypt's Memnon, they grow quick with song. This is another day, and the bold world Leaps up and grasps its light, and laughs, as leapt Prometheus up and wrenched the fire from Zeus. This is another day—are its eyes blurred With maudlin grief for any wasted past? A thousand thousand failures shall not daunt!

THE HERALD'S NEW PROPOSAL.

After making a very thorough canvass of public opinion regarding its suggestion that the Philippines islands be sold, the New York Herald acknowledges that the plan does not meet with public approval. Now it springs another.

IT IS, IN EFFECT, THAT WE SELL THE PHILIPPINES TO THE FILIPINOS FOR A CONSIDERATION EQUAL TO THE AMOUNT WHICH THE ISLANDS HAVE THUS FAR COST THIS GOVERNMENT.

This amount is estimated by the Herald at $400,000,000, including the $20,000,000 which was paid to Spain when the United States entered upon its campaign of "benevolent assimilation."

Enormous as the sum of $400,000,000 may seem to persons outside of the coteries of high financiers of Wall street, the Herald claims that "It is not too high a price to pay for liberty."

"France paid five milliards of francs—one thousand millions of dollars—to secure the withdrawal of German troops after the war of 1870.

"The Filipinos could not reasonably refuse to undertake payment of less than half that amount in return for their territorial freedom and recognition as an independent nation.

"No material difficulties would prevent the realization of the plan suggested, as it would be a simple financial operation to convert the outlay incurred by the United States on behalf of the Filipinos into a funded debt bearing a current market rate of interest and to create a sinking fund to provide for its redemption in a certain number of years."

Therefore, the Herald believes that "if patriotism has any virtue, THE FILIPINOS WOULD FIND CONSOLATION FOR THE FINANCIAL BURDEN IMPOSED UPON THEM BY THE MEASURES NECESSARY—to arrange for payment of interest on this national debt and its extinction—in THE REFLECTION THAT IT REPRESENTED THE PURCHASE PRICE OF THEIR NATIVE LAND AND OF THEIR NATIONAL EXISTENCE."

Regarding the advantages of the plan it proposes, the Herald enumerates them in the following concise and interesting manner:

First—That the probabilities of Japanese aggression would be rendered more remote.

Second—That if such an act of aggression were to be committed the United States would be aided, not hampered, by the Filipinos, who, in repelling the aggressors in concert with the Americans, would be fighting for their own flag and defending their national existence.

Third—That the repayment of American capital already sunk in the Philippines would be assured.

Fourth—That American Republican sentiment would be gratified by a solution designed to establish a government of the Filipinos, for the Filipinos and by the Filipinos.

There is a strong probability that the Herald will find no more advocates of its present plan than it did of the one which public opinion has so unceremoniously turned down, for the one reason, among others, that it would hardly be just to require those people, if a sale of their country to them were to be seriously contemplated, to pay back all the money the islands have cost us.

A modification of the plan might succeed, but hardly at $400,000,000.

PRESIDENT'S NAVAL PROGRAM.

Before the President gets home from his tour the country will doubtless be informed, in advance of congress, of the views of the President on most of the important topics which he will discuss with the national assembly.

Unquestionably that is a wise policy. The business of the public is public business upon which public opinion should be given every opportunity to express itself.

In regard to a navy, THE PRESIDENT DECLARES THAT WHILE WITH OUR PRESENT FORCE IT IS IMPERATIVE THAT THE BATTLE SHIP FLEET BE KEPT TOGETHER, IT WILL BE HIS POLICY, AND HE HOPES THAT OF HIS SUCCESSORS, TO HAVE IT ALTERNATE BETWEEN THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC COASTS, each of which is alike important to the nation and each of which is entitled to the same protection.

If, therefore, we have but one battle ship fleet, it must necessarily alternate between the two coasts.

Each coast must therefore be supplied with adequate facilities for supplying the navy and repairing ships, and should the coming visit of the fleet demonstrate that there is a deficiency in these facilities, the necessity for their increase will be apparent to congress.

But, regardless of the great value of the practice involved in the long passage of a fleet around Cape Horn, it is quite evident that the President believes that since two coasts so widely separated must be defended, the same thing to do is to provide a fleet for each coast, and the language of the President in discussing the subject pretty clearly implies that he will recommend that course to congress.

THE AVERAGE YOUNG MAN

Of today when he begins to earn, is soon inclined to extravagance and wastefulness. The five, ten or fifteen cents a day that is squandered, while a mere trifle apparently, if saved, would in a few years amount to thousands of dollars, and go far toward establishing the foundation of a future career. Too few realize that in order to acquire the dollars one must take care of the nickles. Careful saving and careful spending invariably promote success.

I deem it of the highest importance, therefore, to impress upon every young man the duty of beginning to save from the moment he commences to earn, be it ever so little.

We invite every young person who wants to save, to open a savings account with us.

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

proof linen twill made with a yoke, pleated across the breast, buttoned up the back, with capacious pouches like letter bags at the waist, and long enough to reach down to the wearer's ankles. It really does not seem so long since the dandified yeoman, carter, or even laborer would consider his new smock frock plenty good enough for church on Sundays, and quite in keeping with a tall hat and yellow-brown gaiters.

There is an old saying that it takes nine tailors to make a man, and nine more to make a man pay. Now, at Quairton, as at Hedon, and a great many more places, the sexton denotes the death of a parishioner by three sharp strokes of the tenor bell for a child, six strokes for a woman and nine for a man, before he commences to toll the one-minute passing bell. Mrs. Chellis says she has read somewhere that this custom shows clearly enough the origin of the saying, "Nine tailors (tellers) make a man." But Mr. Chellis does not accept it as the proper explanation at all. He holds that the world in general may disabuse itself of the idea that such a saying was first used in disparagement of the tailor's physique. He contends that it bears allusion to a high moral virtue—generosity—which is particularly characteristic of tailors. A journeyman tailor in reduced circumstances once called at an establishment where nine tailors were at work. On making known the circumstances of his case help came with such hearty spontaneity that it proved the turning point of his career. Some time later he acquired a village inn, which bore upon its signboard the legend: "Nine Tailors Make a Man."—London Globe.

Asiatic Competition in Transvaal.

The Transvaal public as a whole refuse to admit the arguments of the Asiatics. They declare they are willing to treat fairly all eastern people who have the right to live in the Transvaal. A certain number of Asiatics—mainly British Indians—were taken over with the country. They may be a burden, but the burden was accepted with other burdens, and there is no wish to get rid of it forcibly. But it is urged that the extent of the burden must be known. The Indians who are entitled to live in the colony must be identified. It is impossible to go on issuing permits indiscriminately and allowing numbers of newcomers to enter the colony. In the circumstances the Europeans of the Transvaal are entitled to some protection. Whatever may South Africa, and the deeper the depression the more serious it becomes. White families are being "squeezed out" by the hundred. The exodus to other lands continues. But the Asiatic trader is immovable. He survives; he grows in numbers. This may be regarded as evidence of his thrifty habits and business ability. But it is no satisfaction to those who are trying to build up a white nation in South Africa and make the sub-continent a source of strength instead of weakness to the empire.

In the Transvaal today there are 1105 Asiatic general dealers, an increase of 51 in the last 12 months; there are 3587 Asiatic hawkers, an increase of 501 over 1905; there are 229 Asiatic peddlers, an increase of 183 in a year; there are 60 Asiatic laundry owners, an increase of 51. But the inconveniences among Europeans traders grow even larger.

Today there is a deadlock. The government vows the Asiatics must register; the Asiatics declare they will do nothing of the kind.

It is impossible to say who will win. Prosecutions can not begin until the new act has been proclaimed all over the colony. It is still open to the passive resisters in Pretoria to take train to some other center where a registration office has been opened, and make application there. But the Indian organization is complete, and every office opened will be picketed.

Two or three months may elapse before all the districts have been dealt with. There is thus time to come to compromise. But when the act has been proclaimed all over the colony, what will happen if the Asiatics still defy the law? Will the Transvaal government build a new jail, or will they admit defeat?—London Daily Mail.

Compulsory Education in England.

Here is a little paragraph published in quite an insignificant corner of a country paper:

"At Spittlegate, Grantham, today a Honnington laborer was summoned for not sending his son regularly to school. The officer said the only furniture in the house was homemade. Defendant said he received but 15s per week, and had six children. His bread bill last week was 7s 1/2d. Major Longstaffe said bigger families than defendant's had been brought up on that amount, and defendant must try to make better use of his income. He was fined 5s, including costs."

The passion for luxury among the working classes is one of the saddest features of modern life. I have some recollection of R. J. Campbell enlarging upon this depressing fact in a very telling manner, and I hope that if he stands as a labor candidate at Cardiff, or elsewhere, he will tell his fellow laborers all about the pride of life and the deceitfulness of riches. When this and the customary bread bill were paid the would have 2s 10 1/2d left that week to spend or waste, on luxuries for himself and his six children. The more I think of the reckless extravagance of such people the more I am alarmed. The lust for luxury among the insolent laboring classes keeps me awake at night, for I cannot forget that it was luxury which brought down Rome and Nineveh. Would this Honnington laborer have the British empire share in the lot of the "widely scattered wreck sublime of vanished nations?" I hope not—and if not, let me implore him to take the good major's advice to heart and "try to make better use of his income."—London Leader.
