TALE OF LOVE AND LUCK

"Checkers" Is a Story of a Womanly Woman and a Manly Man

"Checkers" the tale of love and luck to be seen at the Grand opera Wednesday night, it is fresh and its fifteenth unquestionable triumph in Greater New York. The production, which has scored a big success wherever seen, is still under personal supervision of the same manager who has directed its destination its initial performance. The tale this season is to be enacted at the Metropolitan daily has been to say: "He is the manifest sign of a talent and personality warrant the seemingly extravagant prediction that he is destined to be known in comedy as Edwin Booth was in tragedy, this country's greatest actor."

There is need to say but little of the story of "Checkers." The tremendous circulation of the book since publication ten years ago seems to be for the belief that the details of the tale at once charming and thrilling must be known to every lover of the "old, old story," when told in language new; as well as every lover of the sport of kings and the intense excitement of the ring.

The blending of a strong pure love refined girlhood with the rugged strenuous activity of a manly follower of the ponies, involving the surrender of each a little to the other, but in such a manner as to leave the plaudits of the friends of the regarded as a triumph of literary skill in book form, while the version may be said to be somewhat sure to make you sit up and the company producing "Checkers" this season is substantially the same as that seen during the past three years, or since the play's original performance. Chief among the supporters is Stephanie Longfellow, in the part of the sweetheart of Checkers and David Braham, Jr., (the son of the well-known composer) as "Push" Miller the rack track tout. The only changes from the book story as told in the play are said to be such as the most rigid requirements of the stage demand and these changes have strengthened the story rather than weakened it. The lovers of the book are promised that they will find its life like characters well preserved and the ending more pleasing than in the book.

Hard Times in Kansas.
 The old days of grasshoppers and drouth are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of today; although a citizen of Codell, Earl Shamburg, has not yet forgotten a hard time he encountered. He says: "I was worn out and discouraged by coughing night and day, and could find no relief till I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. It took less than one bottle to completely cure me." The safest and most reliable cough and cold cure and lung and throat healer ever discovered. Guaranteed by J. C. Perry's drug store, 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

The Old Way and the New.
 The young lady from Boston was explaining: "Take an egg," said she, "and make a perforation in the base and a corresponding one in the apex. Then you apply your lips to the aperture and by forcibly inhaling the breath the shell is entirely discharged of its contents."
 "Well," exclaimed the old lady who was listening, "it beats all how folks do things nowadays! When I was a gal they made a hole in each end and sucked."—Judge.

The old remedies are the best. Hickory Bark Cough Remedy has been in use for over one hundred years by the old Dutch Dunkards of Pennsylvania, and is still in use by all the old families of western Pennsylvania. It is absolutely pure; made from the bark of the white or shell bark hickory tree. The bark is shipped from the east, and manufactured in Salem, Oregon. For sale by all dealers everywhere.

No Leniency for the Next Man.
 Horner (in barber's chair)—Now, look here, barber, be careful. The last man who shaved me cut me badly, and I won't be as easy on you as I was on him.
 Barber (anxiously)—No one in this shop who shaved you, was it, sir?
 Horner—No. I did it myself.—Philadelphia Inquirer.
