BRITISH FOURTH OF JULY

"Guy Fawkes Day" Kept in Commemoration of the Failure of the Plot to Blow Up the House of Parliament, November 5, 1605.

London, Nov. 6.—With the customary fireworks, bonfires and patriotic addresses, parades and demonstrations, Guy Fawkes day, the British Fourth of July was celebrated throughout the kingdom yesterday.

The occasion of the celebration is the anniversary of the attempt to blow up the British house of parliament, king, lords and commons, by Guy Fawkes and his fellow conspirators in 1605. Although the enthusiasm manifested is not as great as in past years, and the celebration is gradually losing its national and historical significance, the holiday is being generally observed, especially by the children.

The name of Great Britain's greatest and noisiest gala day is somewhat misleading, in that the whole credit or onus of the "gunpowder plot" has been popularly laid on the shoulders of Guy Fawkes, whereas history records that he was far from being the most important of the plotters and appears to have been chosen by the chief conspirators because of his coolness and courage.

Robert Catesby, a scholar and a gentleman, but withal a plotter, was the originator of the plan. Great benefits had been expected by the Roman Catholics from the accession of James I to the throne. The laws of Elizabeth had been unjust and cruel toward them, and they had been led to expect greater tolerance and amelioration of their wrongs from James.

In this they were disappointed. The laws respecting Catholicism and Catholics were made ever more stringent and enforced with greater brutality and renewed vigor. Popular discontent with this state of affairs led to the gunpowder plot. It was conceived with all the ingenuity of a master mind, and great hardships and dangers were braved by the conspirators in attempting to carry it to a successful end.

The plotters, all gentlemen unused to manual toil, excavated through nine feet of stone wall in order to get beneath the house of commons, but then found that a vault beneath the edifice was to let. This was engaged by Guy Fawkes, and under cover of darkness 36 barrels of gunpowder were conveyed to the vault.

All was in readiness for the meeting of parliament on November 5, which was to end in a tragedy that would startle the world, when the first disagreement came that was to end the great plot with ignominious failure. The plotters could not agree upon a plan to warn the Catholic members of parliament of the impending doom in which they, otherwise, would be slaughtered with the rest.

Finally an anonymous letter was sent to Lord Montague, a Catholic peer, warning him not to be present at the opening of parliament. The author of this letter is not known, although it is commonly believed to have been one of the conspirators named Gresham.

Montague took the letter to Salisbury, who in turn brought it before the king, and this finally resulted in uncovering the gigantic plot. In order that the conspirators might be taken red handed, the arrest was postponed until the dramatic moment in order to allow Catesby to escape. This he did, although he was shot a few days later while attempting to arouse a rebellion against the king in Worcester.

Guy Fawkes, who was detailed to fire the train which would blow up parliament house, was taken as he was leaving the vault, and the rest of the conspirators were either killed or captured at Dunchurch, where they had fled. Fawkes was terribly tortured, and though he was rendered so weak that he could scarcely

For all forms of nervous diseases take Dr. Miles' Nerve, whether it be simple nervousness, or those nerve destroying fits and convulsions. It is a tonic for weak nerves—It will restore nervous energy, and give strength to the entire system.

"In 1898 my little daughter was stricken with paralysis of the brain. For seven long weeks she lay like one dead. At times she would rally, and spasms would follow. I had the service of two of our best doctors and they could do nothing for her. At times it would take two persons to hold her in bed, and for seven days and nights we had to keep her little head packed in ice, the pain she suffered was so severe. Mr. Prentice, the druggist advised Dr. Miles' Nerve. I got a bottle and began giving a teaspoonful every two hours. After about ten days she began to quiet down, and within two weeks' time she could sit up in bed, and rapidly improved from that time. We have given her about twenty-five bottles of Nerve along with the Nerve and Liver Pills, and to-day she is well and healthy as ever. My wife and I were completely worn out; staying up nights with our little one during her sickness, so we began taking the Nerve ourselves, and with the very best of results."

mount the scaffold, he retained his magnificent fortitude to the end.

By an act of parliament, the members of which had barely escaped a terrible death, November 5 was proclaimed a day of thanksgiving forever. For two centuries afterward the annual celebrations were marked by riotous excesses, in which drunken men and women paraded the streets all day, carrying effigies of Guy Fawkes, which at night were burned in huge conflagrations to the accompaniment of fireworks, drinking, dancing and mad orgies. The fierce religious hatred once engendered in the breasts of Protestants and Catholics alike on the annual recurrence of Guy Fawkes day has now become little more than a general holiday, with nearly all thought of its tragic significance vanished from the minds of the present generation.

Cures Winter Cough.

J. E. Gover, 161 N. Main St., Ottawa, Kan., writes: "Every fall it has been my wife's trouble to catch a severe cold, and therefore to cough all winter long. Last fall I got her a bottle of Horehound Syrup. She used it and has been able to sleep soundly all night long. Whenever the cough troubles her, two or three doses stops the cough, and she is able to be up and well." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by D. J. Fry.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

HE PREFERS THE PEN TO RELATIVES

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 7.—V. R. Howay, now a prisoner in the city jail, charged with forgery, is evading his mother, Mrs. J. T. Ford, of Chicago, and is running away from wealth and luxury to enter a life of crime. Although the boy says he is only 18 years old, he looks much older. He is well educated, rather too well educated for a man of his years, for he has traveled much and knows the ways of criminals as well as he does those of persons well up in the social whirl. Regarding himself, Howay will say little. He declares he does not want the assistance of his relatives, even now when they might help him to keep out of the penitentiary.

Even to escape wearing stripes he will not communicate with his mother, who is a woman of wealth, and who is only too glad to help him. What the trouble is that keeps him from his relatives he will not say. He would rather face years of imprisonment than ask a favor of those who love him, and who he would naturally be supposed to love.

Goes Out of Coal Business.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Chicago, Nov. 7.—It is announced here that the Union Pacific has arranged to retire from the commercial coal business on January 1, next. As a preliminary to carrying out this arrangement, orders have been issued for the construction of a branch line, 20 miles in length, from Rock Springs to an extensive coal field in the North, owned almost exclusively by independent operators. Heretofore the policy of the road has been not to run branch lines to independent fields.

P. B. Wallace AGENT

To Whom It May Concern.

Notice is hereby given that complaint has been made to the health officer of the board of health of the city of Salem, Oregon, that the sanitary laws of the city and of the state of Oregon are being violated by many residents of the city who are maintaining closets over running streams of water and polluting the same, or are maintaining closets in such filthy condition as to be nuisances, are maintaining manure piles, refuse and decaying vegetable and animal matter in such condition as to be nuisances, and that such nuisances exist in close proximity to well, the water from which is used for drinking and domestic purposes.

Such conditions, if they exist in the city of Salem, are a menace to the health of all persons living along such streams, or using water from such wells, and are liable to be the occasion of an epidemic of disease at any time.

All residents of the city of Salem are hereby notified that on December 1, 1907, all pollution of streams of water flowing through the city, whether such pollution be caused from the use of closets built over such streams or otherwise, must cease, and that all closets and toilet rooms which are not connected with sewers or septic tanks must be thoroughly cleaned and put in a wholesome condition, and must be so placed and constructed that there will be no danger of the pollution of any water used for drinking or domestic purposes.

Contagious disease, and birth and deaths occurring in the city are not always reported to the health officer as required by law, and the fact that contagious diseases exist in the city is sometimes concealed from the health officer. Any person concealing matters which should be reported to the health officer is liable to the penalty provided by law.

This notice gives ample time for all persons to arrange for a full compliance with all state and city laws on the subjects herein mentioned.

W. CARLTON SMITH, Health Officer of the Board of Health of the City of Salem, Oregon. 11-4-5t.
