Teunenbergs's Murderer State's Main Reliance

STORY OF ARTISTIC ROBBERY

borrowed $35,000 on his unsecured note.

It appears that when the directors were not busy corraling the money of the depositors on their unsecured personal notes, they were absorbing the gold in enterprises in which they were interested.

The list of loans of this character was as follows: W. J. Barnett, note, $2215.58; W. J. Barnett, overdraft, $52,134.11; James, John and Charles Treadwell, overdrafts, $1,693.36; James, John and Charles Treadwell, notes, $967,500; B. M. Bradford, notes, $484,410; R. D. Fry, notes, unsecured, $127,000; E. P. Vandercook, notes, unsecured, $12,000; San Francisco & San Joaquin Coal Company, overdrafts, $21,650; same, notes, $200,000; Sacramento & Lake Tahoe Railway, overdrafts, $13,320.21; same, notes, $25,000; Trinity Bonanza King Mining Company, overdrafts, $5662.29; Pacific Window Glass Company, overdrafts, $22,132.83; same, notes, unsecured, $109,000; Trinity Water Power Company, notes, unsecured, $360,000; Carnegie Brick Company, notes, unsecured, $376,235; Loraine Mining Company, J. Treadwell, president, notes, unsecured, $27,500; Central Counties Land Company, notes, unsecured, $32,500; Western Securities Company, J. Treadwell, president, notes, unsecured, $105,000; Eldorado Lumber Company, notes, unsecured, $280,000. Total, $3,253,419.65.

Walker Alone Honest.
San Francisco, Dec. 11.—It is claimed by former Bank Commissioner Dunsmoor that the loans of the California Safe Deposit & Trust Company were increased at least $3,000,000 during the past year. When the bank closed its doors there was $189,564.89 cash in its vaults, and $214,654.22 was reported to be in other banks. About the only conspicuous official of the bank that did not dip into the coin of the depositors was President David F. Walker. No loans appear on the books charged to him, but there is a deposit of $42,000 to his credit.

When Walker was taken to the city prison last night he was led to the cell occupied by Brown, which is the biggest and airiest of all in the prison. Walker, however, upon learning who his cell-mate was to be asked that he be put in with any privacy and in the dirtiest cell, if necessary, rather than be compelled to spend the night in company with Brown. So he was taken to a smaller and darker cell, where he remained until this morning, when the prison keeper removed him to a lighter and airier apartment.

NEVADA BANK WRECKER AND WILDCAT MINE PROMOTER MAKES A BLUFF, AND IS PROMPTLY CALLED BY A PEACEABLE NEWSPAPER MAN.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Tonopah, Nev., Dec. 11.—Francis L. Burton, notorious bank wrecker, bunco man and wildcat promoter, ran his last bluff in Mina at noon yesterday, and was called by John Holman Buck, editor of the Rawhide Rustler and the Western Nevada Miner, at Mina. Burton had threatened to kill Buck on sight. Yesterday the men met in front of the Palace hotel. Buck was quicker on the trigger than the man who had threatened to take his life, and put a load of buckshot through his head, killing him instantly.

Burton had recently been run out of the new and bustling camp of Rawhide, and Buck paid his respects to him in the Rustler. He also stated that he should be run out of Mina, where Burton had been making his

WILL FEED YOUNG SALMON.

Have Evidently Profited by Studying R. D. Hume's Method.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Oregon City, Or., Dec. 11.—The United States bureau of fisheries this season will change its methods, as far as hatchery room will permit, in the liberation of salmon fry at each of its sub-stations in Oregon and Washington, for the bureau is going to feed from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 young salmon until they attain a size of four to five inches in length, when they will be liberated in the tributaries of the Columbia river. Formerly the practice of the bureau of fisheries has been to turn out the young salmon just as soon as the yolk sac was absorbed, when the fry were about one inch long. By the new method the young salmon will be kept in the hatchery until June.

ORCHARD IS AGAIN A WITNESS

RECITES HIS PIECE TELLS STORY OF HIS INFAMOUS CRIMES WITHOUT A SINGLE DEVIATION FROM HIS TESTIMONY IN THE HAYWOOD TRIAL.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Boise, Idaho, Dec. 11.—Harry Orchard, by his own confessions, twenty times a murderer, took the witness stand in the Pettibone trial today, and for a second time began to narrate to a jury his story of blood. It was the same story as told in the Haywood trial, without a single deviation. Orchard differed somewhat in his manner of testifying, seeming more willing to tell all the details without questioning from the state's attorneys. Many women were in the crowded court room, as it was known Orchard was to be called early in the day. The witness entered briskly, escorted by two guards, and held his hand high as he took the oath. In passing he glanced casually at Pettibone and Moyer, but was well along in his testimony before his eyes met theirs. When he saw Pettibone he did not move a muscle or change his expression, but on the sight of Moyer, who was leaning forward with his arms around the back of Pettibone's chair, Orchard dropped his eyes, shifted slightly in his seat, and quickly turned to his questioner. Today was the first time Orchard had seen either Moyer or Pettibone since his acquaintance with them in Colorado.

TO VISIT GOLDFIELD.

President Appoints Commission to Report on Conditions There.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Dec. 11.—President Roosevelt today named a federal commission, to visit Goldfield and investigate the conditions there, and to report to him personally, the following: Lawrence O. Murray, assistant secretary of the department of commerce; Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, and Charles H. Neill, commissioner of labor. They will start at 3 o'clock today.

COLONEL TALKS TO GOVERNOR

Commander of Troops Blames Sparks for Asking for Aid Before There Was Any Outbreak—Thinks Martial Law Unnecessary.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Goldfield, Nev., Dec. 11.—During an extended conference today between Colonel Reynolds commanding the troops, and Governor Sparks, it is understood that Reynolds said some plain things about Sparks, requesting troops before there was any trouble. Although Reynolds does not confirm this, it is said that he told Sparks that it would have been plenty of time to call aid after there had been some sort of an outbreak. Reynolds, it is understood, will make this report to Washington, if he has not already done so. The governor will not say so himself, but his friends say he is in favor of martial law, a view that does not meet with the approval of Colonel Reynolds.

headquarters. Burton had made a threat that he would kill the editor on sight. Buck got back to Mina yesterday morning, and was told of Burton's threat. He immediately armed himself with a shotgun and went in quest of his man.

Turning a corner Buck came upon Burton standing in front of the Palace hotel, talking to Will Edwards, and getting a bead on him, told him to throw up his hands, at the same time shouting to Edwards to get away. Edwards moved aside as fast as he could, and Burton drew a gun. Buck fired, and almost the entire charge of buckshot entered Burton's head, tearing it almost from his shoulders. Buck immediately gave himself up, and will be held until the inquest, which will take place tomorrow.

FATE OF SCHOONER LEARNED

Sailed Away From Alaskan Port Five Years Ago, and the Wreckage Alone Tells the Story of Terrible Disaster.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Seattle, Wash., Dec. 11.—Through devious channels, and after many years, during which the fate of ship, crew and passengers has been wrapped in silence, news has been received establishing the fact that the steam schooner Discovery, which started from Yakutat bay five years ago for Seattle, never to be heard from, was wrecked on the bleak shore of Alaska, and that all on board perished. John Wharf, of Sedovia, has brought word to Captain Omar J. Humphrey, of the Alaska Commercial Company, that an old sea captain of Sedovia, who lives about the islands of Prince William Sound, has seen the boilers of the Discovery on the west shore of Montague island. They are exposed at low tide, as are a quantity of bones. The Discovery was owned by local men, and plied along the coast of Alaska. She was on her way south in the fall of 1902, bringing many passengers and much gold.

BRISTOL'S NOMINATION WITHDRAWN

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Dec. 11.—The department of justice announces that the nomination of William C. Bristol, U. S. attorney for the district of Oregon, which has been sent to the senate, will be withdrawn, in accordance with the department's recommendations to the President, because Bristol's course with reference to the land fraud prosecutions in Oregon has been unsatisfactory.

Wildcat Put Up a Fight.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Orting, Wash., Dec. 11.—Margery, the 5-year-old daughter of Frank L. Carpenter, was terribly scratched and bitten by a ferocious mountain wildcat two nights ago. The animal had been chased from its den by a hunter named Hawkins. It rushed into the Carpenter yard, and there attacked the girl. The little girl and the cat were rolling on the ground, and Hawkins opened fire. The wounded cat jumped upon the hunter and knocked him down, but Hawkins is built like a giant, and grasped the cat's bleeding throat and choked the life out of it.

Scrapped to a Draw.

San Francisco, Dec. 11.—Johnny Murphy and Johnny Frayne, two local lightweights, who have fought several draws, went 30 rounds to another draw at Colma arena last night. The fight was a lively one, before a good crowd, but when it was all over Referee Roche was unable to pick a winner, and called it an even battle. The boys do not seem to be able to gather a punch with sufficient steam behind it to settle the question of who is the better man.

Montague Island.

They are exposed at low tide, as are a quantity of bones. The Discovery was owned by local men, and plied along the coast of Alaska. She was on her way south in the fall of 1902, bringing many passengers and much gold.

Orchard, in his answers to the questions of Hawley, gave his true name as Alfred Horsley, and told of his early life in Canada; of his marriage and early struggles; of his infatuation for the wife of another man, with whom he eloped; of his forsaking his wife and child and coming to Idaho. He then told of his experiences in the Coeur d'Alene; of driving a milk wagon, and following other lines of work until he finally drifted into the mines and joined the Wardner union. His description of the blowing up of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill, in which two men were killed, was very precise, and he frankly admitted that he set fire to the fuse which did the work. From this, his first real act of violence, he went into the Colorado troubles, and told of his first meeting with Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone.

Orchard said that Pettibone told him in 1904 that he shipped the guns used in the Coeur d'Alene riots from Denver in piano boxes. After the troops were called in the witness said he went to Utah and remained until 1905, when he went to Cripple Creek and joined the Free Coinage Miner's Union. He walked out with the rest when the strike was called in August of that year, and told of committing the first act of violence in the labor war, the killing of Beck and McCormick in the Vindicator mine. Court then adjourned for the noon recess.

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 11.—Clarence Darrow has asserted that the cross-examination of Orchard will be very brief compared with that in the Haywood trial. Darrow will profit by Richardson's failure to shake the testimony of the witness after a week's effort, and will conduct the cross-examination along entirely different lines, only endeavoring to picture Orchard before the jury as an inhuman monster, unworthy of belief.

The direct examination will probably be finished tomorrow, and it is thought that not more than two days will be used in the cross-examination, thus disposing of Orchard this week.

San Francisco, Dec. 11.—T. Otway Sadler, manager of the West End branch of the California Safe Deposit & Trust Company, suicided early this morning.

FIGHTING THE RAISE IN RATES

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Dec. 11.—A delegation of nearly 50 prominent lumber manufacturers and shippers of the Pacific coast, who are here waging a fight against the recent increase in rates by the Harriman and Hill railway systems were given a hearing before the interstate commerce commission today. Nearly a score of complaints have been filed. Victor H. Beckman, secretary of the Pacific coast association, heads the delegation. He insists that the action of the railroads will paralyze the lumber industry of Oregon and Washington, and create a lumber famine over the entire country. Financial depression on the coast and a force of 100,000 men out of work. The railroads say that the rates are not excessive.

Bankers Don't Like Jail.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Boise, Idaho, Dec. 11.—Arguments were heard in the federal court here late yesterday on the motion for a rehearing of the Kester, Kettchenbach, Dwyer and fraud cases of North Idaho, in which the defendants were convicted at Moscow last spring. In support of the motion the attorneys for the defense filed affidavits of four members of the jury asserting that the government attempted to tamper with the jurors. It is charged that communication was had through Bailiff Johnson, and that in this way intimidation was practiced, and the jurors influenced. Affidavits by seven other jurors and by Bailiff Johnson deny all of these allegations. Kettchenbach and Johnson were Lewiston bankers, and were each sentenced to eight months in jail by Judge Dietrich, the execution being suspended pending hearing motion for a new trial.

Dwyer was a timber cruiser, and was sentenced to 18 months in prison.
