OUT OF THE SPIDER'S WEB.

Sarah Truax Slips Her Head in the Matrimonial Halter.

After a short and rather uneventful career, John Cort's production of "The Spider's Web" has come to a timely end in San Francisco. The star, Miss Sarah Truax, deserted the company, bag and baggage, and flew to Minneapolis, where she will become the wife of Charles Albert, an attorney of that city.

Miss Truax, it is said, left the company so suddenly that all chances of securing anyone to take her place were abandoned and the company will be taken to New York and disbanded.

When the play was seen in Portland a few weeks ago the general opinion was that what value it possessed was lent it by Miss Truax. Local interest in the production was centered on Frank Dekum, who was a member of the company.

Miss Truax was formerly the wife of Guy Bates Post, but they lived together but a few weeks.

Reception to Mrs. Albert Salb.

One of the most brilliant social functions of the season took place last Thursday afternoon in Mrs. R. G. Ludwig's beautiful new home in North Salem. The event was in honor of Mrs. Albert Salb of Portland, an old classmate of Mr. Ludwig. In spite of the steady down-pour of rain fully sixty people attended. The reception hall was banked with chrysanthemums and carnations. The dining room was in yellow and green. Most of the guests found comfort in the library, where a cheery fire helped to warm and dry the drenched clothing of the happy party. Games were played throughout the afternoon. Refreshments were served at small tables in the dining room, where eight young girls in white served.

Mrs. Salb, who was Miss Esther Robinson before her marriage one year ago was a Portland girl and while there was very popular with the younger set. Her charming personality has won for her friends both young and old. Mrs. Salb expects to make Salem her home for several months. Mrs. Ludwig is a recent graduate of Stanford University and has been married two months.

Her home before coming here was in Los Angeles.

Some Fine Beef.

Two of the finest beeves which have been brought to the city recently were this week killed by E. C. Cross butchers. The steers were thoroughbred Hereford, only 2-year-olds, and one weighed when dressed 750 pounds, while the other weighed 740. The animals were raised on the Gilbert & Paterson farm near this city.

Sancho Panza, when young, would have said: "God bless the man who first invented Christmas."
