WHY I LOST MY JOB

Reasons Why Thousands Like Me Cannot Satisfy Their Employers.

I believe my fate is not unlike that of thousands of other workers who daily lose their places for reasons they do not know, and probably would not believe. When their pay envelope comes along, it is usually "Your services no longer required." If the truth were known, the reason for their unceremonious removal would probably be that their usefulness was destroyed because of some mental worry, bodily ailment or general indisposition. These things as we all know are the most frightful causes of failure in all walks of life. The battle of Waterloo was lost because of a headache, this quick age our minds must be clear, rapid, active, and free from outside influence or worry, or else we go down to failure with the wrong of "floaters" who go from one place of employment to another finding no satisfaction to others or themselves, constantly growing weaker and less useful, with no hope of will power, and no ambition. Every man requires from every other man the best that is in him. No man can use or get the best out of himself until he is first free from all fretful indispositions and worries.

That was my trouble. I was full of troubles. That's why I lost my job. My stomach in the first place was always out of order, and I was crying about it and my mind grew cloudy, and slow. I made mistakes, and grew grouchy. That was my end.

There are thousands like me, go about with "quick inch" faces, peevish manners, and repulsive atmosphere. No employer wants such men's services. Take my advice. A healthy stomach is half the battle, for it keeps your mind clear and your face rosy. Have a healthy stomach now and in a good position, and my employer is satisfied, and so am I. I started to take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets which I was told were good for the worst cases of indigestion and dyspepsia. The first two tablets made a wonderful difference in my condition.

The ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digests 3000 grains of food. The stomach doesn't have to do it all. The tablets do all the work. No matter how heavy the food, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure heartburn, eructations, burning sensation, bloating, irritations, loss of appetite, nausea heartburn, lack of energy, loss of memory, and dyspepsia indigestion in their worst forms. No other little tablet in the world does so much. You should carry a box around with you wherever you go and take them regularly after meals. Then you will realize that you are freed from stomach troubles, and have a clear mind, quick memory, a happy disposition, command rest. Get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store for 50 cents a package.

Send us your name and address and we will at once send you a sample package free. Address: F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Sauart Street, Marshall, Mich.

GUS KUSS

Continues in Jail—Whipping Post Humor.

Albany Democrat: Gus Kuss, the man fined $50 or 25 days in jail for beating and scalding his wife continues a resident of the city jail, and will probably serve the sentence out. No one seems to be willing to help him out. Few people like the wife-beater.

It is not decided whether the state will proceed against him. That depends upon whether Mrs. Kuss is willing to proceed against the kuss. She is said to be afraid of him. The sentence would probably be the whipping post, which would give the sheriff or his deputy a good job.

Discussing the Kussed affair some one suggested the sheriff's wife would be a good hand to do justice to the occasion.

The following from the Eugene Register is a sample of the manner in which the affair is being treated by the press of the state:

An Albany man named Kuss got drunk, beat his wife and tried to scald her to death with hot water. He is evidently what his name implies, a low down, mean, ornery Kuss.

Joseph Collins issues the first number of the Boise Times, with United Press Leased Wire service. He hits the bulleye in his editorial announcement as to editorial policy: "In its treatment of questions involving the discussion and application of political principles, the policy of the Times will be broadly Republican, but this does not mean that any party organization can pledge the Times to the support as a candidate for a public office, of any individual whom, for adequate reasons, it may deem unworthy of the sufferages of his fellow citizens."

FROM THE ANTILLES.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Benefits a City Councilman at Kingston, Jamaica.

Mr. W. O'Reilly Forgarty, who is a member of the city council at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, writes as follows: "One bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had good effect on a cough that was giving me trouble and I think I should have been more quickly relieved if I had continued the remedy. That it was beneficial and quick in relieving me there is no doubt and it is my intention to obtain another bottle." For sale by Dr. Stone's drug store.

PROBATE CASE HAD HEARING BEFORE JUDGE SCOT

REAL ESTATE AGENT FRED HURST ACTED AS INTERPRETER AND LAID DOWN SOME DUTCH LAW IN THE CASE.

The guardianship and the administration case in the Henry Oilschlager, deceased estate was yesterday afternoon taken up before Judge Scott in probate court and after several hours was consumed in hearing witnesses the case was continued to a date which will later be agreed upon by the attorneys. It will probably be taken up again during next week. The case is one which has been in the courts since 1904 when Henry Oilschlager died at the asylum.

Mrs. Oilschlager after the commitment of her husband in 1903 petitioned the court for the appointment of Theo M. Barr as guardian of Mr. Oilschlager. The grand nephews and nieces of the deceased objected to the appointment on the ground that Mrs. Oilschlager was not the lawful wife of Henry Oilschlager, which was overruled. After the death of Mr. Oilschlager, Mr. Barr became administrator and declared that Mrs. Oilschlager was the lawful widow of the deceased and was the only legal heir. The court allowed Mrs. Oilschlager $75 per month, which the nephews and nieces also objected to and with the guardianship objection appealed the case to the circuit court, where Judge Boise affirmed the decision of the lower court. An appeal was then taken to the supreme court but through a technicality the case was referred back to the probate court.

The objectors claim that Henry Oilschlager never married the woman who is known as Mrs. Oilschlager and that she had no right to appoint a guardian neither was she entitled to any rights in the property.

Mrs. Oilschlager, whose maiden name was Haymaker, was the housekeeper for Henry Oilschlager's sister who lived in Germany and it was here early in the eighties where Henry and Miss Haymaker met. When the sister died Henry Oilschlager went to Germany to settle the estate and returned with Miss Haymaker to Philadelphia, where Mrs. Oilschlager says she was duly married to the man with whom she afterward lived. Mrs. Oilschlager testified that she and "Henry" were not married in Germany in 1887 for the reason that the Burgomaster there told them that they could be married with more propriety in America as Mr. Oilschlager had been married before and it would be necessary to have a proof of his divorce which would require some time to obtain.

As Mrs. Oilschlager could not speak English, Fred Harst, the well known real estate dealer was interpreter and at times acted in the capacity of attorney. Several of those present attempted to assist Fred in some of his translations but he informed the court that if they thought that they knew more Dutch than he, they could take his place—after a bombardment of English and German and the hammering of the judge's gavel, order was restored.

Letters were introduced to show that Mrs. Oilschlager was treated well and was addressed as one of the family by relatives. Mrs. Oilschlager testified that she and Mr. Oilschlager lived together up to the time of the commitment of the latter to the asylum in 1903. Mrs. Oilschlager testified that her maiden name was Haymaker (in English). Fred, the interpreter declared that it should be "Hairmaker" from the pronunciation in German but was finally overruled by the Dutch authorities present.
