STORY OF ALLIANCE TOLD BY PASSENGER

Frank Davis Praises Bravery of Captain Olson During Hour of Danger

North Bend Harbor: Frank Davis returned on the Alliance from Portland. Mr. Davis was on the Alliance Thanksgiving day when she almost ran into Davy Jones' locker on the coast as she was crossing out and tells a thrilling story of the accident and praises Captain Olson to the skies for his bravery during the few moments of peril, and his devotion to duty during the six long days following when the Alliance rode the waves of the Pacific almost peacefully but still under the controlling will of her master.

Mr. Davis was back of the bridge behind Captain Olson when the wave that smashed her rudder and broke her propeller blades, and cried F. B. Pyott, overboard, broke the ship. It washed entirely over the vessel burying the bridge beneath the white cap that foamed on the crest.

Mr. Davis saved himself by clinging to an iron post while Captain Olson clung to the bridge. The wave was past in a moment and Captain Olson turned to Mr. Davis and said: Well, Frank, the Alliance has made her last trip, I will be able to beach on the sands, though, and we will be able to save the passengers." Mr. Davis says he spoke as though were talking about a sea gull flying over and Captain Olson says Frank said, "Is that so, Capt?" as though he had told him the most simple thing in the world.

Captain Olson's bravery during the time of greatest danger deserve the highest praise. He would give no words in a loud voice nor allow any one to hurry. "You may have five six days to do this in and there is danger, keep cool," was his continual admonition.

The story of the days following have been told time and again and Captain Olson says he never knew such a ship load of happy passengers, of such loyalty to ship and captain.

An old phonograph belonging to Mate McNichols was lugged out and carried from social hall to dining room, passing boats were played to and yelled at and during the entire six days of their enforced captivity on the crippled ship there was never a murmur of discontent.

When Captain Bally of the Ta-toosh attempted his hold-up methods, holding out for salvage instead of a flat rate, the passengers yelled derision at him and in unison told him to go to Hades, while the phonograph sung, "When My Ship Comes In, I'll Have Tin, Tin, Tin."

Had Mr. Bally succeeded in getting a line on the Alliance her owners would have lost $50,000 of which Captain Bally would have received $10,000 at least, but by Captain Olson holding out a day and a night against the practical captain of the tug he saved the owners of the Alliance all but $175, the flat rate for towing a boat across the bar.

Captain Olson is particularly severe, as he has every reason to be, in his denunciation of Captain Bally's methods.

The $100 binocular presented by the passengers to Captain Olson for his bravery is a handsome instrument and Captain prizes it very highly. He says it will never be used on the bridge unless she wishes a very high power glass.

The captain and his loyal crew were kept busy reciting the story of the accident and receiving the congratulations of their friends while in port over Christmas.

UNIVERSITY ATTORNEY WINSLOW DEFENDS THE UNIVERSITY

As a Fall Out of Eugene Palmer and Mr. Hulm of Newberg in Defense of That Institution.

Salem, Or., Jan. 2, '08. Editor Journal:—In reply to the discussion on the university appropriation in your issue of Dec. 31st written by Messrs. Hulm and Palmer, I wish to say: 1st. As for the argument that Oregon should not support higher education, I do not wish to waste time nor space to refute. I have full confidence that the people of Oregon who are to vote upon this measure are progressive enough, to go beyond that stage where it is believed that the only theory of government is that it should govern. A gentleman from Linn county believes that only common schools should be supported by taxation. In other words he would eliminate all high schools, the normal schools, Oregon Agricultural college, and my state university. Now wouldn't Oregon be an attractive state for the body of emigrants that are drifting westward, with such an educational system as we would have, if these institutions were eliminated? I wonder if Mr. Paulmer would be of Oregon under such conditions? But we need not be scared by such a dream. The people of Oregon have decided to support higher education. They have decided to maintain a state university. That question is settled. The only question for the voter is—does the university need the $125,000 per annum? Any other issue is irrelevant and misleading.

Regarding ballot title. Mr. Hulm seems to resent that he should have been accused of not having read B. No. 37. No such accusation was made in the communication to which he refers. What the writer doubts was that he had read the motion which prays for a change of ballot title. However, whether he had or not is immaterial. I have stated before I will now state that the friends of the university do not insist that the ballot be as suggested by the petition. The best that could be obtained, and I accept any wording that Mr. Hulm or anyone else will suggest, will eliminate the one objectiontionable feature, that this bill increases the appropriation from $45,000 to $125,000. It is suggested that I am not willing that the voter should know how much of an increase this bill makes over the old laws. I might return the compliment and suggest that Mr. Hulm wants it to appear to the voter that the increase is greater than it really is. But, the real question here is, does H. B. No. 37 increase the income of the university from $47,000 or from $87,000 to $125,000. Mr. Hulm admits that the income of the university for the years of 1905-6 was $87,000 per annum, and I think he will admit that if this bill becomes a law, all that this university will get for the years 1907-8 will be $125,000 per annum. It seems to me that if I have a regular monthly salary of $47, but can make enough side money to make my total income $87 per month; then if I should be placed upon a regular salary of $125 per month, but where I could make no side money, that my income would have been increased, not from $47, but from $87 to $125 per month. House bill No. 37, provides not only for maintenance, but for buildings, additional grounds, equipment, improvements and everything that the university needs. But if this were not so; carry out my hypothetical case. Everybody knows that if this bill becomes a law the university will get no special appropriation for the years 1907-8, and it is in 1909 they did get an additional special appropriation that would be a question for the people to pass upon then and not now. That would be another house bill, and its effect would be to increase the income of the university from $125,000 per annum to whatever it might specify, and the people would have a chance to vote on that if they desired. The question now is, as stated above—does the university need the $125,000? The bill appropriating this amount takes the place of all acts appropriating any money to the university heretofore. Therefore, it seems to me that the only way to make a fair comparison is to take the total of all these acts, regular and special, and compare that amount with what this bill appropriates. That makes an increase from $87,750 to $125,000.

I wish to say by way of apology that this newspaper discussion might be more profitably reserved for hearing before Judge Galloway. He is the man that will settle this matter, and after all is said and done newspaper talk will have no effect upon the court. I would not have repented this time had it not been that my position was termed unfair. I hope that I have, at least, made clear that the university is willing to do what is right. We have full confidence that the matter will be settled satisfactorily when it comes up before the court.

Mr. Hulm asks for a statement regarding the number of instructors and the salaries of each, and a general statement as to what the university is going to do with the $125,000 per annum. In regard to this I will say: In the near future I will publish an article covering this entire ground. I am certainly willing that these facts should be known. In fact the university stands ready and TWO—YOUNG... willing at any and all times to furnish anyone such information as they may desire.

Very truly yours, W. C. WINSLOW.

Charged With Assault.

Joseph Morris of Marion was arrested yesterday afternoon and brought before Judge Webster on a charge of assault and battery. After pleading guilty he was fined $5 and the costs of the action. Morris and H. A. Smith of Turner, it seems, had had some trouble over a cow and meeting in Marion proceeded to discuss the matter of each other's rights in the case. The argument soon became heated and Morris is said to have struck Smith. The defendant paid his fine and was immediately released.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble prevys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order of diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
