Two Small Boys—Deputy Sheriff Minto and Special Detective Joe Reilly, of the S. P. Co., have found the parties who placed the bolts on the track at the fair grounds last Sunday, apparently in an effort to wreck the Roseburg local, northbound. It was thought at first to be the work of hobos, but, after searching all the camps about here and arresting five on suspicion, a new clew was found and two small boys, aged 11 and 13, are known to be the culprits. They live between North Salem and the fair grounds, and will not be arrested, as they seemed unaware of the gravity of the offense.

Their house is clean, the tables well provided, and the office large with a good big stove in it, and they are not afraid to keep the place warm. Both are natural born hotel men, and give you that comfortable feeling that made an old English poet exclaim, "that when you've got the tin, heaven hath no place like a well-kept inn."
