COMPANY M IN FINE CONDITION

"Blue" and "Brown" Contest Closed—Was the Means of Bringing Many Recruits into the Ranks.

Company "M," O. N. G., is rapidly approaching the maximum mark and is composed of as fine a lot of young men, physically and morally as can be found in any city. The "Blue" and the "Brown" membership contest which the boys have been carrying on for the past several weeks was brought to a close last Tuesday night at which time the "Blues" were credited with having secured 11 new members and the "Browns" nine. This count was the occasion for rejoicing on both sides, the loyal "Browns" while defeated had made a good fight for their colors by which the militia had been materially strengthened, the "Blues" on the other hand, rejoiced to see 20 new men join the ranks and also that they had been victorious over their pro tem "enemies," and were soon to be the honored guests at a banquet served by "the vanquished."

The $15 prize which had been offered to individual members securing the greatest number of recruits was distributed in three prizes as follows: $7.50 first money to George Hiron, of the "Blues," who obtained seven recruits, $5 second money to Frank Snyder, of the "Browns," with five, and $2.50 third money to Albert Gilie, of the "Blues," with two. The announcements of the result of the contests was the occasion of the call for "speech," and in answer Captain Gilie, of the "Blues," and Captain Holman, of the "Browns," each made appropriate addresses as did Captain Murphy and Lieutenants Holman and Abrams. After the presentation of the prizes and the echoes to "fall in for mess" and in single file marched to the banquet tables where the sumptuous feed awaited them. During the repast Lieutenant Holman rendered stirring airs on the piano and the armory reverberated with the laughter of the boys in uniform. A stag dance, singing and the usual games formed a social hour which will long be remembered by the guardsmen.

On Wednesday evening, February 5, Colonel Jackson of the U. S. army will hold the annual inspection in the armory of the company, and between now and that date the armory will present a busy scene on each Tuesday night at which time the militia will be given a severe drill. In order to fill several vacancies Captain Murphy has announced that a competitive examination will be held on January 28 for corporalships. It is expected that many applicants will compete for the vacancies.

CHEMEKETA LODGE VISITS SILVERTON

Odd Fellows In Silverton Give Salem and Other Visitors, "The Time of Their Lives."

One of the jolliest excursions from this city for some time was the visit of Chemeketa lodge, I. O. O. F. of this city to Silverton Saturday evening.

The local lodge chartered a train of two coaches and a baggage car, and at 5:30 p. m. Saturday about 75 loyal Odd Fellows, the basketball team of the Capital Business College and a jolly crowd of ladies boarded the cars and with laughter and song left for the neighboring city. They were joined by delegations at Brooks, Gervais and Woodburn who readily entered into the spirit of the occasion. The call of "Silverton" by the conductor was the occasion of the members making a rush to get their paraphernalia, overcoats and "lodge goats" together and as the train came to a stop to lose no time in alighting and getting their pedal extremities into action to transport them to the I. O. O. F. hall, where Silverton's Odd Fellows and the lodge from Scotts Mills awaited with several candidates who were to soon be transformed into the "Odd." The first degree was put on by Silver Lodge No. 21 of Silverton in a very creditable manner as was the second degree which was exemplified by the team of Chemeketa lodge of this city. Captain Mel Baldwin had charge of the Salem team and the work of his aggregation demonstrated his thoroughness as a drill master.

After the business session and a short jollification in the halls, the visiting members were invited to the parlors of the First Christian church where the Ladies Aid society served sumptuous banquet. There were over 200 covers spread and the informal program of fun and speeches around the festival board would have been a treat long to be remembered even had the tempting pabulum which was spread on the spacious tables been missing. The ladies proved themselves to be royal entertainers and it is said that several of the Fellows from Salem have expressed their desire to change their abode.

It has been nearly three years since the Salem lodge has visited Silverton, but the members here say that they will be more fraternal in the future.

To add to the pleasure of the occasion Grand Master Richard Scott and Grand Secretary E. E. Sharon, Past Grands Judge Barnett, J. A. Mills, Grand Representative W. A. Carter and Past Grand Patriarch Mr. Steelhammer, and others entertained those present with able fraternal speeches dwelling at length on the history of the great order of Odd Fellows.

It was during the early hours of Sunday morning that the excursionists left Silverton on the return trip, arriving in Salem at 4 o'clock. It is reported that had it not been for J. W. Young, the energetic carpenter and loyal Odd Fellow, several would have been left in the Silver city. As it was Mr. Young had difficulty in keeping the Fellows awake during the return trip, but he is sure that he succeeded in getting them all back to Salem.

Among the members who attended the initiation were:

OREGON ELECTRIC TRAINS VERY SOON

The "Y's" Are Nearly Ready—Ballasting Track Begins Today on Large Scale

Supt. Charles A. Coolidge, of the Oregon Electric, was in the city Sunday, and told a Journal reporter that as soon as the "Y" tracks are in place at Salem and at Portland, regular trains of the new heavy pullman cars will be operated between the two cities. The cars are operated from one end only, and hence have to be turned around at each end of the run.

Thirty ballast cars arrived up today from Portland, at the gravel pit just north of the city, where a steam shovel has been installed, and the work of putting a heavy gravel ballast on the whole line will begin. It was the company's first intention to use crushed rock, but it was found that gravel would only cost half as much, and a pit was opened that was found to be a very fine article.

English Perambulator—

Included in well new line of go-carts at Buren & Hamilton's store. There is a new style of cart, known as an English Perambulator. Although it somewhat resembles the long-bodied baby carriage of a few seasons past, it is much more convenient, and very pleasing in appearance. It is made with a seat at each end and so arranged that the occupant can ride forward or backward. It is fitted with a waterproof folding top, which protects the child from the weather or from the hot sun. This firm is very progressive, and always showing the newest and best in every line.

A Large Shipment—

Of linoleum is being received at Buren & Hamilton's. They keep it in all widths up to 12 feet. Also have a special pattern which they are closing out at 50c per yard.
