

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Muff, of 515 N.C. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes:

"Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my troubles public.

"For twelve years I had been suffering with the worst forms of female ills. During that time I had eleven different physicians without help. No tongue can tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice. I followed it, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restored health and strength. It is worth mountains of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Muff, it will do for other suffering women.

NEW ORCHARDS OUT OF OLD

(Corvallis Times.)

Old orchards in Benton county could be made into new ones in three years. Within three to five years, each tree could be made to yield a revenue of $5 to $10. The variety of each could be converted into a modern fruit that commands the highest price in the markets. They could all, for instance, be made into Jonathans, which are now bringing almost as much a box in the London market as eastern apples bring per barrel.

Make Old Orchards New.

If that kind of a change could be

Frank Foolishness.

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, of Empire, Ga. "I have used New Discovery seven years and I know it is the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Know the world over as the king of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at J. C. Perry's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

made every old orchard, would be a new one, thrifty and slightly. The disease would be gone, and young trees would all be healthy. The unsalable varieties would be changed into the highly prized varieties. The orchard, which now absolutely yields nothing, would be the best paying piece of land on the farm. M. O. Lowndale says this is true. He has a 300 acre orchard in Yamhill county, the biggest commercial orchard in the state. He is perhaps the best known orchardist in the northwest. He knows all about fruit growing in the Willamette valley, because he has been in the business nearly all his life. His father before him was one of the pioneer fruit growers. With old trees, Mr. Lowndale has done in his farm exactly what is suggested in the foregoing. His statement was made in an address at the college Tuesday afternoon.

The Folly of It.

Mr. Lowndale thinks, and in his address, declared, that the plan of attempting to renew the old orchards by sprays and pruning cannot be entirely successful. There are, as a matter of fact too many old varieties, that consumers won't buy. It is folly to perpetuate these old varieties, when by the simple process of grafting they can be converted into the latest and most popular varieties. And, it is folly, to fool with the old trees, when it is so much easier and so much more of a money maker to transform them into new trees, converting the old orchard into a young one.

Mr. Lowndale outlined his plan in his address. It is the plan that the Willamette valley fruit association is going to push all over western Oregon. It is a plan that has the indorsement of the state board of horticulture, of which Mr. Newell is president. It has the indorsement of the fruit inspectors. It is a sensible plan, for it proves the quickest and easiest way to get rid of the old orchards.

Chop Down Old Trees.

This is the plan. The old trees cut down close to the ground. Only the roots should be preserved intact. That should be done by the first of March this year. By the following springtime, there will be new sprouts on all the roots. Between May 10th and March 15th, on three of four of the best of these sprouts the desired variety is to be grafted. In three or four years thereafter, the tree will be in good bearing, and Mr. Lowndale says, yielding, a yearly revenue of $5 to $10 per tree. If it is desired, the trunk of the old tree may be so cut that two or three feet will be left standing. Ten inches below the grafts may be put in the first year, and a year's time be gained in getting a crop. In this sort of grafting, however, expert work is required in order to be successful, and the plan is not, therefore, considered as desirable of grafting to the sprouts, where less skill is required. The result Mr. Lowndale says, would be to make of the old orchard, the best paying piece of land on any farm. With the best varieties of fruit thus produced, and in quantities so great as would be consequent from general application of the plan, there would instantly appear a profitable market, with an easy sale of the fruit and at high prices.

Announcements Later.

It is probable that a great deal more will be heard of the plan within coming weeks. A body of astute and earnest fruit men has been deliberating at the college all this week. Among them are President Newell of the state board of horticulture, Mr. Reed of the same organization, a long list of fruit inspectors from the various counties, and horticulturists from various parts of the state. It is probable that as a result of their deliberations, they will within a short time issue an address to the public on the subject of the old orchards.

After the Races.

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day; the grouchy herd winds slowly o'er the sea. They failed to guess, as sporting people say, which was the shell that hid the little pea. —Washington Herald.

The Lesson of the Eagle and the Weasel

The familiar story goes that once, when an eagle pounced upon a weasel and soared with it high into the air, the weasel fastened its fangs deep into the eagle's breast and commenced to draw its life-blood. The eagle tried to shake the weasel off, but the weasel hung on until the eagle fell lifeless to the ground.

There is a moral in this for every sufferer from coughs or colds. Don't let your cough hang on—for every day it weakens your lungs and gradually wears down your system until serious lung troubles develop.
