Hogg-Maplethorpe Wedding.
One of the prettiest of recent weddings was that which took place last Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Maplethorpe, on Twenty-second street, when their daughter, Edith Ellen, became the bride of Mr. William T. Hogg.

The decorations for the occasion were especially pretty. In the room where the ceremony took place the color scheme of white and green was effectively carried out with ropes of smilax and ivy and clusters of snowy calla lilies. In the alcove window where the ceremony was performed was a large lovers' knot of white ribbon, and from this was suspended a wedding bell of ivy leaves and berries. The sitting room was in red and green.

Just before the ceremony Mrs. Homer Van Winkle sang "O, Promise Me" in splendid voice. At 5 o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Elizabeth Johnson of Portland, the bride party entered and was met by Rev. P. S. Knight, who performed the ceremony in the presence of about forty guests. The "Flower Song" was played during congratulations.

The bride was very pretty in a gown of cream colored crepe de chene, entrain, over white, trimmed with folds of liberty satin, applique and chiffon pleatings. She carried an arm bouquet of white and pale pink carnations, which was later caught by Miss Lena Clark. Her traveling suit was of brown-wool taffeta, trimmed with taffeta silk, and wore a hat to match.

A faint luncheon of five plates was served by Misses Emma Maplethorpe, Crissie Clark and Mayme Schultz. The guests were received by Miss Lena Clark.

The bride is very well known here, having received her education in the schools of this city, and is an accomplished musician. Mr. Hogg is a prominent rancher of Southern California, and is well known here, being a brother of Mrs. F. E. Shafer of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Hogg left Sunday night for Sacramento, California, and will make their home near there at Cranmore.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Klepper, Miss Emma Maplethorpe, a sister of the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Johnson, all of Portland.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.
Few People Know How Useful It is Preserving Health and Beauty.

Cost Nothing to Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but 25 cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

ARTISTIC BRUISERS AND THEIR NEW IDEAS

Will No Longer Make Ringside Weights—Most of the Scrappers Taking On Flesh and Pitching Into the Heavy Weight Class

San Francisco, Jan. 18.—When Stanley Ketchel, the Michigan mid-weight, steps into the ring on January 22 to do battle with Mike (Ivan) Sullivan it probably will be his last appearance as a middle-weight, so rapidly has the youngster since he made his initial entrance in a California ring. And, strangely enough, his opponent on that occasion is in the same fix. Less than a year ago Joe Thomas and Ketchel were fighting in the welterweight ranks, and when they met at Orville, Cal., on the afternoon of July 4, last, they fought for the world's welterweight championship. Six months later they fought for the same title, but in reality they were middleweights. In their third fight they were heavier than when they had their second meeting. Now Thomas is fighting in the heavyweight division, while Ketchel is going on flesh at an alarming rate, and before another six months he will have joined the big fellows. It seems doubtful that he will be able to make the weight (154 pounds four ounces before the fight) for this encounter with Sullivan.

Coast fight promoters have taken it in earnest the campaign against the practice, which is one of the largest nuisances in the boxing game, was started by none other than the redoubtable Billy Nolan, former manager for Battling Nelson. It is Nolan caused the agitation to start when he forced Joe Gans to get down to an impossible weight for the negro's memorable battle with Gus at Goldfield. No'an's tactics used such disgust among fight followers and promoters that a demand was immediately made for a discontinuance of ringside weighing. Now James Coffroth, the greatest of the fight promoters, with the ultimatum that never again will he make a fight calling for ringside weighing, whether or not it is a championship affair, and, to make an ultimatum good, he refused to take an offer for a return battle between Owen Moran and Abe Attell, less it is agreed between the boys that they weigh in not less than two weeks before the fight.

In this connection, the stand taken by Abe Attell in the matter of fight for a second fight with Moran is a curious one, to say the least. Attell refuses to meet Moran for the championship unless the Englishman weighs 122 pounds, ringside, but goes to fight Moran at catch weight without the title as one of his considerations. Attell insists that the featherweight limit is 122 pounds, ringside, and that a battle for the championship must be fought at that weight. He is right, according to the rules framed by the Marquis of Queensberry many years ago, but experience has shown that ringside weighing has been the cause of more satisfactory fights than any other method set down in the Queensberry rules. Attell's peculiar attitude has caused many ring fans to believe that he is just a bit afraid of the Englishman, and that he did not relish the little fellow from across the water gave him in their recent 25-second draw.

Another iniquitous ring practice that has seen its day, if latter day scrappers are to be taken at their word, is the trick worked to good advantage by Terry McGovern in more than one of his fights. The trick consisted of picking up a fighter immediately he had knocked him down, giving him an opportunity of taking the rest allowed by the rules, and once knocking him down again. The rules say that when a boxer knocks his man down he must at once retreat to his corner and remain there until his adversary is again on his feet. Time and again McGovern's offense was overlooked, and the referee showed McGovern, have played some trick, which is as deliberate as a fighter could commit.

Battling Nelson's claim, based on his accidental defeat of Jack Clifford, that he is the same old Nelson, is not being taken seriously by those who have followed the career of the Hegewisch Dane. The beating that Gans gave him undoubtedly set him back physically to a very great extent, it was contended, and this contention was borne out when Nelson blew up so quickly in his last fight with Jimmy Britt. The student's dope is like this:

Gans beat Nelson for 43 rounds. Nelson's next contest is with Britt, who beats him in 20. Britt then meets Gans and is made to look like a sucker in five rounds, never having had the faintest look in. If Britt can beat Nelson in 20 and Gans beat Britt in five, where does Nelson get off? The battler will have to do something better than whipping a third-rater before he can expect to believe that he has regained his old form.

Artisan's Banquet.
The elaborate banquet which was served by the married people of the local assembly of United Artisans last evening in Odd Fellows hall was the reward of the singles in obtaining the more members for the order during the months of November and December.

During the early part of last evening Capital assembly among other business voted on 14 applications to become members of the local lodge besides initiating a large class. After the business session, the large audience of loyal members were entertained by an elaborate drill executed by Capital Assembly's team composed of the following ladies: Captain Mrs. St. Helens, Mrs. Clough, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Know, Miss Peterson, Mrs. Buckle, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Erickson, Mrs. Godfrey and Mrs. Unruh. Cook Patton, the well known proprietor of the popular postal card store, next delighted those present with many mysterious stunts such as gathering money from the air, or wherever he might select, even to the violin which was beautifully played by the leader of the orchestra. After many other bewildering tricks by this prince of entertainers the happy throng repaired to the dining room where a banquet had been prepared. There were about one hundred and seventy-five present and that the multitude relished the repast was witnessed by the pyramids of chicken bones and emptied cake dishes after the feed.

The local assembly is in a spirited membership contest with Oregon City assembly—and from the way the applications are being brought in here the village down the creek will have to wake up.

The gridiron pattern upon which Philadelphia was laid out was the work of Thomas Holme, the surveyor-general of Pennsylvania. The design, however, was Penn's own. Little seems to be popularly known of Thomas Holme, although some of his descendants still live in the city and bear his name, but it is said that all of his vast tract of land and his city lots have long since passed out of the possession of his family.
