M. W. A. MUST READJUST

that must eventually prove fatal, they will insist upon the adoption of rates and plans that will beyond question of doubt guarantee the protection of their beneficiaries. To reach any other conclusion would be to question the common sense, the honesty, even the sanity, of our membership.

Our members own and control the society. They elect, through county and state camps, the delegates to all head camps, who enact our laws and determine the rates to be collected from each member on each assessment. The members and their beneficiaries are the ones who will suffer, therefore, by the continuance of defective plans. It is inconceivable that they shall permit the infliction of future punishments on themselves and their innocent ben-efiaries, if once they are brought to realize the insecure character of their present protection and measures to make it secure are made known to them.

I submit that the council's whole duty is comprehended in calling the facts regarding the society's condition to the attention of the membership, and informing them fully with regard to remedies that may be applied. If, with full knowledge of their condition and given a choice of remedies, the neighbors fail to take or refuse to authorize action looking to their own full protection, they themselves will pay the penalty.

It is usually held to be a thankless task to save a man from himself; but the fact that a task would seem to be thankless will not justify an official evasion of duty. To fail to inform our members of the society's condition and to give them opportunity to apply remedies would, as I see it, be little short of an official crime. No matter how much we may be misunderstood and criticized, it is our duty to state the facts of record, to tell the whole truth.

The members of the council will recall that when this readjustment question was submitted to the neighbors in 1901-1903, a very considerable percentage seemed to favor the view—notwithstanding the council was obeying the instruction of the 1901 head camp—that the officers of the society had ulterior objects to serve in advocating the adoption of sound rates. Personally, I resented them and would resent now any suggestion of this kind. The officers of the society should be assailed and misrepresented for discharging their duty; and yet this is the kind of reception the truth on this great question of rate revision will receive from many neighbors. attempt is a matter of official duty, to save such members, or rather their beneficiaries, from the results of their own folly, is not only thankless but an irritating task. Nevertheless, if the society is to live and honorably meet its obligations, this must be done, and the council should take the initiative.

But it should be sufficient, I think, from the standpoint of official duty, to submit a plain recital of the exact conditions and a choice of carefully considered remedies, the acceptance of any of which will make for solvency and permanency. Then, if the neighbors give just plain, common-sense consideration to the question and select the remedy, well and good; if they do not, theirs will be the responsibility, and they will have the penalty to pay. I personally cannot help but believe that the great majority of our neighbors will endorse such upright official action and will prove equal to the emergency.

DIED FROM TOO MUCH SAUSAGE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—After mocking death in one of the most glorious and desperate adventures in the history of the American navy, Val F. Wilby, who helped Cushing blow up the Albemarle in 1864, is dead from the effects of eating sausages containing ptomaines. Wilby's wife also died from the same cause.
 The case has created a sensation because of the peculiar action of the coroner, whose physician says the two victims of spoiled meat died of heart disease and brain trouble, respectively.
 Shortly after eating some sausages on Wednesday of last week, both Wilby and his wife, who lived in Monrovia, became violently ill. Mrs.
 Wilby died in great agony, and local physicians ascribed her death to ptomaine poisoning. Wilby lingered for six days, and he too died.

THE TALBOT'S DIVORCE CASE

San Francisco, Jan. 22.—Nothing new developed in the Talbot divorce case today, with the exception that Judge Sewell decided that all evidence could be admitted within a period of two years before the suit was filed. He also ruled that because Talbot concealed his troubles it was no reason why he cannot bring them to light now.

Professor Z. L. Heilman, who instructed the millionaire's children to dance in 1901-2 and 3, testified that he had never seen Mrs. Talbot interlected. Dr. George B. Gere, who was also put on the stand by the defense, said that Mrs. Talbot was never under the influence of liquor, to his knowledge.

This testimony was brought up by the defense as a rebuttal for the testimony given by servants who, on the stand, swore that Mrs. Talbot consumed abnormal amounts of liquors practically every day.

Great Fire Raging.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 22.—What threatens to be the most destructive fire in the history of the city of Chelsea is raging this afternoon in the tenement district surrounding the rendering plant of John Lawlor, at Auburn and Maple streets. Hundreds of families are homeless, and it is feared that more than one body may be in the ruins. The East Boston fire department has been appealed to to send apparatus.

A number of tenement dwellers were overcome by smoke, but were rescued by firemen and neighbors.

DIED.

STEINBERG.—At the family home in East Salem, this, Wednesday, morning, Harry Steinberg, aged 18, of typhoid fever.
 The body will be shipped to Iowa for interment.

FROGLEY.—At his home, six miles north of Salem, Tuesday, January 21, Alfred W. Frogley, aged 58 years.

The deceased leaves a wife and one son and one daughter, all at home.
 The funeral services were conducted from the Rigdon undertaking parlors at 2:30 p. m. today. Interment in City View cemetery.

VENERABLE JOHN
 SAVAGE VERY ILL.
 The venerable John Savage, a well-known Oregon pioneer, is reported very low, and may not live through the day, according to the opinion of the attending physician.
 He makes his home with the family of a relative, Prince Byrne, near the state fair grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Carnes arrived in the city Monday from Astoria, where they had been visiting friends.
 Mr. Carnes will soon leave for northern points in the interest of his company, a large crockery establishment of the east.

PERSONAL MENTION

Rev. Sam Selwert of Portland is visiting friends and relatives in the city.

District Attorney John McNary was among those who went to Portland this morning.

Dr. Charles J. Korinek returned yesterday from Eugene where he transacted official business.

Hon. Henry Keen, of Shaw, after a short visit in the city, left this morning for Portland on business.

G. P. Terrell, of Mebama, is in the city. He has been to visit the soldiers' home at Roseburg and friends at Albany.

G. V. Boggs has commenced the erection of his new residence in Capital Park addition. The land was purchased from A. L. Lewis of Portland.

Elmer Pettingill, formerly of this city, more recently of Walla Walla, has gone to Kennett, California, where he has accepted a position as trap-drummer with a prominent orchestra.

Mrs. E. Hovenden, who has been visiting in the city, has returned to her home in Woodburn.

Miss Carolyn Gille, of Jefferson, is visiting her parents in the city.

Mrs. A. W. Prescott left yesterday for a two-weeks' visit to her sister in Seaside.

Mrs. F. Folsom has gone to Roseburg for a visit to relatives and friends.

Governor Chamberlain went to Portland last evening.

A. P. Aufrance, of Portland, is
 city.

Mrs. A. L. Berry has gone to La Grande to reside.

Forest Bell is the guest of friends in Albany.

Sheriff R. L. Stevens, of Portland, was in the city yesterday on business.

Harvey Skeels has returned from Addy, Washington, where he has been visiting friends and relatives.

Dr. William Rebbam, of Brownville, who has been visiting Salem friends for the past few days, left this morning for Portland on business. Dr. Rebbam is a graduate of the medical department of Willamette University. He will probably select a location to begin his practice in the Willamette valley.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENTS.

Been in the Harness Business Longer Than Any Man in Three States.

Mr. Lamport, the well-known harness maker of this city, is going to entirely remodel his place of business. The store occupies two stories, 22 feet wide and 165 feet deep, with a total floor area of 7260 square feet.
 When 1909 comes around Mr. Lamport will have been in business in Salem for 40 years. This will be a greater length of time than any other man has been in the harness business in either Idaho, Washington or Oregon. When the new store opens up it will be the finest of its kind in Oregon, outside of Portland. The stock of harness and buggies will be larger than ever.

Will Build Bridge—

After a conference with Mayor Rodgers this morning, it is reported that Manager Page, of the Portland General Electric, expressed his wil-lingsness to begin the work of building a car bridge over Mill creek on North Commercial street immediately. The bridge will probably be located just below the concrete structure.

Will Assist Old Willamette—

The business men of the city will meet this evening in the Board of Trade rooms for the purpose of devising means whereby the $15,000, which sum is required to bind other large donations, can be raised for Willamette University. This is a matter which means much, not only to Salem, but for the entire community and the Willamette valley, and will doubtless be met by the loyal citizens of the city in a business-like manner.
