A Desperate Chance.
A novelty is promised at the Grand Opera house next Monday, when Theodore Kremer's latest melodrama, "A Desperate Chance" will be presented.

Mr. Kremer has taken for the foundation of his story the exciting incidents surrounding the Biddle Brothers, and with this excellent material, has made a story full of heart interest, thrilling situations and novel climaxes. He has not made the Biddle Brothers heroes, but simply characters or types. Two young men called in the play Ed. and Jack Biddle, are discovered robbing a store, and in trying to escape, they murder the proprietor. When the detectives attempt to arrest them, one is killed, and for these two crimes they receive the death sentence. The elder brother, Ed., has a wonderful power over women and through this he persuades the warden's wife to aid them to escape, she going with them. After many thrilling adventures, they are recaptured, but not until the brothers have been mortally wounded. As soon as Ed. dies, the wife is released from the spell he exerted over her, and through her little daughter she is reunited to her husband.

All special scenery is carried by the company, and as the people engaged are among the best in the profession, an excellent evening's entertainment is assured. Seats on sale at box office Monday, January 27, at 9 a. m.

"The Gingerbread Man."
When Frederic Ranken and A. Bladwin Stone created the new fanciful fairytale, "The Gingerbread Man," they also created a new character in the mythical child world, Mrs. Santa Claus. In the play this character is portrayed in a spirit of delicious burlesque by Ross Snow, who has been seen as Fairy Queen, Dowager and feminine absurdities for a number of years. He is an awkward, stumbling, good-humored, comical Mrs. Santa, backed by a chorus of pretty girls dressed as good fairies. Marshmallow and Doughnut, the two sons of the Santa Claus family, cause their mother considerable trouble and furnish most of the genuine fun. Jack Horner, the Man from Our Town, Sallie Luna, Margery Daw, Simple Simon and other friends of our childhood, help to round out an enjoyable entertainment. "The Gingerbread Man" will be an early attraction here.

Amateur Night.
Don't forget that tonight is amateur night at the Klinger Grand—three entries—lots of fun—besides the regular performance of "On the Panhandle," a modern play which appeals to every one's heart that has ever lived in this western county—full of dramatic situations. A family show worthy the patronage of our best citizens. Bring the children. Matinee Saturday afternoon.

Want Theater Car—
The residents of Englewood will probably present Manager Page of the Portland General a petition in a few days to accommodate the people of that part of the city with a late car on theater evenings. One of the well-known business men who resides on the Garden Road, in speaking to a Journal reporter, said: "Our part of the city is growing very fast and we have a population at present which would furnish enough business on theater evenings to pay for holding a car for that service. We will probably get up a petition and present it to Manager Page soon asking that we be furnished a car on these evenings. The street car traffic at present is good on the Garden Road line, but should a late car be run to accommodate those wishing to attend the theater attractions the business on these evenings would be doubled. We feel sure that when we present these facts to Manager Page our petition will be granted."

Leg Broken While Beating His Way.
A man, who gave his name as Ed. Klundunde, was brought to Eugene Wednesday morning on the 12:32 south-bound overland with a broken leg. He says he climbed on the brakebeam of the north-bound flyer at this place and when about five miles from Albany, his leg dropped and struck the ground breaking it. He clung to his hold tenaciously until he arrived at Albany when the authorities there sent him back to Eugene. He was taken to the Eugene hospital where the leg was set by one of our local physicians and he will probably have to remain there until he can get around. Who will have to put up for the expense remains to be seen. The accident happened in Linn county.—Eugene Register.
