"A Desperate Chance."
The melodrama "A Desperate Chance" by Theodore Kremer, author of the "Fatal Wedding," "Power Behind the Throne" and other successes, will be the attraction at the Grand opera house tonight. Mr. Kremer has taken the play from incidents suggested by the exciting lives of the celebrated Biddis Brothers. While they are largely concerned in the plot, they are not made heroes nor held up as shining examples for the rising generation to emulate. They are rather types around which the story revolves. There is plenty of heart interest furnished by the wife of the warden, who, while under the spell of the strong personality of the elder brother, Ed, aids the criminals to escape, leaving home, husband and child and only recovering her senses after the brothers have been killed, as they are endeavoring to escape. The child is very prominent and is largely responsible for the reconciliation that eventually takes place between the warden and his wife. A complete scenic equipment is carried by the company, representing the actual locality in which the scenes occurred.

by Prince Caramel, the heir apparent to Bon Bon Land. He has a rival, although unaware of it, in the person of his father. Enter now the complications in which our old and always welcome friends of the nursery rhymes take part: Kris Kringle, Simple Simon, Peter Piper, Margery Daw, and Little Jack Horner. Jack has a love affair with Mazie Bon Bon, a confectioner's sales-girl, ostensibly but who is really the only daughter of King Sugar Plum. Through the machinations of one Machavelius Fudge, a dealer in black art and evil omens, Mazie and Jack Horner are separated. Jack invokes the aid of Carmelita, the god Fairy Queen, to restore Mazie to him. All the actions incident to this first act occur in Santa Claus Land. Fudge has, by the power of his art, restored to life a Gingerbread Man. He, too, joins in the search for Mazie. They are close upon her when Fudge appears in an airship, and bears her away to the Kingdom of Bunn Land, to where the Fairy and all the searchers give chase. The rival but beautiful kingdoms of Bon Bon Land and Pastryland are all aroused over the arrival of the strangers. Other characters introduced are "The Man From Our Town," "Taffy, Taffy," and "The Flery Dragon," and of course, the two kings. The Fairy Queen demonstrates that her powers for good are stronger than are those

A GREAT PHYSIOLOGIST

Once Said the Way to Keep the Stomach Healthy Is to Exercise It.

But He Did Not Tell How to Make It Healthy.

The muscles of the body can be developed by exercise until their strength has increased manifold, and a proper amount of training each day will accomplish this result, but it is somewhat doubtful whether you can increase the digestive powers of the stomach by eating indigestible food in order to force it to work.

Nature has furnished us all with a perfect set of organs, and if they are not abused they will attend to the business required of them. They need no abnormal strength.

There is a limit to the weight a man can lift, and there is also a limit to what the stomach can do.

The cause of dyspepsia, indigestion and many affiliated diseases is that the stomach has been exercised too much and it is tired or worn out, not exercise but rest is what it needs.

To take something into the stomach that will relieve it from its work for a short time—something to digest the food—will give it a rest and allow it time to regain its strength.

The proper aid to the digestive organs is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which cure dyspepsia, indigestion, gas on the stomach and bowels, heartburn, flatulation of the heart, and all stomach diseases.

Rest and invigoration is what the stomach gets when you use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, for one grain of the active principle in them is sufficient to digest 3000 grain of food.

The Tablets increase the flow of gastric juice, and prevent fermentation, acidity and sour eructations.

Do not attempt to starve out dyspepsia. You need all your strength.

The common sense method is to digest the food for the stomach and give it a rest.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not make the cure, but enables the organs to throw off unhealthy conditions.

Perfect digestion means perfect health, for under these conditions only do the different organs of the body work right and receive the building-up material found in pure food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a natural remedy and is a specific for stomach troubles. The ablest physicians prescribe them.

The Tablets are pleasant to the taste, and are composed of fruit and vegetable extracts, golden seal and pepsin.

LICENSE TAX

SUIT OVER DOGS

Has Been Settled and the Matter of a Judicious Dog License Ordinance Is Now Up To the City Council

City Attorney Keyes and Webster Holmes, counsel for A. Smith, went before the supreme court and agreed to dismiss the appeal pending in the dog license case of Smith vs. the city of Salem and W. W. Johnson and allow the ordinance to be placed in force pending the adoption by the city fathers of a new license which if adopted will appeal ordinance No. 490.

Upon stipulation a decree of the supreme court was therefore given dissolving the restraining order and decree of injunction in the circuit court of Marion county in the suit of A. Smith, respondent, vs. the city of Salem and W. W. Johnson, as poundmaster of said city, appellants.

The order so far as any restraining features are concerned set aside and annulled the decree of the circuit court and placed ordinance 490 providing for a dog license and for the collection of the same in force.

It was further ordered that the plaintiff have and recover and from defendant and appellant his costs and disbursements in the court below.

History of the Case.

A. Smith in August, 1906, filed a complaint in department No. 2 of the Marion county circuit court asking for an order restraining the city of Salem and W. W. Johnson, acting as poundmaster, from collecting the license tax on dogs as provided in ordinance 490, passed July 16, 1906.

The matter coming before Judge Scott on the second day of August, 1906, a restraining order was rendered pending further order of the court.

A demurrer was filed on August 11, 1906, by City Attorney Condit.

On the 25th day of Sept., 1906, Judge Galloway ruled that the demurrer should be sustained and the plaintiff should have until Sept. 28 to serve amended complaint. An amended complaint was filed by the plaintiff on Sept. 27, 1906, and the demurrer to the same was filed on the second day of Oct., 1906.

On Oct. 30, 1906, the court overruled the demurrer to the amended complaint and gave the defendant ten days in which to plead. The defense wishing to stand on the demurrer refused to further plead and on the 10th of Nov., a decree was given making the restraining order. The plaintiff was given authority to collect $21.25, the costs against the city.

To this ruling Attorney Condit, for the city, appealed to the supreme court. The appeal being in equity Smith filed the first brief under the rules. Smith made default and it became incumbent upon the city to file a brief within 20 days after such default. City Attorney Condit obtained an extension of time in which to file the brief but that time has long since expired and no brief has ever been filed. Notwithstanding the default of Smith, the proceedings being a suit in equity would have to be tried in the supreme court.

Points for the Dogs.

The ordinance, No. 490, was attacked on the grounds that the charter as amended does not confer any power or authority upon the city to license dogs nor enforce any regulations with reference to the same whatever as provided in the ordinance.

That the ordinance is void in that it provides an unreasonable, arbitrary and oppressive manner in which female dogs must be kept and cared for violating the right of full enjoyment of private property.

That there are a great many dogs owned in the city and that they are of unequal value.

That the ordinance attempts to levy a license tax upon said animals in the city of the uniform price of, for male dogs over 4 months $3 a piece, and for unspayed females of the uniform tax of $5 a piece.

That the license tax is therefore unequal owing to the difference in value.

Provided Prison for Debt.

The ordinance also was objected to on the grounds that it provided as follows: "Any persons violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof before the city recorder be punished by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $40 and in default of the payment of any such fine shall be imprisoned in the city jail one day for each $2 of such fine," which is unconstitutional in that no person shall be imprisoned for a debt.

O. R. & N. ENGINEERS TO HAVE MORE PAY

Enginemmen on the Harriman lines of the northwest are said to be awaiting with considerable concern the outcome of a meeting to be held by the management of the various roads in the system at San Francisco in a few days.

General Superintendent M. J. Buckley of the Harriman lines in Oregon will be present at the conference, which has as its object the definite announcement of an increase of wages of the engineers and firemen, says a Portland paper.

The matter came up late last year at a meeting at which there was present general representatives of all the lines west of Chicago, and at that time it was decided that the enginemmen were entitled to more pay, but the exact amount and other details were not fixed upon.

Other meetings have been held since then and the time now seems about ripe for the reward that the men have been waiting so long for.
