

COULDN'T MOVE ARMS OR LEGS

A Detroit Contractor, Believed to Be Dying of Rheumatism, Cared by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There are thousands of people suffering every day from rheumatism who are not being cured. Some continue to suffer because their doctors have said their cases were chronic and incurable. Others have tried many remedies without relief and have become discouraged. The patient who has not tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has neglected a remedy for rheumatism that has accomplished thousands of cures. It is not a theory nor an experiment. The cures are a matter of record and capable of proof.

St. George M. Glading, a contractor, of 16 Dumontier street, Detroit, Mich., and a member of the Modern Woodmen of America, Camp 957, of Chicago, is certain that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved his life. He says: "In my younger days I was in charge of men getting out timber in northern Michigan and was exposed to all kinds of weather and for years had never spared myself from work. As a result of this and stomach trouble, I was completely run down during the spring of 1905 and fell an easy victim to an attack of rheumatism. I had the services of two doctors in Detroit, who after attending me for several months, said I could never get well. At this time I was helpless, my entire body seemed to be paralyzed and I couldn't move my arms or legs.

"The doctors advised me to go to my old home in Custer, where I could be cared for during the remaining few days or weeks I had left. My lodge met me and I went home, where I had a nurse and employed our family physician to give me what aid he could, although I agreed with the doctors of Detroit, that I could not live.

"As I lay in bed I thought there must be something radically wrong with the treatment I was getting. I had no desire to quit life at my age and decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I had heard some doctors say they had used. I bought six dozen boxes and commenced to take them at once, following the directions in every particular. For two weeks it was a life and death struggle, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills finally won, for I began to have some feeling in my legs. After using the pills steadily for six weeks I could walk across the room and six weeks later was able to do light work. My friends and neighbors were dumbfounded at my recovery. That was nearly four years ago and today I am employing more men than I used to and am working longer and harder than any of them. I have great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and take pleasure in recommending them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new blood, enabling it to carry strength to the weak nerves and other tissues of the body. They are a specific for such blood diseases as anemia, rheumatism, the after-effects of the grip and fevers, and such nervous diseases as dizziness, sick headaches, neuralgia and accomplished miraculous results even in partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold at all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Lowell, Mass., N. Y.

THE EVERGREEN BLACKBERRY

The Oregon Evergreen is the best and most profitable blackberry for garden cultivation. It grows to perfection in Oregon and Washington and is getting pretty well scattered over the mountains and foothills of the Puget sound basin. The plant is true to name in that its leaves remain green throughout the winter and there is never a season when the branches are bare. It produces wonderful crops of berries and continues to put out blossoms and mature fruits until late in the autumn. The fruit is of a semi-wild flavor and so solid that it can be shipped for a thousand miles and placed on the market in a fresh condition.

Where the plant originated is one of the unsolved problems. One story is to the effect that a missionary discovered the fruit growing in the Samoan islands and carried plants to the Willamette valley of Oregon and set them in a garden. From that beginning the plants have been distributed over the Pacific coast region. But another theory is that the vines are native to the rainy districts of the Puget sound country. It is claimed that the first cultivated berries were grown in Puyallup, Washington. The originator picked fruits from his first three vines for a quarter of a century. He stated before his death that he had clearly demonstrated that the blackberry would return one thousand dollars an acre every year.

The evergreen berry has been the making of two thrifty towns in the Puyallup valley. Its fruits are plucked from nearly one thousand individual patches and shipped in carload lots to the cities of the intermountain region. The surplus is handled by two large canneries and the demand for the berries increases every year. There is no doubt but that the berry will become a general crop in many sections of the country. It begins bearing after three years from planting and continues for many years. There is nothing mysterious about the plant or its fruits. It requires no particular care in transplanting or cultivation. Many fine clusters of the berries may be found in the woods and secluded spots of the western slope of the Cascades and on the foothills of the Olympic mountains.—The Westerner.

A Cure for Misery.
"I have found a cure for the misery malaria poison produces," says R. M. James, of Lowell, S. C. "It's called Electric Bitters, and comes in 50 cent bottles. It breaks up a case of chills or a bilious attack in almost no time; and it puts yellow jaundice clean out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of lame back. Sold under guarantee at J. C. Perry's drug store.

Suit Over Real Estate.
J. L. Smith, J. M. Smith and May Hunter are the plaintiffs in an action which has been filed in department No. 2 against Elizabeth C. Whiting to gain possession of a certain portion of land in the N. E. 1/4 of Sec. 18, T. 7 S., R. 2 E.

The plaintiffs set forth that they are three of the nine children, and heirs at law of J. M. Smith, deceased, who died in 1898, and that in 1893 the defendant unlawfully entered upon the premises and ousted the plaintiffs from the possession which has damaged the said plaintiffs to the amount of $100, which is asked in addition to the possession of the property.

$1,000 Pile Cure.
A Thousand Dollar Guarantee goes with every bottle of Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid—the only certain cure for every form of Piles.

George Cook, St. Thomas, Ont., writes: "Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cured me of a very bad case of Piles of over ten years standing. I had tried everything but got no permanent cure till I used Hem-Roid. I had Blind and Bleeding Piles and suffered everything. Ointments and local treatments failed, but Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cured me perfectly."

Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally which removes the cause of Piles. $1.00 at druggists. Dr. Leonhardt Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y., Proprietors. Sold by Dr. S. C. Stone, Salem.

His Failing.
"What an exasperating old cuss Hewliggs is in the matter of borrowing money!"

"Why, I thought he was well fixed. I didn't suppose he ever had occasion to borrow money."

"Great Scott! He doesn't. What I mean is that it's exasperating to get turned down every time you try to borrow from him."—Chicago Tribune.

PORTLAND BETTER THAN JAMESTOWN

Paid Attendance at Western Show Larger than at Eastern One—Comparison of Admission Indicates That Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition Will Be Big Success.

Seattle, Jan. 30. (Special Correspondence)—That a successful exposition can be held on the Pacific coast, that the Yukon-Pacific Exposition, which will be held at Seattle in 1909, has every chance of being an artistic, educational and financial success, is indicated by the comparison of the attendance figures of the Lewis & Clark Exposition held at Portland, Oregon, in 1905 with those of the Jamestown exhibition held at Norfolk, Virginia, in 1907.

The official statement of admissions of the Jamestown exposition for the exposition period shows a total of 2,844,452 people who clicked the turnstiles. Portland's total attendance was 2,554,848, or 289,604 less than Jamestown's. But Portland's paid admissions were 1,588,858 against Jamestown's 1,404,409, or 181,449 more. Portland only had 965,990 free admissions, whereas Jamestown had 1,443,043.

When the size, cost and population of the surrounding country in which the two expositions were held, are taken into consideration, it can be easily seen how successful the western exposition was over the eastern one. Portland was a comparatively small world's fair as compared to Chicago, and St. Louis, yet it drew about 120,000 persons from east of the Rock Mountains. Principally, most of these people came west to see the country and incidentally the Lewis and Clark show, which was the magnet. The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition will have the same drawing card behind it. The cost of the Portland exposition was far less than that of Jamestown. The government building and exhibit at Portland were valued at about $800,000. The government spent about $2,600,000 at Jamestown.

The most startling thing about the success of the Lewis and Clark exposition was the fact that it only had about 1,800,000 people within a radius of 500 miles from which to draw its attendance, whereas Jamestown within a radius of 525 miles had about 39,000,000 people. Also Portland ran for only four and a half months, while Jamestown was open for seven months.

Portland was able to pay back 20 per cent to its stockholders and was entirely out of debt by the middle of the exposition. Jamestown will not pay back anything and is hopelessly in debt to the United States government.

The management of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition figures conservatively, from the example set by Portland, that the paid attendance at the 1909 fair will reach 2,500,000 which will make it one of, if not the most, successful expositions ever held.

Noah was the founder of indigestion—He forgot to leave the pigs ashore

The American people in consequence have ever since been victims of lard-cooked food and indigestion.

Lard soaked food is not fit for human stomachs because lard is made from greasy, indigestible hog fat, and is bound, sooner or later, to make trouble for your inner machinery.

Cottolene is the only rational, national shortening. It is a pure vegetable product, and its source (the cotton fields of the Sunny South) is in striking contrast to the source of lard (the pig-sty).

Cottolene makes food that any stomach can digest—palatable, nutritious and healthful. If American housewives but knew the superiority of Cottolene over lard, both from a practical and health standpoint, lard would never again enter any well-regulated kitchen.

Cottolene is Guaranteed We hereby authorize your grocer to refund your money in case you're not pleased after having given COTTOLENE a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk COTTOLENE is packed in pails with a patent air-tight top, to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome; also to prevent it from absorbing the disagreeable odors of the grocery, such as fish, oil, etc.

A GREAT PHYSIOLOGIST

Once Said the Way to Keep the Stomach Healthy Is to Exercise It. But He Did Not Tell How to Make It Healthy.

The muscles of the body can be developed by exercise until their strength has increased manifold, and a proper amount of training each day will accomplish this result, but it is somewhat doubtful whether you can increase the digestive powers of the stomach by eating indigestible food in order to force it to work.

Nature has furnished us all with a perfect set of organs, and if they are not abused they will attend to the business required of them. They need no abnormal strength.

There is a limit to the weight a man can lift, and there is also a limit to what the stomach can do.

The cause of dyspepsia, indigestion and many affliated diseases is that the stomach has been exercised too much and it is tired or worn out, not exercise but rest is what it needs.

To take something into the stomach that will relieve it from its work for a short time—something to digest the food—will give it a rest and allow it time to regain its strength.

The proper aid to the digestive organs is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which cure dyspepsia, indigestion, gas on the stomach and bowels, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, and all stomach diseases.

Rest and invigoration is what the stomach gets when you use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, for one grain of the active principle in them is sufficient to digest 3000 grain of food.

The Tablets increase the flow of gastric juice, and prevent fermentation, acidity and sour eructations.

Do not attempt to starve out dyspepsia. You need all your strength. The common sense method is to digest the food for the stomach and give it a rest.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not make the cure, but enables the organs to throw off unhealthy conditions.

Perfect digestion means perfect health, for under these conditions only do the different organs of the body work right and receive the building-up material found in pure blood.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a natural remedy and is a specific for stomach troubles. The ablest physicians prescribe them.

The Tablets are pleasant to the taste, and are composed of fruit and vegetable extracts, golden seal and pepsin.
