Chicago, March 2.—Chief of Police Shippy was stabbed twice in the arm; his driver, James Foley, shot and son fatally wounded and an unknown man was killed by the chief in an attack made by a supposed member of the "black hand" society at the Shippy home this morning.

Harry Shippy, the chief's son, was shot twice in the breast, when he answered the door bell, and will die.

Foley, on hearing the shooting, rushed to the boy's aid, and received a bullet in the hand. He was taken to the hospital, where his wound was dressed.

Chief Shippy, who was preparing to go to his office at Central police headquarters, rushed into the hall, and was stabbed twice before he shot and killed the assailant.

Chief of Police Shippy has made himself very unpopular with the anarchistic elements of Chicago society by his attitude toward the organization, and his strict enforcement of the law in regard to openair meetings and parades. His order forbidding Ben Reichman, the king of tramps, from holding his widely advertised parade last month, and his subsequent action in arresting Reichman, made him objectionable to the "reds."

This feeling was further intensified when he issued an order during last week in which he required every known "red" to leave the city within a few hours, or be subject to arrest. It was the order that is supposed to have aroused the anger of the "black hands" and caused the attempted assassination.

More Details of Attack.

Chief of Police George M. Shippy was attacked at his home, 31 Lincoln court, at 9:15 a. m. this morning. He was stabbed in the right arm. The assailant, evidently an Italian, was shot through the right temple and instantly killed by the chief.

Mrs. Shippy, who witnessed part of the tragedy, which started on the steps of the chief's home, was prostrated, but managed to call up North Halstead street station, a short distance away before she fainted.

Harry Shippy, 19 years old, the chief's son, was probably fatally shot by the man. He was hurried to Augustina Hospital and immediately operated upon, but the surgeons have little hope for his recovery.

Chief Shippy and Foley were also taken to that hospital.

Chief Shippy had ordered his buggy, and was about to start to his office. His driver, Foley, entered the house while the chief was putting on an overcoat. A moment later the door bell rang and a dark complexioned man about 40 years of age, forced his way to a front room.

Paterson, N. J., March 2.—Thousands of people who were not able to crowd their way into the Church of Saint Bonaventura stood in the rain for hours today that they might catch a fleeting glimpse of the coffin containing the remains of Father Leo Heinrichs, the priest killed by the anarchist, Allo, at Denver while the priest was giving communion.

The last services over the body of the martyred priest were impressive and solemn. Garbed in the robes of his ecclesiastical rank and guarded in his last sleep with all the reverent vigilance that the ritual of the Catholic church demands for one of his churchly station, and gazed up by thousands who were able to crowd softly past the recumbent figure, all that was mortal of Father Leo Heinrichs lay in state in his old church today. The funeral services were conducted simply, with all the rites that the church he died for commands for him as his last due.

Father Blake celebrated the mass. Father McNulty delivered the eulogy. Fifty priests of the diocese, headed by Bishop O'Connor, of Newark, were present.

During the morning hours there were rumors about that another anarchistic outrage was expected at the church today, but no disturbance occurred. Precautions were taken, however, to see that the services passed off peacefully, and an extra detail of police were on hand.

There were no demonstrations on the part of the crowds, and when the hearse wheeled away the thousands that had waited about the church during the services slowly formed in to a long procession and followed the body to the cemetery. Hundreds lined the streets as the procession passed through the city.

WOODBURN CANNERY IS INCORPORATED.

A canning company with a capital of $15,000 has been started by several prominent Woodburn men. The company, which is known as the Woodburn Canning Company, filed articles of incorporation with the county clerk this morning. These articles state that the concern will carry on a general fruit and vegetable business. The owners and directors of the new concern are Henry J. Altman, W. A. Roberts, George Federling, J. C. Young and J. C. Wageman.

Frank Smith left for Portland this morning to attend to business matters.

The Marion county Republicans will have a "get together" March 14.

Spokane, Wash., March 2.—The Sunday closing campaign has started in earnest today by the filing of complaints against 32 proprietors for keeping open. Among these complaints making charges against a morning paper and all the theaters. The complainants are Jewish storekeepers, who were arrested some time ago by the Clerks' Union. The warrants will be issued this afternoon.

Saloons closed here on Sunday some time ago, but the authorities made no effort to extend the closing to the legal limit. Drug stores have since been handling various lines of merchandise and dealers are retreating by nailing down the lid tight. The defendants will make a test of the state law.

SEVENTEEN YEAR OLD LUCRETIA

Clinton, Ia., March 2.—Fred Dolph, 26 years old, was murdered in bed last night, and the police have arrested his 17-year-old wife, and charged her with her husband's death. Jealousy is supposed to have been the motive. The young couple were married a year ago, and it is said they frequently quarreled.

The child wife sits in her cell in the local police station, dry-eyed, close-lipped. She refuses to talk or to see anyone. The police have examined her, but have gained nothing. They assert that they have damning evidence against her.

CASTRO MAY COME TO GRIEF

Washington, March 2.—The administration is preparing to bring considerable pressure upon Venezuela and President Castro to compel him to deal justly with American citizens' interests in Venezuelan properties. The complaints of the various asphalt companies are the chief basis of complaint.

Albany is justly proud of good big payrolls.

Chicago, March 2.—The second attempt to wrest the Illinois Central from the grasp of E. H. Harriman was balked today when Judge Ball denied the motion of Henry Leman, an attorney for Fish, and Leman's petition praying that an injunction be granted preventing the voting of the Illinois Central stock held by the Union Pacific in the annual election of the road's officers today, was not allowed. Stockholders of the railroad met today, but postponed any action until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in order to give the proxy committee time to verify its records.

FOUR MEN AGAINST GRIFFITH

Dunbar Case for Fees as Attorney-General Goes Over a Day.

Franklin T. Griffith, the well-known, clever and adroit attorney, for the Portland Electric Light & Power Company, from Oregon City, found himself matched this afternoon, when he took up the case of his company against the railroad commission against—to say the least—a larger array of counsel for the state body than he expected. Headed by Attorney-General Crawford, the counsel for the state were: Gilmer & Sewell, of Portland, and C. B. Aitchison, who, in addition to being a member of the railroad commission, appeared as counsel for the commission.

The attorneys on both sides submitted oral arguments to Judge Galloway, Griffith contending that the rates of the commission for fare from Milwaukie and Oak Grove to First and Alder streets were unreasonable, while the state's counsel claimed that the rates were very reasonable.

Dunbar Case Goes Over.

The trial of former Secretary of State F. I. Dunbar, on the charge of illegally collecting fees while in office, which was to have been heard before Judge Galloway this afternoon, was continued, owing to the extended hearing of the suit of the Portland Electric Light & Power Company against the Railroad Commission.
