SENATOR BROWNELL CLEARED

Brownell by telegraphing instructions to have the indictments dismissed. This act toward Brownell is no surprise, since it has long been known Heney would not prosecute the former political dictator of Clackamas county, the first announcement to this effect being published in the Telegram.

In his telegram, which by the way was sent to W. C. Bristol two weeks ago, Heney says that "Brownell is entitled to this action on account of evidence which he has secured for the government in one case and testimony which he has already given on behalf of the government in another case, and by evidence which he has promised to give whenever called upon to do so in other cases."

Brownell was indicted for subornation of perjury in regard to field notes on a surveying contract. During the John H. Hall trial, when Brownell testified, it was the desire of Heney to place ex-United States Surveyor-General Henry Meldrum on the stand to testify that he had forged Brownell's name to the field notes. As Meldrum is now serving a sentence at McNeill's Island, he was not permitted to go on the stand and make his confession. In private, however, Meldrum confessed to Heney, and Brownell has a written confession. Brownell has been under indictment for three years, and the cloud which hung over him eliminated him from the political field in the county in which he formerly controlled.

This is the telegram which Heney sent Bristol March 11, from San Francisco:

"Attorney-General Bonaparte has authorized me to dismiss both indictments for subornation of perjury now pending against Brownell, if I deem it advisable. Please make motion in my name and by authority of this telegram in the court in which said indictments are pending, to dismiss each of them, upon ground that I am satisfied George C. Brownell did not write the signatures purporting to be his in surveying contracts, which were under investigation before grand jury when alleged subornation of perjury was committed by Brownell, and upon ground that for this reason in my opinion would not be possible in the subornation of perjury cases, and upon further ground that Brownell is entitled to this action on account of evidence which he has secured for the government in one case and testimony which he has already given on behalf of the government in another case, and by other evidence which he has promised to give whenever called upon to do so in other cases."

Brownell's Statement.

"I desire to state that I was charged in the indictment with having suborned John A. Howland and Fred Slevers on January 10, 1905, in Oregon City, to go before the federal grand jury and testify relating to some signatures to field notes of a government survey, which appeared on the surface to have been made before me as a notary public.

"The facts are that these signatures were never made by Howland and Slevers, as Henry Meldrum, surveyor-general, has since admitted that he made them himself and also signed my name as a notary public to these field notes.

"The grand jury had these two men, Howland and Slevers, before it, according to my indictment, on January 15, 1905. The indictment charges that I suborned them on January 10, 1905, so there can be no mistake that the date set up in the indictment meant January 10, and no other time. On January 9, 1905, I called the state senate to order at Salem, and presided all day; on January 10, in the morning, I called the senate together and presided all that day until 4 o'clock in the afternoon; I was in the senate all day on Wednesday, January 11, and could not have been, as the trains then ran, in Oregon City, 37 miles away, on January 10.

"The facts are, in addition, that I have a written confession signed by John A. Howland, dated March 26, 1906, in which he positively states under oath, that I never mentioned the subject to him or asked him or even knew that he was going before the federal grand jury. In addition, I shall ask all fair-minded men what motive I could have had in suborning these men, for the reason that these field notes showed on their face that they had been acknowledged December 17, 1901, and more than three years had elapsed on January 10, 1905 when I was charged with having suborned these men.

"The forman of that grand jury was W. H. H. Wade, a resident of Clackamas county, and a personal and political enemy of mine for many years."

TRAMP SECURED

A SUGAR CURED HAM

A tramp with a palate for cured pork, made a get-away with a fine cured ham from the grocery store of Weller Bros., 155 Commercial street, at 7 o'clock this morning. The clerk, opening the store this morning, was astonished to see a burly hobo coolly walk up to the exhibit just laid out in the front of the shop, coolly glance over the supply, pick up the best ham he could find, and then quickly disappear down the street, before the astonished shop-keeper could collect his sense sufficiently to take after him or call for assistance. The theft was made before several witnesses, and the man's description has been furnished to Chief Gibson, who believes he will have him in custody before nightfall.

society folk that the separation has become permanent.

PLENTY OF HOUSES

TO BE HAD AT SALEM.

Persons who have the impression that houses are scarce at Salem are mistaken. There are houses for rent in various parts of the city, and scores of new buildings are being built. The demand is stronger than ever before for dwellings on account of the large influx of new people, but there are more new dwellings going up than ever before at this season of the year. No one should be kept away from this city at this time of the year on account of the scarcity of dwellings. Tents are easily procured, and can be used for shelter until houses can be built. Some families are living in tents now, and more can be accommodated in that way.

Milt Miller of Lebanon has come out for Statement No. 1. Shows his natural goodness of heart and he will probably have to vote for a Republican for United States senator.

Bought Fine Teams—

Wm. Frazier, of Portland, was in the city today and bought a very fine team of Wm. Taylor and Tom Trice for $500, through Skipton & Cornelius. He also bought a team of the latter gentlemen, at a price not named.

Good for Everybody.

Mr. Norman R. Coulter, a prominent architect, in the Delbert building, San Francisco, says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. It corrects stomach, liver and kidney disorders in a prompt and efficient manner and builds up the system." Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequalled; 50c at J. C. Perry's drug store.

Plot Against President.

San Francisco, March 25.—The police here believe that they have snipped in the bud a brewing scheme for the assassination of President Roosevelt.

Today Detective Rocca arrested Paul Bignami, a self-styled king of the anarchists, who is held on a charge of having advocated the blowing up of the battleship fleet upon its arrival here, and having declared that President Roosevelt should be shot. The officers are running down both charges, and say they have made a valuable catch.

Bignami came here from New Orleans, and has been well supplied with funds. It is believed that he was to have met Emma Goldman, who is due here in a few days, for the purpose of effecting a closer organization of the "reds."
