UNDISCLOSED ROYAL SECRETS

...now, more than ever, turn their eyes toward Japanese Consul Koike, who, they believe, is the author of the more or less intangible document, signed by the president of state of Korea, set forth the great progress that it claims the hermit kingdom has made since the little brown man was its protector. The repeated claims by the Japanese consul that Ambassador Stevens had any document with him, and that the consul, cannot now be a resident, have had no deterrent on the Koreans in their desire to secure possession of this very important paper, or to prevent its presentation to Ambassador Takahira, and President Roosevelt and his staff. Nothing can convince the Koreans that this document does not exist and that it is not the intention of the Japanese representatives in Seoul to present it to the Koreans, as well as the Japanese agents at work, the consul watching every movement of the members of the consulate, and gathering data that will add them in suppressing only the revolutionary movement in this country, but will be of assistance in putting to complete the leaders of the prop...

the consulate taking precautions against possible violence, but they are throwing the utmost secrecy about their plans. The Koreans believe that Koike is preparing to go to Washington at an early date to make a report on the revolutionary movement to Ambassador Takahira, and to deliver to him the papers that Stevens is believed to have brought from the Orient. For this reason a close watch is being kept on the consul's movements, and should he attempt to leave the city there is little doubt that the Korean spies will not be far behind him, prepared to adopt any measure to frustrate his plans.

The assassin, Chang, sat in his cell this morning, displaying the same fatalistic calm that has marked his demeanor since he fired the shots that ended the life of Stevens. Fully realizing that nothing can save him from the gallows, Chang makes no effort to condone his crime. With Oriental stolidity he says to his visitor: "I shot to kill."

Fearing that poison may be sent to the prisoner, his guards are closely watching all visitors.

It is expected that a formal charge of murder will be placed against Chang today, and a date set for the holding of an inquest in the death of Stevens.

The Koreans are rallying to the support of Chang and Chun, and a fund is being raised for their defense.

Stevens' body was removed to the morgue today. There are no relatives in this city, but the dead man left a brother and sister in the East. On Stevens' finger was found a wedding ring on which was engraved the following motto: "Life has joined. Death will not separate. Durham White Stevens, July 17, 1887."

The body will be held pending word from the East, upon the arrival of which the Japanese consulate will probably make arrangements for the funeral.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

LAW PREVENTS RATE TO SEE FLEET.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Chicago, March 26.—Owing to the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit the roads in the Trans-Continental Passenger Association to put excursion rates into effect to the Pacific coast on April 5, they have been obliged to cancel the rates and arrangements announced for persons expecting to go to San Francisco to see the fleet. The ground for the refusal are that the required 30 days' notice was not given.

MARRIED FOR WEALTH SUED BY HIS TAILOR

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, March 26.—Within a few days Duc de Chauines, who recently married Theodora Shonts, will be summoned to court to answer to a suit started against him by Joseph Cavanaugh, a London tailor, who claims he has not been paid for $1345 worth of clothes made for the nobleman.

Cavanaugh has sued for $2000, the difference being interest which the complainant also asks. Counsel for the defendant is trying to have the service of the summons set aside on the ground that Baron Louis de Conde, mistaken for de Chauines, was served with a summons recently at the Shonts home. Many conflicting affidavits have been filed, and the court has the case under advisement.

WYOMING BAD MAN GIVEN SHORT RATIONS

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Reno, Nev., March 26.—A special to the Journal from Winnemucca says:

W. F. Armstrong, a so-called "bad man" from Wyoming, was shot and instantly killed in the Palace saloon at this place by W. H. Carter, one of the partners. Bye-witnesses say the shooting was in self-defense. Armstrong and two friends walked into the saloon and commenced gambling. While so occupied Armstrong accused an employe of stealing his money, and, pulling a gun, threatened to kill anyone in the house. "Put up that gun," said Carter. With that Armstrong swung around and said, "I'll kill you." Carter then drew his revolver and fired. Armstrong fell to the floor dead. Carter gave himself up.

W. H. Carter is one of the most widely known saloon keepers along the coast. At one time he owned a big saloon and gambling house in Seattle, called the "Totem." For several years he operated a ranch in Southern Oregon. Later he went to California and Nevada. Before coming to the coast he acquired a reputation for daring in the "short grass" country of the Central West.

ITALIAN BANKING METHODS

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, March 26.—The most remarkable notice of a suspension ever posted was affixed to the window of Patti's bank today after the doors were closed yesterday. It read as follows:

"The clientele of this bank is asked to be calm. The banker, Pasquale Patti, has been obliged to absent himself to protect his existence and his family. He had been molested and threatened, and will be back soon."

An organized gang of alleged blackmailers and murderers has succeeded in closing two banks in "Little Italy," and driving Patti, who is a millionaire, from the city. Patti is known as the "J. P. Morgan of Little Italy." He was acquitted by a coroner's jury yesterday of the murder of Francesco Palatre, who tried to rob the bank.

Now the gang of which Palatre was a member has forced the banker to flee, and by organizing a run on the bank on Elizabeth street, compelled it to suspend.
