LITTLE GIRLS—14 years and under, remember our ad clipping contest. The little girl cutting out from our ad the largest number of Bucks stove and range trademarks will be awarded the Bucks Junior range now on display in our south window.

All ads must be turned in not later than the week following their publication. Do not carry one over. Get all the assistance you possibly can. This contest is causing a great deal of enthusiasm, so all must work very industriously.

Correction Announcement

We beg to announce for the management of Buren & Hamilton in connection with their ad clipping contest for little girls for the Buck's Junior Range, a mistake was made by saying cut out the Buck's Stove and Range trademarks instead of, as the rules formerly read, cut out the whole ad.

DURABLE DANE VS ABE ATTELL

California Lightweight to Meet Chicago Puncher in the Ring April 11.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, March 27.—With their battle but four days away, Battling Nelson and Abe Attell, who are scheduled to meet in a 15-round bout on the night of March 31, are training as though their lives depended on the outcome of the affair.

The durable Dane has not trained so hard for a fight since his memorable encounter with Joe Gans at Goldfield. Nelson fully realizes that he must make good next Tuesday night, as another reverse means back to Hegewisch for him.

Appreciating Attell's cleverness and style so well, the battler is preparing himself for a fast battle, and an aggressive one. Aggressiveness is his chief stock in trade, but he plans to trot out an even fuller line than usual in his coming engagement.

If his training stunts are a safe criterion, it is his plan to keep on top of Attell from the opening gong to the finish, thus preventing the featherweight champion from bringing his wonderful cleverness into play. It is his only chance, as he knows that to permit the little Hebrew will-o-the-wisp to make a stand off battle of it would mean the cashing of Attell's bets. Nelson has developed a slight cold, but says he will be rid of it before he steps into the ring. He will make the weight, 132 pound, handily. His condition could not be better.

Attell has given it out that he intends to slug with Nelson, that he will meet the Dane at every point, and give him no rest. Whether the champion is rugged enough to carry out this plan of campaign remains to be seen, but he is quite a fox, and not in the habit of telling all he knows, and it is more than likely that he will not frame up a plan of battle until he has gone a round or two with Nelson.

He knows the Dane's style of fighting, having trained him for his battle with Ueholz, and feels that he can outwit Nelson at any sort of a game. Attell is in grand condition, and will enter the ring weighing about 124 pounds.

Chicago's Lightweight.

Packey McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, who meets Jimmy Britt at Colma on the afternoon of April 11, has settled down to the hard grind, and from now until the day of the battle will leave nothing undone to put himself into the best possible condition. In his first real training bout with the gloves McFarland surprised the old-timers with his balance and precision. He lands with lightning-like rapidity from any position, either set or on the move, and there is force in every punch. In the matter of speed he is fully the equal of the native son, and probably has it on Britt in punching ability. The impression he has made is so good that it is not likely that he will be better than 10 to 8 favorite. Britt is training carefully for the fight, and is confident that his cleverness will carry him to victory. The Californian has little weight reducing to do, and therefore is paying more attention to building up his strength and improving his speed than to cutting down his poundage.

ALLOHA PUT ON THE STAGE

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Honolulu, March 27.—Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the American authoress, and Alexander Hume Ford will shortly collaborate on a play which will tell the story of Hawaii on the stage. This much has been decided upon by them at a conference held here recently.

Some of the broader outlines of the plot have already been planned. The working of the scenario and the writing of the play as a prose composition is to be undertaken by Ford. Mrs. Wilcox will then put it into poetry. The Hawaiian characters will speak in rhymed verse, and the white characters in blank verse.

PUBLICITY WORK

$100 to $1000 for fruit farms. The valley has as yet no $1000 fruit farms. When more of the lumber business of the United States moves the virgin forests of Oregon when the various mines get shipping facilities so they can operate at profit, when industry, manufacture and users of power turn to the water powers to be had for the asking, the fruit growers of Oregon wonder why they have been studying the markets of the world so industriously. Expansion of all industries will surprise the Oregon optimist. Climate that permits of 12 months work in a year, the commerce of the Pacific and the development of Alaska all will tend to add to the population and create a home market for most products. Willamette falls, for instance, furnishes power to run Salem and Portland streetcars and trolleybuses, also lights their street homes and stores, and furnishes power to many industries. One plant on the Clackamas river furnishes 25,000 horse-power, another a mile further up stream is to furnish other 25,000. There is fall energy for several more. One small plant just put in by the Mt. Hood Electric road has a head of 680 feet. This is not horticulture but cheap electricity has been a large item in southern California and will be such in Oregon.

What of the future? One need not be a seer to foresee some of what is to come. Oregonians are happy in the thought that White saved Oregon and Washington to the United States and are not altogether sorry the English own British Columbia even if recent discoveries cloud their title for the line which marks the limit of the fruit zone not far south of the International monuments.
