ELOPED WITH A BARON

OF YELLOW VARIETY

CALIFORNIA SOCIETY WOMAN WHO HAS ENTERED A FAMILY OF THE HIGH NOBILITY OF JAPAN—IT IS ANYTHING TO GET A TITLE IN THE CIRCLES OF THE DEGENERATES.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Pasadena, Cal., Mar. 28.—From the society circles of Pasadena to membership in a family of the Japanese nobility is the experience of pretty Gwendolyn A. Whitman, who has eloped with E. I. Katow, a brother of Baron Katow of Yokohama, a member of the Japanese house of peers.

Despite the objections of Mrs. Whitman the couple secured a license, boarded the launch Fashion and were married at sea by the captain. Since then the mother of the girl, who is 18 years old, has forgiven her, and word has been received from Baron Katow that he will receive her in his family. Later the full Japanese rites will be performed in Yokohama.

Katow, who is a graduate of the Waseda college in Tokio, came to the Whitman home a year ago with letters of introduction to the family. He was on his way to continue his studies at Yale college, but he fell in love with Miss Whitman at first sight and decided to remain in Pasadena.

HOME SEEKERS POUR IN

FILLING THE CITY

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY FROM ONE TOWN COMING TO SALEM—STREAM OF NEW PEOPLE GROWING LARGER EVERY DAY—HOTEL ARRIVALS INCREASE DAY BY DAY AND MANY COME TO STAY.

Boosters! How's this? One hundred and fifty-five homeseekers to visit Salem as the result of the independence of W. J. Collins, an ex-Oregonian of Volant, Pennsylvania. The board of trade is, this morning, in receipt of a letter from Collins stating that 50 colonists have promised him to visit Salem sometime this spring or fall if the literature they have asked for corroborates his statements about the Willamette valley. Twenty-five will positively leave the east on April 12, and will visit the state of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, but making a special visit to Salem. Fifty more have also promised to come on a tour of inspection, but have, as yet, not decided just when they will be able to come. Mr. Collins has carried on an independent campaign for Salem ever since he received work that the boosting was begun in earnest. He was well-known in the Willamette valley, where he worked as a telegraph lineman. He was enticed back to the home of his father's in Pennsylvania, but he is coming back west and states in this regard, "I would not live here if they gave me the whole country."

The board of trade is in receipt of telegraphic advice from E. L. Lomax, general passenger agent at Omaha, Nebraska, for the Southern Pacific company, stating that the large supply of colonist folders on Salem sent the advertising bureau of the company, has been exhausted and that they are in immediate need of 5000 more as the demand of interested persons is enormous.

A steady stream of home and business seekers continues to pour at an increasing rate into the city with the probability of a still greater increase when the large contract for advertising let by the board of trade day before yesterday is put into force. The following registered at the board of trade rooms during the past two days: A. O. and O. E. Peterson of Lawrence, Iowa; E. D. Alexander, George Spantol, W. A. Weddle and Charles Streff, of Stanton; F. W. Henderson, of Portland; W. D. Davis and George C. Davis, of Washington, Kansas; M. C. Honaker, of Viroqua, Wisconsin; R. D. May, Alfred A. Smith and C. M. Culbreth, of Astoria.

Alfred A. Smith, of Astoria, mentioned above was a resident of Salem 25 years ago and was astounded at the progress made in the improvement here, especially in the wide-awake interest beginning to be shown by Salemites.

Names registered at the Willamette are: H. E. Bickens, of Pendleton; Robert Holbrook, of Spokane; R. A. Reickert, of Sacramento, Cal.; F. Mullin, of Los Angeles, Cal.; F. O. Kyle, of Tirokna, Texas; R. W. Moore, of Boise; E. Peyton, of Red-

DYNAMITE USED AT DENVER

ON GENERAL WELLS

ANTI-FEDERATION LEADER WHO WAS SLATED TO BE KILLED BY HARRY ORCHARD—VICTIM HAD A NARROW ESCAPE FROM INSTANT DEATH WHILE SLEEPING IN HIS BED AT HOME.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Denver, Colo., Mar. 28.—An attempt was made early today by unknown persons to dynamite the residence of General Bulkley Wells, general manager of the Smuggler Union mines at Telluride.

General Wells was regarded by the Western Federation of Miners as one of their bitterest enemies in the troubles of a few years ago. At that time he was in command of the state troops called out to suppress the mine troubles.

Wells was one of the men whom Harry Orchard confessed to having tried to kill.

Late this afternoon it was admitted that while General Wells is not dangerously wounded, his injuries are much more painful and serious than the first reports seemed to indicate.

He was rendered unconscious and when he came to his senses it was found that he had been rendered deaf. It is believed, however, that this trouble is only temporary. His face and head were badly lacerated and he suffered painful bruises about the body, but so far as can now be told he was not internally injured and no bones were broken.

Late this afternoon the police arrested one suspect but they decline to state whether the man is a miner, or to give out any information as to his identity.

General Wells' escape from instant death was little short of miraculous. He was sleeping on an outer porch, as has been his custom. It is supposed that the would-be assassins knew this as the bomb was placed almost directly beneath his bed.

The explosion hurled the general high in the air and he struck, stunned, but not badly injured, several feet from the house. The side of the building was torn completely away, and portions of the bed which Wells was sleeping were picked up 500 feet from the house.

The outrage was perpetrated shortly before daylight, and as the home is in a residence section that is thoroughly policed, and as the portico stands in the full glare of an electric light, there is much speculation as to how the plotters were enabled to pull off their work undetected.

Those at the Salem hotel are: F. W. Lahill, of Santa Rosa, Cal.; I. F. Cherry, of Atlanta, Ga., and M. S. Shock, of Hubbard.

BOMB THROWN IN NEW YORK

AT POLICE SQUAD

RIOTING FOLLOWS A FORBIDDEN LABOR PARADE—CLASH WITH CITY POLICE AND FATAL MEELEE TAKES PLACE—ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED LIABLE TO PLUNGE CITY INTO GREAT DISORDER.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 New York, Mar. 28.—Two men were killed and a score of persons were injured when a bomb was thrown this afternoon during a labor riot following a demonstration in Union Square.

The dead men are: Selig Silverstein, who threw the bomb, and a starving unknown workman, who stood at his side. The injured include labor demonstrators, policemen and women shoppers, who were struck by flying pieces of the bomb or trampled upon in the panic which followed. The police had charged the crowd which was attempting to parade with no license, and was breaking it up by clubbing heads indiscriminately. Silverstein was standing on a park bench watching the riot. A policeman swung a club and lay open the scalp of a laboring man directly in front of him. A platoon of police was charging directly down upon the spot where he stood.

With a shrill curse, that rang above the turmoil and roar of the riot, Silverstein jerked a bomb from his pocket and waved it above his head.

People fell back horrified. A parader standing near yelled, "My God man. Don't do that."

Even as he spoke, however, Silverstein, with a wild gleam in his eye, started to hurl the missile aiming it so that would have fallen directly in front of the advancing police. As he did so, however, the bomb slipped from his fingers and dropped to the cement pavement directly at his feet.

He was literally blown to pieces. Standing by Silverstein's side at the time, and the only one who did not try to flee when the bomb thrower raised the deadly missile above his head, was an unknown workman, thin, shabbily clad and evidently starving. The explosion tore him to pieces and he dropped without uttering a sound.

An indescribable panic followed. The iron bench on which the bomb thrower stood was blown to pieces. A great hole was torn in the cement sidewalk. Huge plate glass windows on all sides of the square and high in the skyscrapers were shattered and fell with a crash into the streets adding to the list of injured and the general panic.

The trouble resulted when the police, under command of Inspector Burgind, acting under orders from headquarters, attempted to arrest the leaders of the demonstration for starting a parade for which a permit had been refused by the police.

The paraders rushed to the rescue of their leaders and the officers drew their clubs and charged the

GREAT TRIUMPH OF SURGICAL ART

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 New York, Mar. 28.—A remarkable operation involving the transfusion of the blood of a father into the veins of his 5-day-old child, suffering from an attack from purpura, has just been successfully performed in the Rockefeller institute and is attracting considerable attention.

When the infant was brought to the Institute Dr. Alexia Carroll, after an examination, declared the tiny patient was a victim of purpura, which means a weakening of the walls of the arteries, allowing blood to escape to all parts of the body. The surgeon said that transfusion of blood would be the only means of saving the child's life.

Dr. V. S. Lambert, the father, volunteered to supply it. One of his arteries was connected with the baby's blood vessels, the beneficial effect being almost instantaneous.

The child is on the road to recovery and is gaining flesh rapidly.
